A very delightful meeting of the members of the study class of the Twentieth Century Club, and a few of their friends, was held Saturday afternoon, instead of today, at the home of Mrs. H. J. Howe. The feature of the afternoon was a fascinating talk by Miss Fannie Quale, on "Home and Haunts of George Eliot." The fact that Miss Quale has visited the places whereof she spoke, added interest to her talk. She spoke particularly on "Nuneaton," the place where the celebrated authoress lived, and of the characters in the first three stories of "Scenes From a Clerical Life." At the close of Miss Quale's talk, the hostess served a delicious English tea. During the next month, during which Mrs. Howe will be absent from the city, the study class meetings will be held at the home of Mrs. J. B. Simmons.

THE STEWART MEETINGS. Sunday Services Are Largely Attended—List of Sermons.

The meetings of the Presbyterian church are growing in interest and power. Dr. Stewart preached three excellent sermons yesterday, the house being well filled each time. At the evening service, almost every seat was taken.

In the morning, Dr. Stewart preached to parents from the text, "Bring up your children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." He struck straight with the truth. He deplored the sins of modern life which are the prolific cause for divorce, etc. He said there was a great lack of proper training of the children at home and that parents too largely delegated all training to the day school and Sabbath school teacher, and that the old way of taking the children to church and Sabbath school by the father and mother had been exchanged for sending the children to the day school.

At 3 o'clock, Dr. Stewart preached to mothers and daughters from the text, Psalms 114:12, "That our daughters might be as cedars of Lebanon." It was a strong presentation of a truth much needed at the present day. He said the daughters of our land can do and wield a powerful influence over our young men for good or evil. He rebuked the silly mother whose only ambition it is to have a daughter receive a superficial culture, but who is not in a certain kind of society and leave the daughter with no knowledge of housekeeping and real and lasting attainments which make a young woman of true beauty and grace.

In the evening, the text was from Luke 11:28, "Blessed are they that hear the word and keep it." He said that many were betraying Christ today as much as Judas. He stated that Judas had the same chance to be saved and made useful as the rest of the apostles. That he heard the sermon on the subject of the man who is own besetting sin but he went on untouched as many do today who have the same bible, the same churches, the same invitation to be saved as their neighbors yet they go on into eternal damnation. Judas refusing to repent and be saved.

Dr. Stewart closed with an earnest exhortation for persons to accept Christ. Five adults responded. The singing of Professor Wade was pleasing. The services continue each afternoon and evening.

AMUSEMENTS. "The Wizard of Wiseland" Proves Treat For Sunday Night Patrons.

"The Wizard of Wiseland," presented at the Odeon Sunday evening, to one of the largest Sunday night audiences of the season, proved a real treat, the company being a large and very capable one. The scenic effects and the costumes are all new, making the production a very pretty one.

At Phillips' local comedian of ability, was featured and made a big hit in the role of Key Goldenberg. The other leading roles were well interpreted by William A. Humerford, Ned Wilford, Lester Cuneo, Maria Nilson and Marguerite Devon.

The sixteen musical numbers were catchy and the chorus was far above the ordinary. One of the most pleasing features of the attraction was the work of the boiler chorus.
