TWO MORE CIRCUS PEOPLE ILL.
Circus Has Doubtless Been Thru Typhoid Producing Zone.
That Ringling Bros. circus has, within recent weeks, been thru some typhoid fever producing zone, is indicated by the illness of three of the circus men at St. Thomas hospital, all of whom are suffering with well-defined cases of the disease.
Aside from Henry Marnitz, the member of the "upside down" musical acrobatic team, who was brought to the hospital yesterday from Oskaloosa, Ill. of the disease, two more of them have been hospitalized, and both of them have typhoid. The other patients are George W. Kealey, of New Haven, Conn., one of the oldest clowns with the circus, and in continuous service with Ringling Bros. for fifteen years, and E. L. Bayre, of Omaha, head ticket seller for the circus. The three cases have not progressed sufficiently as yet to indicate their severity, but all are typical cases.
Mrs. Albert Hodgini, of Berlin, the circus woman who gave premature birth to a son at the hospital, is doing nicely. The babe was buried in the Catholic cemetery in Riverside.

MR. BRIDE-FLANIGAN NUPTIALS.
Quiet Home Wedding Celebrated at 3:30 O'clock This Afternoon.
A pretty, quiet, home wedding was celebrated at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Emily Flanigan, 403 1/2 West Linn street, when Miss Elmyra M. Flanigan became the bride of Mr. Elmer E. McBride. Rev. C. H. Morris, of the Central Church of Christ, officiated, the ceremony taking place in the presence of about thirty immediate relatives and more intimate friends. The ring service was used.
The bride wore a pretty gown of white perline, with val lace trimmings, and carried yellow and white roses. Her going-away costume was of tan, with hat to match.
During the season of congratulations, Messrs. Frank and Ralph McBride, brothers of the groom, on the cornet and piano, played "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," "Some Day" and "O Promise Me." The guests were received by the bride couple. The color scheme was of yellow and white, the decorations consisting of golden rod and golden glow, white asters and carnations. One corner of the parlor was banked with the golden rod and golden glow, for the ceremony. The lunch following the ceremony was served by Misses Ethel and Blanche Flanigan, sisters of the bride.
Both Mr. and Mrs. McBride are prominent in Central Church of Christ circles, and have many friends. The bride has made her home here for about ten years and has been employed for the past year at the First National Bank, a stenographer. Mr. McBride is a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. McBride, of 508 North Fourth street, and is in the employ of the C. A. Dunham Company.
Mr. and Mrs. McBride left late this afternoon for Creston, where they will visit at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Hugh McAuley, for several days. On their return they will reside for the present with Mrs. McBride's mother.
Mr. Winfield Flanigan, of New York City, brother of the bride, was the only out-of-town guest.

NEW M. H. S. COACH OWNS HERO'S MEDAL
CITY GAINS AS RESIDENT MAN WHOSE DEED OF DARING WAS RECOGNIZED BY CARNEGIE.
WALTER O. ALLEN HELPED SAVE TWENTY-SEVEN LIVES
New High School Teacher and Athletic Coach Has Probably Only Hero's Medal Owned in the City—Flood at Athens, O., in 1907, Gave Allen Chance to Show What Was in Him.

Marshalltown has gained as a resident a young man whose deed of daring gained for him recognition and hero medal for saving lives at the risk of his own. The young man is Walter O. Allen, the new coach of the athletic work of the Marshalltown high school, and a science teacher in the school.
It might be well to add, to save any embarrassment on the part of Mr. Allen, that he is not seeking notoriety because of the fact that he acted when opportunity arose and showed the kind of stuff that was in him. Mr. Allen's interesting story happened to come to the Times-Republican thru a mutual friend, one who happened to see the medal in Mr. Allen's room. Naturally the friend asked questions, never having seen one of the much-talked-of hero's medals before, and from that came the story of how the medal happened to be awarded.

Helped Save Twenty-Seven Lives.
Mr. Allen came here from Athens, O., where he was formerly a student in college. It was while Allen was in college that the Hochhook river, swollen by heavy rains, went on a rampage on March 14, 1907, broke thru a dike, and poured down upon the lands. People were caught in their homes like rats in a trap, unable to save their possessions and in some cases their lives. Eight were drowned before the water subsided.
Altho he was not an oarsman Allen and a friend manned a row boat and started out to reach those whose lives were endangered. The two young men rowed over telegraph and telephone wires. Twenty-seven people were saved by the party of rescuers which included Allen and his friend.

Risked Own Lives For Two.
Two men who were about to give up the fight for their lives against the surging waters were rescued by Allen and his companion at the risk of their own lives, and it was for this deed alone that Mr. Carnegie awarded the medals. Mr. Carnegie's agent, hearing of the work of the two young college men, came to Athens, personally investigated the case, and awarded the medals to Allen and his friend for saving the two men at the risk of their own lives. It being one of the requirements of the fund that awards must be made in cases where life had been actually jeopardized in saving others. With each medal was $1,000 in cash, and this was likewise appreciated by the young man who was then finishing his college career.
Mr. Allen's medal is bronze, and is encased in plush. On one side is a likeness of the donor, in relief, with the scriptural quotation from John 15:13, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." On the other side are shown which the awards was made, and the date when performed, and the names of the men whose lives were saved.
