During the hot summer months one finds the greatest comfort in spending the evenings on the porch. To thoroughly enjoy the evenings out-of-doors one wants comfortable porch furniture. Our porch furniture is not only comfortable but substantial and neat in appearance as well. Marion Gard.

Nearly 200 patronized the supper served Wednesday evening at the church by the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid Society. A big sale was held in connection with the supper, and the entire affair was a decided success. Music was also enjoyed. Elizabeth Canaday, Marjorie Newcomer and Marian Morrissey giving piano numbers.

The last show this season is a musical farce comedy in three acts, which keeps the audience convulsed with laughter for over two hours. The play was created for laughing purposes only and for this it certainly makes good. If there are any lovers of clean fun and catchy music they should see this musical foollishness, entitled, "Ma's New Husband," which will be presented at the New Odeon Sunday evening. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents.

President W. H. Gilbert of the Central Iowa Business College, left Wednesday evening for Omaha, where he will be in attendance at the annual joint convention of the Western Commercial School Managers' Association and the Central Commercial Teachers' Association. The funeral of Miss Mamie C. Dougherty, of Marion township, was held from the Church of the Brethren in Marion township, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services, which were in charge of Rev. F. M. Wheeler, was largely attended. Interment was in the Iowa River Valley cemetery.

The reference in these columns Wednesday to the social affair given for the members of the Glick school track team, was in error insofar as was concerned the statement that teachers of the school gave the affair for the boys. The pupils of the seventh grade entertained the members of the track team, and the teachers were among the guests.

Mr. Carl Hausafus, 1010 South Center street, was made the recipient of a pleasant surprise Wednesday evening, his wife having invited in thirty-two friends to help celebrate his 24th birthday anniversary. Mr. Hausafus was well remembered with gifts, and an evening of cards and other games and music, was enjoyed. Mrs. Hausafus served light refreshments.

Mrs. Matilda Brown was hostess Wednesday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. L. Hoag, 105 North First street, to the W. R. C. Aid Society. Memorial Day being so near, flags were given as decorations, and tiny flags were given as favors. Following the business session a social hour and refreshments were enjoyed. Mrs. Brown was assisted in waiting upon the company by Mrs. A. Higgin and Mrs. Emma Wathery.

Miss Selma Eckhardt, who is soon to leave for Winthrop, Minn., to make her home with an uncle, was the guest of honor at a farewell party given by her schoolmates at the home of Mrs. Harry Phelps, 203 South First street, Wednesday afternoon. A company of twenty-one girls gathered to bid Miss Eckhardt good-bye, and the hours were pleasantly spent with music, recitations, and songs. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Phelps, and the honored guest was given a number of pretty presents.

Personal Liberty League Points to City Causes and Securing Judgeship Delegation as Illustration of What Can Be Accomplished by "Sticking Together."

The Personal Liberty League held a meeting Wednesday night in the east court room, when George Wambach, an attorney from Des Moines, addressed an audience of about forty.

The only real sensation of the meeting was the advice of Frank Friedersdorf, a local life insurance man, who told the league that it should adopt Tammany methods and stick together.

Friedersdorf gave as an illustration of what could be accomplished by "sticking together," the result of the caucuses for the judgeship on Tuesday evening, when he claimed "we nominated the judge."

Mr. Friedersdorf opened his remarks by reporting as a committee on captains of the district wards. He got as far as naming Charles Smith, in the first, when George Herman interrupted him and suggested that the captains not be made public.

Mr. Wambach, in his address, said that he made it a point never to argue against the saloon because the argument of the anti-saloon people appealed to sentiment rather than reason. He said that no one should be permitted to dictate to him what he should eat and drink and that he would rather have the injuries than the necessities of life. He said that if all there was in life were the necessities, they were not worth working and living for.
