

When Your Hair Is Dry and Dusty

(From New York Herald.) Mme. Theo doesn't believe in washing the head too often. Said she: "Too much wetting makes the hair coarse and brittle and in time it loses its color and becomes thin from use of too much soap and water."

John Dickson, one of the early pioneers of the county, and a resident of the county continually for fifty-six years, died at 1 o'clock this afternoon at his home, 1110 West Main street, of old age. Mr. Dickson would have been 91 years old on June 16 next, and with his aged wife celebrated the sixty-fourth anniversary of their marriage on Jan. 1 last. Mr. Dickson had been confined to the house for about a month. John Dickson was born in Greene county, Pennsylvania, June 16, 1819, and on Jan. 1, 1846, claimed as his bride Catharine A. Boylan, of the same county, who was born Oct. 27, 1827, and who survives him. In the spring of 1854 Mr. and Mrs. Dickson came to Iowa, and settled in this county, Mr. Dickson buying 540 acres of government land on Asher creek, seven miles northwest of this city in Taylor township. The land grants bear the signature of Franklin Pierce, as president of the United States. Saw Real Pioneer Days. There was then no railroad in the state, and Mr. Dickson cut logs and hauled them to a saw mill to get lumber with which to build a house, which still remains as a landmark in that neighborhood. His nearest neighbor to the east was then ten miles away. Indians were frequent visitors. Deer were quite plentiful, a few elk, wolves were numerous, and prairie chickens abounded by the thousands. In hunting the latter game Mr. Dickson has bagged as many as nine in a single shot. Marietta was then the county seat and the largest and most flourishing town of the county, and Marshalltown was just beginning to command attention. Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson improved their farm and lived on it for thirty-three years. Twenty-three years ago they moved to Marshalltown, which has since been their home. Head of Large Family. Mr. and Mrs. Dickson have many descendants, including eight children, twenty-seven grandchildren, and sixteen great grandchildren. The children are J. V. Dickson, of Boise, Idaho; Mrs. Cordelia Cornell, of Ottumwa; Mrs. Vernissa Emes, of Twin Falls, Idaho; J. H. Dickson, of Iantaha, Mo.; Mrs. Elizabeth Cozens, of Albano, Col.; Mrs. Minerva Brush, Melzar M.
