

Times-Republican

Published Daily By The TIMES-REPUBLICAN PRINTING CO. TERMS: Evening edition by mail $5.00...

The Association of American Advertisers has examined and certified to the circulation of this publication...

THE SENATORSHIP

The question of the senatorship will soon be up to the legislature. It should elect and elect the best man.

GOING SOME

The following is a reprint from a weekly newspaper published in a city of 4,000 or 5,000 not more than an hour's run from the center of the state...

DES MOINES CALAMITY

Des Moines is the victim of a spreading typhoid epidemic. How many cases of the disease exist in the city is a matter mostly of guess work by published reports...

jealous over non-essentials while a city cowers under the shadow of the black plague, to play with the jackstraws of personal pique and juggle political dice...

Topics of the Times

Jim Hill says the people spend too freely. He must have been watching the crowds at the entrance to the cheap theater.

"Are women growing to be like men?" asks an exchange. Yes, and then some—in London.

In making up the census of Illinois, the enumerators, it seems, made no effort to classify as between the jack-potters and the common people.

It is said that the president is greatly puzzled to know what to say in his message to congress when it comes to the tariff. Perhaps it will occur to him to look thru Roosevelt's messages for a model in that respect.

Yes, and some of those senatorial candidates will not even get a complimentary vote.

At the recent election in Kansas the voters defeated a constitutional amendment for increased salaries for members of the legislature. The point is well taken. Statesmanship is thriving very well in Kansas, without further encouragement.

Champ Clark probably is among those who think that when a new congress is elected its time of convening should not be thirteen months off. That speakership still must seem quite remote.

The junior senator may be Young by name, and young in spirit, but he is an old hand at the game. It will be well to remember that.

As usual, there is talk of abolishing the offices of state printer and state binder, and, as usual, it will end in talk.

It is said that clothing originated with amulets and ornaments and was fostered by the love of display which it promoted. We take it that this didn't happen in Iowa in November.

President Diaz says peace prevails in Mexico. It is kind of the old gentleman to put us right on that point. There had been some doubt.

Another book on Napoleon has appeared. This, however, should not be held against the late emperor. He was not in a position to interfere.

The public at large get a glimpse of boy banditism in the newspapers. The boys get much of it direct from the moving picture show.

The sugar trust will help some of the boys to sell their manuscripts to the magazines.

IOWA OPINIONS AND NOTES

"There will be three factions in the legislature," says the Dubuque Times-Journal: "Cummins republicans, regular republicans, and democrats. None will have a majority. Therefore no election (for senator) can be accomplished except thru a combination of regular and Cummins republicans or a combination between one of these factions and the democrats."

The Mason City Globe-Gazette is bound to keep the senatorship inside the newspaper profession. "If Lafayette Young is to be the senator for the full short term," it says, "the newspaper men all over the state should insist that Harvey Ingham should have it."

"Will some one explain why we can buy Iowa creamery butter cheaper in New York City than we can in Iowa," asks the Iowa Falls Sentinel.

As nearly as the Nevada Representative can make out, "the senatorial drift, if there is any such drift, is in the direction of Attorney General Byrnes. There is apparent considerable reluctance except thru a combination of the 'progressives' to accept him as their candidate; but the alternatives proposed on that side are generally impossible, and upon the other hand the success of Senator Young as an aspirant for legislative endorsement is in the existing alignment of the Iowa factions utterly out of question."

The Fort Dodge Chronicle says "Senator Young has contributed his share to a divided republican party in Iowa, but now he wants the party to get together. Can you tell the reason why?" is the puzzle propounded.

"In our honest opinion the pictures and vaudeville that the people are kicking about at the picture shows, aren't so degrading or suggestive as some of the books that are published for our children to read at the public library," says the Shenandoah World.

"A great many people will hoot at this, but you hooters are the ones who like to read those kind of books."

"Holler" For Effect. (Indianapolis Journal.)

While it may be true, as the Railway Business Association says, that the big railroad supply industries will perish if an advance in freight rates is not allowed, it must be remembered that this catastrophe would probably affect the railroad men who hold stock in such organizations more than it would any of the various geographical districts of the state. In no other way can a fair deal and a square deal all around be assured.

a little different organization than at present exists, they might be forthcoming at lower prices.

Iowa Newspapers

MORE BABIES THAN DOGS. (Waterloo Reporter.) We fear Billy Sunday gave the women of Waterloo an unjust slap when he said they would be founding babies instead of poodles. There is scarcely a dog of that species in the city, while the school boards are driven to their wits end to find room for the constantly increasing myriads of kiddies.

