DELEGATE CAME IN FRUIT HARVESTING. California Oranges Picked by Experts

There is no crop in the world that is handled so tenderly as oranges, according to the latest government report on the industry.

First the fruit is carefully taken from the trees by expert picking crews. Then great pains are taken in the sorting, the choicest oranges of all being set aside to be placed in "bumper" wrappers.

Before being wrapped, however, the fruit is "washed" all the moisture being absorbed from the skin. Then comes the polishing process, after which the choicest oranges are placed upon soft pads to prevent bruising. A few minutes later they are packed, "bumper" wrapped and shipped to the consumer.

The property was bid in by Harry F. McCombs for $5,200, and it was presumed that the sale had been made. When the question of giving title came up it was found that Mrs. Dunn could not transfer the property, as her interest in it consists of only a life interest.

This interest was bequeathed to her by her father, Henry Forney when he died in 1906. The will so provides and it also provides that if she has children that the property shall go to them, if not it goes to the other heirs of the estate.

ELKS' DEDICATION SET FOR MAY 9

EXERCISES, BANQUET AND MAY PARTY FEATURES OF BIG EVENT.

GRAND LODGE WILL BE REPRESENTED

Mayor Ingledue, Exalted Ruler, Will Name Committees to Have Charge of the Function, Next Week - Affair Will Be One of the Largest Ever Held in Local Lodge Circles.

Monday, May 9, was fixed Friday night by Marshall Lodge, No. 312, B. P. O. E., as the date of the dedication of the new $40,000 Elks' building in this city. The affair will be one of the largest ever held in local lodge circles, and will command the attention of Elksdom throughout Iowa.

The grand lodge will be represented at the exercises, and an invitation will be extended to every lodge in Iowa. It is not known as yet who will represent the grand lodge, but an effort will be made to have Grand Exalted Ruler J. U. Samanis, of LeMars, present.

The dedicatory service, which will be carried out according to the ritual of the order, will be followed by a banquet and a party.

Mayor O. L. Ingledue, exalted ruler of the lodge, will name the committees to have charge of the affair next week.

GET TOGETHER ON CHANNEL. Council, Supervisors and Land Owners Meet in Capitol Building.

The straightening of the channel of the Iowa river for a distance above the dam on Center street, was revived this morning when the committee from the city council, the board of supervisors and the land owners met in conference.

Further than to appoint a committee, consisting of Chairman E. B. Emes, of the board, and Mayor O. L. Ingledue, no action was taken. The two members of the committee will choose a third from the list of land owners, and the three will report at another joint meeting at some time in the future. The date was not fixed.

One plan, and the one favored by the board of supervisors and the land owners, is to dig a ditch almost due west from the Center street bridge to the end of the first bend east of the soldiers' home grounds. This would eventually turn the water of the river into the new channel, which would be practically all north of the old river bed.

The other plan, and the one favored by the city council, is to open a ditch to the southwest from just southwest of the Nelson ice houses thru the Patterson, Duffield and Cole land and tap the river very near the mouth of Brady creek, which empties into the river just east of what was formerly the site of the Mitchell property.

It is estimated that the cost of the actual work under both plans would be about the same. The price is fixed at about $500, but it is contended that the plan favored by the city would require more expensive because of the damages that would have to be paid to Cole. Following the city's plan quite a large acreage of the Cole land would eventually be on the north side of the new river channel.

The city's plan contemplates the building of a boulevard along the new channel from Center street to the soldiers' home. The expense of digging the new channel is to be borne by the city, the county, and property owners along the river who hope the new channel will prevent flood water from overflowing their land.

VANDALS AT WORK. Thieves Cut All Blossoms From Payne Tulip Bed.

A few days ago Dr. W. C. Payne and wife, 211 West State street, were gladdened by the blossoming of their bed of beautiful tulips, the first spring flowers to peep out of the ground. Friday night some miscreant entered the Payne yard and cut every blossom between fifty and 100. When the discovery was made by Dr. and Mrs. Payne this morning there was real grief in the household, for the doctor and his wife think everything of their flowers. There is no clue as to who committed the act of vandalism.

DOESN'T PAY TO LEAVE. J. F. Prazak Buys Back Former Home at Advance of $225.

Then Prazak intended to leave the city and settle in the far west. After making his western trip he decided that he did not want to leave Marshalltown. Friday, after a long and unsuccessful search for a house, he bought back his former home of Tony Heur, at an advance of $225 over what Heur paid for it less than a month ago.
