

SCRATCHED HEAD TILL IT WAS RAW

Eczema Broke Out on Baby's Head Causing All Her Hair to Fall Out - Could Not Sleep - Spread of Fearful Disease Averted and Easy, Economical Cure Effected, for

A FRIEND ADVISED USE OF CUTICURA

"When my little girl was four months old her head broke out with eczema. I tried everything but nothing did her any good. She could not sleep at night and she did nothing but scratch her head, which was like a raw piece of meat. All of her hair fell out. A friend of mine told me about Cuticura and the good it did for her little boy. After the first cake of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and my little girl's head is cured. Her hair is growing fine and long and her skin is like velvet. Friends say that my quick action in using the Cuticura Remedies kept the eczema from spreading all over her body.

"I still use the Cuticura Soap and always keep a box of Cuticura Ointment in the house. I used them for my hands, which were so badly chapped that the skin would crack and bleed. I would cry with pain. My hands are entirely cured now. You certainly have my permission to publish this letter in any paper, for I know how wonderful Cuticura is. Mrs. F. Davis, 209 E. Indiana St., Chicago, Ill., Jan. 18, 1909."

Itching Devils

Are little patches of eczema on the skin, scalp or hands which are instantly relieved and speedily cured, in the majority of cases, by warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings of Cuticura Ointment, purest and sweetest of emollients.

TO BE NO HEDGING

PROGRESSIVES TO WRITE STATE PLATFORM ON WHICH ALL FACTIONS CAN STAND.

ENDORSEMENT OF NATIONAL AND STATE ADMINISTRATIONS

Delegation in Congress Also Will Be Endorsed and Primary Law Also May Be Approved—National Leaders Continue to Misrepresent Real Sentiment and Conditions in Iowa.

Special to Times-Republican.

Des Moines, June 30.—The August 3 state convention will frame a platform on which all republicans can stand and open the way to harmony.

Every utterance will be that of sound, safe and sensible republicanism. The principles of the party may be, in part, reinstated and reiterated. There will be no dodging or hedging because of the calamities that have been hurled at the leaders of the party in Iowa. But it will be made plain that Iowa republicanism is genuine and of the kind that is just the same one year as another. There will be no doubt about it that the Iowa republicans, whatever may be the attitude of those in other states, are firmly committed to continuance of the progressive policies which have drawn to the party such great strength.

Nobody has written the platform; nobody has been delegated to write it; but that can be safely left to the men chosen in district caucuses to do the writing.

There will be, of course, endorsement of the national and state administrations, as has always been the custom in Iowa, for upon this point there has never been any doubt whatever at least as to the attitude of the majority faction in the state. They will also endorse the delegation at Washington for earnest and perhaps for successful efforts to make national legislation square with platform pledges, or in other words for insistence upon having the rights of their constituents considered in all legislation. There may be endorsement of the primary law, which is being assailed because of the efforts of its enemies to make it show up badly. But it is not likely that the convention will deal in anything other than the broadest generalities.

It is understood that a concerted effort is to be made in the standpoint county conventions to pass resolutions that will be heralded far and wide indicating the sentiment in Iowa. Probably in a few of the regular republican conventions of Saturday there will be resolutions adopted. But the regulars, or progressives, will generally leave the resolving for the state convention. It is evidently the plan of the factional leaders to misrepresent what the progressives intend to do and then afterwards to claim that they did not do what they wanted to do; but the regulars are too well versed in political tricks to be moved by any such small game. It may be anticipated that the state convention, fully in control of the republicans who have been for ten years leading the party into progressive paths, will be in line with the history of the party in state and in nation.

DRURY HEADS SCHOOL

Former Toledo Pastor Elected President of Oregon College.

Special to Times-Republican. Toledo, June 30.—The following from the Religious Telescope will be of interest to many readers: Dr. M. A. Drury, for three or four years pastor of the U. B. church of Oakland, Cal., was elected president of Plymouth College, Oregon, at its recent commencement. Mr. Drury had no knowledge that his name was being considered in connection with the presidency until notice of his election was received by Bishop Bell. The matter is taken under advisement. If the position is accepted the new president will bring a large general experience and marked energy to our educational interests on the coast. Mr. Drury will be remembered as the faithful pastor for thirteen years of the United Brethren church of Toledo.