DEMOCRATS AND CONGRESS

It is quite apparent that instead of the Sixty-second congress entering upon a deadlock, with the result that no legislation will be enacted, there will be far more legislation of a really practical nature than it was possible to act into law during the last session of congress. It has been a cardinal doctrine of the insurgents that the tariff must be revised downward, and as this has also been the democratic war cry, it ought to be regarded as almost certain there will be important tariff legislation during the present session, and the old one, if awake to the storm that has been sounded, will get busy.

BOOST THE TAX

The Gazette believes that so long as we have saloons, it is better to have a limited number of saloons placed at a high figure. High license is a method of handling the liquor traffic that has proved quite satisfactory. Restriction of the number of saloons means a possible better supervision of the business. It means that the dive will be more strictly supervised. It means the keeping of saloons in a certain district, and away from the residence districts. With fewer saloons the license can justly be larger. Viewed from the standpoint of revenue it is just as profitable to have thirty saloons, taxed $2,000 each as to have six saloons taxed $10,000 each. From every other viewpoint, as long as the saloon is recognized by law, and asked for by a majority of the people, it is advisable that there should be such restrictions as high license and a limiting of the number of grogshops. There still remains the advantage of increasing the number of hours a saloon shall be allowed to remain open.

BOOZE AND OUTSIDE BUSINESS

Things are getting lively down at Des Moines. A man can not walk a block on one of the business streets without being stopped and asked if he has signed one of the petitions that are being circulated regarding the saloon issue there.

Regardless of the merits of prohibition and license questions, it is high time Des Moines was doing something, either to end the present law, or kicking out the saloons.

The writer was in New York City last election night; we have been since then in Pittsburg, Cincinnati and Chicago, and then to Des Moines, and in one hour in Des Moines we saw more wickedness on the streets than we had seen all the time spent in the other cities mentioned.

One deplorable thing noticeable about Des Moines wickedness was that all parties seen under the influence of liquor were extremely young men, some of them boys, and the women seen on the street, evidently of the same immoral type, were extremely young women. Des Moines is becoming so wicked that the air and atmosphere is sickening, and the place is assuming the atmosphere of an old time western city, which even the latter class has abandoned.

The Booster Club of Des Moines and all other organizations that have for their purpose the building up of Des Moines will do well to see to it that the capital city is cleansed.

IOWA ASSEMBLY COMMITTEES

(Algonia Advance.) It is encouraging to note that the movement in the last congress to deprive the speaker of the power of appointing committees is spreading to state legislatures; and Iowans may take pride in the thought that Iowa is likely to lead in the reform.

Lieutenant Governor Clark's participation in the fight for Dooliver's shoes suggests that in the interest of good taste if nothing else he should voluntarily relinquish his right to appoint committees in the next state senate. And Representative Shankland of Des Moines announces that in the next house he will favor depriving the speaker of the powers.

If there ever was any reason why either of these officers should appoint the committees of the respective deliberative bodies over which they preside it has long since vanished. There is no more reason now why such should be the case than there is why they should dominate the fellow members in any other vital respects.

Thus their power in the appointment of committees the lieutenant governor and the speaker can and often exercise enormous influence over legislation. Originally it was doubtless thought that the inferior would be of such extraordinary ability as statesmen that the powers in question would be less subject to abuse in their hands than if put under the control of the whole body of the senate or house. On the same theory it used to be considered and still is in unenlightened countries that limited or absolute monarchies serve the needs of efficient and orderly government better than does popular rule.

But these government fetiches are now outworn. Iowa has not had a lieutenant governor or a speaker since her first assembly was organized who was in any marked degree the superior of his fellows. This is because in these later times the average man is much better qualified to cope with questions of government than was formerly the case. Today our lieutenant governors and our speakers can always be matched in experience and ability by at least half the members over whom they are set.

This being true it is ridiculous that a mere presiding officer, whose business it ought to be to preside and nothing more, should play the part of a czar in the important matter of committee assignments.

The committees of any and every deliberative body in the United States ought to be appointed by a committee on committees chosen by that body itself. In Iowa's legislature these committees on committees should be made up of members representative of the various geographical districts of the state. In no other way can a fair deal and a square deal all around be assured.

