

Eat and Get Thin

This is turning an old phrase face about modern methods of reducing fat has made this revision possible. If you are overweight and also averse to physical exertion and likewise fond of the table and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Co., 381 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and give him (or send them) 76 cents. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure. He will hand you a large case of Marmola (Prescription), one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat at the rate of 12 to 15 ounces a day. That is all. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully and without a doubt that fatty flesh will quickly take up its wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

Smuttless Grain and Scabless Potatoes

The parasitic diseases of grain, potatoes, etc., are known to be due to spores or germs planted with the seed. An efficient means of prevention is also known and that is the treatment of all seeds with a solution of formaldehyde. We provide a guaranteed quality, and all desired information can be afforded to take chances on seed grain or potatoes when security against smut and other diseases can be had at such trifling costs. For those who prefer to supply blue-stem for grains and corrosive sublimate for potatoes. These are effective also but lack some of the merits of the formaldehyde treatment.

ABBOTT BUYS BLOCK

W. A. Wasson Sells Two-Story Brick Building at 3 West Main Street to Tenant, Abbott & Son, for $16,000.

W. A. Wasson today closed a transaction by which he sold to L. C. Abbott for the firm of Abbott & Son, the business block at 3 West Main street. The price paid was $16,000. The property consists of the lot 20x180 and a two-story brick building, the width of the lot.

The Abbott & Son store leased the building of Mr. Wasson about a year ago, and since then it has occupied the first floor of it. At the time the lease was made Mr. Abbott took an option for the purchase of the property.

WRECK DELAYS WEDDING.

Miss Winn, One of Waterloo Victims, Was to Have Married Soon.

The Waterloo Times-Tribune says: "Although the wedding ceremony had been definitely decided upon, it is known among the friends of Miss Florence Winn, who was seriously injured on March 21 in the Rock Island wreck near Gladbrook, that she and Leo Forhan, formerly a Waterloo boy, but now residing in St. Paul, where he is in the employ of the Buckee-Mears Engraving Company, were planning on being married about the middle of April.

"On account of it being necessary that Miss Winn remain in the hospital at Marshalltown for about three weeks longer, the engagement may be continued until this fall some time. Miss Winn is a favorite in her set among the young people of the city. She has been in the employ of the Iowa Telephone Company for some time as a stenographer, where she is well liked by all her associates."

REPUTATION OR VALUE?

A Higher Price Does Not Always Obtain Increased Value.

Paying ten to fifteen dollars more for a suit in a larger city does not mean you obtain better service or higher values.

We have the same facilities for obtaining the highest grade of workmanship, the newest and best grade of fabrics, keeping in touch with modern methods and style, as the larger city tailoring establishments.

The man who is painstaking in the selection of his cloth—who recognizes the real worth of a well made garment with which is combined the best features of present day style, will appreciate the fact that our fabrics and linings, the tailoring and fitting qualities of our finished garments are unequalled in the market where you pay.

If you pay more than we ask you pay the difference for the name of the maker, not for the value of the made. A. PSENICKA.

Golf Again.

A golfer, on an early winter day on the links at a southern resort, said, after a drive: "The last time Allan Lard, the Washington crack, was here, there was an amusing story told about him. Mr. Lard and a companion sat beside the next putting green. A high bunker hides it from us, as you see. Well, over the bunker came a ball, it trickled gently over the green, and plopped—it disappeared in the hole. "Then two golfers and a caddy crossed the bunker. They began to look for the ball. "I'm sure you overran the green," said one. "Nothing of the kind," said the other. "I pulled it a little. We'll find it here to the left." "But they failed to find it," and after a long search they appealed to the quiet watchers on the bench. "Did you see a ball?" they asked. "Yes," said Mr. Lard calmly. "It rolled into that little hole." "Amazed, the men started. "Well, why on earth didn't you tell?" they cried. "Why," said Mr. Lard, in a surprised tone, "I thought that was where you meant it to go!" time copy.

Seed Money.

The annual free distribution of garden seeds, tons upon tons of them, are now being sent out by congressmen to voters and others in the home district. Like most other things which cost the government nothing—except the asking—the gift is but lightly regarded. And does anyone suppose, for no one claims, that the 1910 supply of cabbages, tomatoes and Hubbard squash would be any less plentiful or of inferior quality if this distribution had been omitted for one year? The yearly distribution includes some thirty-five million packages of garden and flower seeds and costs a quarter of a million dollars. In addition the postoffice department has to transport and handle hundreds of tons, which, by the way, explains where part of the deficit occurs.

Queen's Favorite Stones.

Queen Alexandra said the other day in the presence of many friends that of all her jewels her favorites are the emeralds she wears on state and other great occasions. She considers emeralds far more beautiful than diamonds or any other stones, and has always been greatly interested in the collection possessed by the marchioness of Londonderry, whose emeralds are said to be the finest set ever got together by any individual. Next to emeralds, Queen Alexandra prefers diamonds, and following these in her favor come white and pink pearls and then rubies.

The princess of Wales, and the princess royal plate rubies first, and both possess fine chains of these gems as well as earrings and tinas of rubies and diamonds. Princess Victoria, on the other hand, prefers diamonds, and has some handsome ornaments set with these stones. Princess Patricia is almost alone among the royal ladies in confessing to a preference for turquoise and pearls.

Adulterators Even Than.

Senator Dewey, apropos of Lincoln's birthday, said at a dinner in Washington: "When Lincoln, a struggling lawyer, was doing circuit duty in Ohio, he once visited a county town where the general storekeeper had the reputation of adulterating his cider, even to the danger point. "In the midst of a general condemnation of this storekeeper Lincoln rose one night from his seat by the hotel stove. "Come on, boys," he said. "And he led a party of a half-dozen lawyers and judges to the general store. "Let me have a quart of cider," he said to the storekeeper. "Yes, sir," was the cordial reply. "And which glass?" "The ripest at 3 cents; the mellow, at 2, or the now, at 1." "It doesn't matter which grade mister, Lincoln drawed. I only want to poison a dog."

Two Interpretations.

"Jones is a great chap, isn't he?" "Always struck me as being rather peculiar." "Why, I never found him so." "Let me illustrate. The other evening he and his wife were discussing household and in the course of the comment he made some jocular remark about the holes in his socks. This made his wife angry. She said she spent half of her time mending for him. Jones is not disposed to quarrel and he dropped the subject, but the next morning after he had gone downtown his wife found a pair of socks on a chair in the bedroom. Attached to them was a piece of paper on which was written this ambiguous sentence: "Darn these holes, anyway!" And she has been trying ever since to decide whether to laugh or cry."

Disappointing.

"I'm disappointed!" "Why, Aunt Jane! What's the matter?" "Matter enough! Just to think that I've attended the way to Washington to see the work of the framers of the constitution, and now I'm here the thing ain't half as pretty as the frame on your Uncle Bill's picture that hangs in the back parlor at home!"

Mike—There are some disadvantages in being a millionaire.

Jenny—For instance? "Well, millionaires are continually getting letters threatening them with all sorts of awful fates unless they immediately pay the writers large sums of money." "That's nothing. I get just such letters every month."

An Aggressive Fight Wins

IN one Iowa town of not more than 3,000 inhabitants a department store is conducted with great success and is making good money for its owners. This, in spite of the fact that there is a thriving and growing city of four times its population nearby. A good stock of goods, good business methods and an aggressive advertising campaign were the contributing factors in building up this remarkable