CODE COMMISSIONER ILL

Veteran Iowa Attorney Dangerously Sick at Iowa City Home.

Special to Times-Republican. Iowa City, June 30.—Hon. Charles Baker, code commissioner of Iowa, is dangerously ill at his home here. His heart is affected. Mr. Baker is one of the foremost attorneys of the state and his work as code commissioner has made him especially well-known throughout Iowa, among the lawyers and laymen. He is in his 68th year and has practiced forty-four years at Marengo, before locating here. He served in the Fourth Wisconsin regiment through the civil war, and in command of a company of scouts. He was imprisoned at Fort Tyler, Tex., toward the end of the war, and was there when the conflict ended. He has a wife and four sons, Attorney H. C. Baker, of the Chicago Daily News; Dr. E. B. Baker, attorney; Irving Baker and Marcus Baker, all of Chicago.

IOWA GEOLOGIST DEAD.

Dr. Charles A. White, Former State Official, Expires in Washington. Washington, June 30.—Dr. Charles A. White, scientific associate of the late Professor Langley of the Smithsonian Institution, a member of many scientific societies in this country and Europe and author of numerous scientific publications, died at his home here last night. The greater part of his writings were on geology and paleontology. Dr. White who was born in North Dighton, Mass., was for a time professor of natural history in the State University of Iowa and in Bowdoin College. For four years he was state geologist of Iowa.

REDMAN GETS REWARD.

Sum of $700 Offered for Junkin Goes to Ottumwa Pawnbroker. Ottumwa, June 29.—The returning of a ruling yesterday by Judge C. W. Vermillion of Centerville in the Redman-Phillips case, better known as the Junkin reward case, created no little interest. The finding of the court is that Jacob Redman is entitled to the sum of $700, as the reward offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Clara Rosen, Feb. 5, 1909, and for the commission of which the murderer John Junkin, will hang at Ft. Madison penitentiary July 29.

Perhaps the greatest interest attaches not so much in the reward being awarded to the pawnbroker Redman, but to the fact that Mayor T. J. Phillips is held by the ruling to be personally liable for the $500 offered by him as mayor the day following the crime. The $100 paid by C. O. Nelson, a brother-in-law of the murdered girl, to the party to whom the court should make the award, as well as the $100 given thru the mayor by Dr. D. C. Brockman whose name was withheld at his request in the offer, is awarded Mr. Redman. The costs of the case are also to be borne by the defendant, Phillips, with Nelson and Brockman, where they have been responsible for any cost to plaintiff Redman.

BODY SPLIT IN TWAIN.

Walter Tankersly, Rock Island Fireman, Meets Frightful Death.

Muscatine, June 30.—Literally ground to pieces beneath the wheels of a big Rock Island engine, the body of Walter A. Tankersly was brought into Muscatine and turned over to the coroner late yesterday. Mr. Tankersly had been employed as fireman on the engine of a construction train which has been operating in this section of Iowa since last September, and his death was accidental. The accident occurred four miles from town on a siding.

Fireman Tankersly was not warned and was under the train when the blow came. He could escape in no way and was caught under the wheels of the big engine and killed instantly. The wheels first caught him on the shoulder, and traversed the whole length of his body, literally slashing him in two. One leg was also cut off below the knee, the hip bone was splintered and the right arm was broken. The body was taken to Cedar Rapids, where a wife and two children reside.

"SANE" FOURTH WILL DRAW.

Many From Distance Anxious to See Tryout at Eldora.

Special to Times-Republican. Eldora, June 30.—Many people from a distance are making preparations to spend the Fourth of July in Eldora and enjoy the novelty of celebrating a "safe and sane Fourth." There will be everything to attract at the Eldora celebration, but all the elements that go to make the day a sorrow to many have been eliminated. All ball fans will have an opportunity to witness two games of ball between the two fastest teams playing independent professional ball in the state, Eldora and Charles City. While a regular celebration is all right, there are many who say there is nothing to it except a lot of tramping around. Eldora affords a safe and sane celebration with concerts, professional ball games and other attractions that go to make up a real Fourth. At noon there will be a basket picnic at Riverside park.