The Strawpile

Butter and the Soil. Expert butter tasters in France maintain that a flavor of the soil on which the cattle browse is always distinctly perceptible in butter, no matter what the peculiarities of the cows producing it may be. Normandy cows sent into Poltoun show a change in the flavor of their butter approaching that characteristic of the butter produced in that region, altho the resemblance is never complete. Thus they say that cows are different criss of wine, depending on peculiarities of soil and climate, so there are corresponding criss of butter arising from peculiarities of buttermaking and pasturage. The immediate influence of the soil is shown by the fact that not only have been reported to use the American stock, but also to produce more wine per acre than before the advent of the phylloxera.

precept upon precept." A measure of succulent food of some kind is of great value during this season of winter feeding. I would lay some stress upon ensilage if there were not those who would take the word and carry it too far. A reasonable amount of ensilage is certainly good in connection with that measure of corn. Ensilage is succulent. It will take the place of pasture when pastures can not be had. It will keep the digestive tract in a good normal condition, this is very important, as one can readily understand who has ever given the matter thought. Corn is good for animal heat and it also will furnish a measure of that which sustains vitality, but the brood sow will greatly relish another class of food which is found in the by-product of our great flouring mills and known as shorts, with some bran.

Shelter for the Brood Sow. This need not be very expensive unless indeed the raiser of swine can build him a hog house that will make it more convenient for him to care for his stock than under conditions which must exist where the cheap individual swine sheds are so frequently used. It is certainly very comfortable to be under a common roof, where the man who tends the hogs is not exposed for any time to the cold or storm. Aside from this, it is easy to furnish shelter for swine, and they will protect themselves very largely from the cold by reason of the fleshy condition that should be measurably maintained. They will make a good nest within their shelter where they can rest in comfort. Every man who keeps swine upon the farm should observe his herd and note carefully whether they have that degree of warmth which comes from the proper shelter, and if they do not, then make the necessary change so that they do not suffer from cold. The even cold of the great northers will work in his favor, provided only that he does not allow it to destroy the comfort of his herd and the steady appetite will always be ready to receive the food that he will give, which is indeed for the growth and permanent health of his herd.

Ice House For the Farm. Every farm should be provided with an ice house. The expense of such a building is small when compared to the luxury of having a refrigerator in the house and an ice box in the ice house, where meats may be kept fresh and sweet for several days or possibly weeks. There should be a co-operative exchange of fresh meats in every neighborhood, by which the entire community could save the expense of buying from the city butcher who is usually a customer of the gigantic meat trusts of our country.

The saving in the family where an ice box or refrigerator is installed amounts to much more than the cost of filling an ice house when business is usually slack on the farm. Home-made ice cream and lemonade are luxuries the children can enjoy where there is an ice house on the farm. In the event of sickness in the family, ice is often as important a medicine. This is especially true in the case of fevers and similar disease where ice packs and drinks are required.

The most serviceable ice houses are of concrete construction. These may be made from blocks of concrete or a solid wall put up inside of board forms. Where lumber is used, the wall should be double with a packing of sawdust between the walls. Good drainage is quite important as a good protection for the ice above ground. A building 12x16 feet is plenty large enough for an ice house on the farm. A single boarding will keep the ice from melting, provided plenty of sawdust is used between the boards and the ice as it is packed.

The writer has learned from experience that ice should go into the house during very cold weather. In fact, where several degrees of below zero weather keep in the condition during the summer. Best results are obtained where the ice is cut in large blocks and packed in snow, which will exclude openings between the cakes of ice. Don't attempt to pack ice in straw or coarse chaff because it will not keep in hot weather. Sawdust is cheap and will last for years as a packing. Build an ice house before winter.

The Beef Cow. The age to which a cow of the beef type can be profitably kept should be gauged largely by her character as a breeder. If she breeds regularly and rears good calves she should be kept in a reasonable old age. This will mitigate against the price which she will bring on the block when sold, but the lack will be much more than made up in the excellent character of the calves which she has produced. On the other hand, when a cow of this class is not possessed of promise as a successful breeder in the first and second calves which she produces, she ought to be run off to market with the first shipment that goes out. In the old days we used to see range cows that were regarded as none too valuable at 10 or 12 years of age and they could be depended upon for a calf every spring.—Field and Farm.