Mr. B. F. Kelley, Springfield, Ill., writes: "A year ago I began to be troubled with my kidneys and bladder, which grew worse until I became alarmed at my condition. I suffered also with dull, heavy headaches and the action of my bladder was annoying and painful. I read of Foley Kidney Pills and after using them a few weeks the headaches left me, the action of my bladder was again normal, and I was free of all distress." McBride & Will Drug-Company.

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY.

Night Yardmaster Ball, Waterloo, Whose Wife Died Recently, Expires. Waterloo, June 30.—The death of L. S. Ball, night yardmaster for the Illinois Central, occurred at the home of his sister, Mrs. S. A. Barrett, Wednesday morning.

The farmer who owns this home is not satisfied with merely his plows and harrows and harvesters and his wagons. His extra prosperity started at the point where most farmers leave off.

He has two I. H. C. Gasoline Engines. One of them is stationary—it pumps water to the two tanks that supply his house and his barn, virtually giving him a city waterworks and a fire department.

The other is portable (on wheels). It runs an I. H. C. Cream Harvester and makes his wife a butter and cream merchant. It chops the feed. It turns the cider mill and saws his wood. It runs I. H. C. shellers and shredders.

This farmer realizes that profitable crops can only be secured through proper fertilization. With an I. H. C. Manure Spreader, he makes every pound of manure cover far more ground than when he laid it on with a pitchfork. It shreds finely and shreds evenly, and so guarantees the same percentage of yield all over the field. It saves time and relieves him of the meanest features of one of the most important tasks of agriculture.

With his I. H. C. hay baler, he keeps his hay in prime condition and stores it in a convenient manner, with the added advantage that it is always fresh and sweet and clean and in such shape that he can market it when and where he can get the most money for it.

Not only has every one of these machines paid for itself over and over again, but, taken all together, they have raised the standard of this farmer's home life one hundred per cent. They have enabled him to cultivate bigger fields. They have given his family time to cultivate their minds and cultivate a lawn and made a home the superior in every important aspect to ninety-five per cent. of city homes. Every additional piece of such machinery that you put on your farm is taking another step towards this kind of a home. Visit the nearest I. H. C. agent or write direct for literature about any farm implement or machine which you may intend to purchase.

day morning. Mr. Ball had been feeling badly for the past six months owing to worry and loss of rest brought on by the sickness and death of his wife, who passed away at their home May 28.

Tuesday Mr. Ball reported for work and expected to return to his duty Wednesday after "six months" layoff. He was feeling stronger Tuesday and was out most of the day. After returning home he retired without saying anything that would indicate that he was feeling worse, and early Wednesday morning death came. Fatty degeneration of the heart is given as the direct cause. Three children survive.

HOTEL GUESTS SCARED.

Fire in Building Adjoining Des Moines Hostel Causes $85,000 Loss. Des Moines, June 30.—Fire which entirely gutted the building of Brinsmaid & Co., wholesale and retail China and glassware dealers, and threatened the Elliott Hotel and the building occupied by the Sol Wolk Clothing Company, started at 11 o'clock last night on the third floor of the Brinsmaid building and caused a loss of $85,000. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is thought that defective wiring started the blaze. Guests of the Elliott Hotel were badly frightened by the fire, but the management of the hotel succeeded in preventing a panic and all the guests were gotten out of the building without the slightest injury. George M. Christian, president of the hotel company, took personal charge of the work of getting the guests from the building. An alarm was sounded and all the roomers in the hotel were forced to vacate.

The blaze was confined by the fire department entirely to the Brinsmaid building, but water and smoke caused damage to the Elliott Hotel and to the building and stock of the Wolk Clothing Company. The Brinsmaid and Wolk buildings are owned by O. H. Perkins and the hotel buildings by the State Insurance Company. Both are fully insured.