Outdoor Pumpkin Storage. Little benefit is derived from cramming pumpkins into hogs and cattle for a few days during the harvest season, then letting the animals do without this valuable feed for another whole year. The farmer can not spare cellar room in which to store a sufficient quantity of pumpkins for stock-feeding purposes, but he can follow this simple, inexpensive plan:

Arrange the pumpkins in a row, as high and as wide as desired, spread a little hay over them, set up fodder to a thickness of three or four feet, and your "golden fruit of the vine" is ready for the wintry blast. As you feed out the corn and fodder, let the juicy pumpkin lie there, and a profitable ration is available in the dead of winter. When most farmers' stock is dragging along on a single ration.—Agricultural Epitomist.

Take Care! Remember that when your kidneys are affected, your life is in danger. M. Mayer, Rochester, N. Y., says: "My trouble started with a sharp shooting pain over my back which grew worse daily. I felt sluggish and tired, my kidney action was irregular and infrequent. I started using Foley Kidney Pills. Each dose seemed to put new life and strength into me, and now I am completely cured and feel better and stronger than for years." McBride & Will Drug Company.

Preserve All Things. Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

could be depended upon for a calf every spring.—Field and Farm.

Outdoor Pumpkin Storage. Little benefit is derived from cramming pumpkins into hogs and cattle for a few days during the harvest season, then letting the animals do without this valuable feed for another whole year.

Arrange the pumpkins in a row, as high and as wide as desired, spread a little hay over them, set up fodder to a thickness of three or four feet, and your "golden fruit of the vine" is ready for the wintry blast.

Take Care! Remember that when your kidneys are affected, your life is in danger. M. Mayer, Rochester, N. Y., says: "My trouble started with a sharp shooting pain over my back which grew worse daily. I felt sluggish and tired, my kidney action was irregular and infrequent.

Preserve All Things. Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

Words are like coral, the dead houses of once living, fresh ideas. In them are preserved the history, romance and adventure of the human mind. They are full of old customs, imaginative conceits and tricky notions.

THE LODGES.

MASONIC NOTICES. Hall over 124-127 West Main. Visitors always welcome.

MARSHALL LODGE No. 10. A. F. & M. M. Stated communication and election of officers Dec. 14, at 7:30 p. m. George H. Boggs, B. H. P. R. W. Chamberlain, W. M. H. S. Lawrence, Secretary.

SIGNET CHAPTER No. 22. R. A. M. Stated convocation Nov. 21 at 7:30 p. m., election of officers; all are present. George H. Boggs, B. H. P. I. S. Millard, Secretary.

KING SOLOMON Council, No. 29. R. & S. M., Stated assembly, Monday, Dec. 19, 7:30 p. m. I. T. Forbes, Recorder. A. D. Meeker, T. L. M.

ST ALDEMAR COMMANDERY, No. 30. E. T. Stated convocation Tuesday evening, Dec. 20, 1910, at 7:30 o'clock. Sir knights be present if possible. F. M. Wilbur, E. C. Fred Wallace, Recorder.

CENTRAL CHAPTER No. 47. O. E. S.—Special meeting Wednesday evening, Dec. 7, 7:30 p. m. Mrs. George Downing, W. M. Edna C. Fullerton, Secretary.

Prime Possession of Name. Bulwer-Lytton: "And whatever you lend, let it be your money, and not your name. Money you may get again, and if not, you may contrive to do without it; name once lost you cannot get again; and if you contrive to do without it, you had better never be born."

Worse than an alarm of fire at night is the metallic cough of cough bringing dread to the household. Careful mothers keep Foley's Honey and Tar in the house and give it at the first sign of danger. It contains no opiates. McBride & Will Drug Company.

Temporary Heat Quickly

Did you ever stop to think of the many ways in which a perfect oil heater is of value? If you want to sleep with your window open in winter, you can get sufficient heat from an oil heater while you undress at night, and then turn it off. Apply a match in the morning, when you get out of bed, and you have heat while you dress.

Those who have to eat an early breakfast before the stove is radiating heat can get immediate warmth from an oil heater, and then turn it off. The girl who practices on the piano in a cold room in the morning can have warmth from an oil heater while she plays, and then turn it off.

The member of the family who has to walk the floor on a cold winter's night with a restless baby can get temporary heat with an oil heater, and then turn it off. The is invaluable in its capacity of quickly giving heat. Apply a match and it is immediately at work. It will burn for nine hours without refilling. It is safe, smokeless and odorless. It has a damper top and a cool handle. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER. Absolutely smokeless and odorless.

It has an automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be cleaned in an instant.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, and can be quickly unswaged for reworking. Finished in Japan or nickel, strong, durable, well-made,