WATER FURNISHING MENACE
SERIOUS PROBLEM CONFRONTS RAILROADS IN IOWA OWING TO DROUGHT.

NO DRY YEAR TO BE COMPARED WITH PRESENT
Reservoirs Upon Which Roads Depend For Motive Power Supply Exhausted and Officials Have About Decided to Put on Special Trains to Haul Water From Border Rivers.

Special to Times-Republican.
Council Bluffs, Dec. 5.—The water question has become a serious one for the railroads operating thru Iowa, owing to the prolonged drought. Upon the "Q" system, where dependence is placed upon reservoirs for water for the motive force, as is the case on a large part of their mileage in Iowa, the shortage of water is most serious.

The division which extends from Keokuk to Red Oak depends almost entirely upon artificial reservoirs for water for the engines and these are now entirely dry except in a few places, and the water supply is exceedingly limited.
Two Tenders Required.
It has become a common thing on this division for engines to be pulling two tenders, one being insufficient to supply the engine over the long distances that the trains are compelled to cover between points where there are wells or other means of obtaining water than thru the company reservoirs.

May Put on Water Trains.
Yesterday a conference of division superintendents was held with several of the higher officials in the operating department, at which it was almost decided that, to relieve the situation and enable the continuance of the train schedules, special water trains will be run carrying water from the Mississippi and Missouri rivers to the "dry" points. The plan under consideration is to haul water from the rivers and replenish the reservoirs. The adoption of such a plan would be unprecedented.

Fort Dodge, Dec. 5.—One of the biggest fires in the history of this vicinity occurred this morning between 5 and 6 o'clock at Pioneer, the third station northwest of here on the M. & St. L. railroad, when the immense feed and sheep sheds of J. W. Johnson were completely destroyed, entailing the loss of between 1,000 and 1,200 sheep.

Baking Helps
Learn to Regulate the Heat of Your Oven
By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine
There is just one way to make your cakes rise high and keep an even surface. Have your oven moderate at first, until the cake is fully risen; then increase the heat, so as to brown it over quickly. Extreme heat stiffens the dough. If you stiffen the outside of the cake before the rising is complete, you stop the rising process. Then the leavening gas, forming inside, will bulge up the center, where the dough is still soft, and spoil the shape of the cake.

NOTE—Biscuits or other pastries made from stiff dough, that are cut into shapes for the oven, bake in a hot oven. This is because the cut surfaces of the dough do not seal over, but rather leave the pores open, allowing the leavening gas to escape and the heat to penetrate readily. Small ovens cool quickly, therefore they should be made several degrees hotter than a larger oven, and the less the door is opened the better. Do not attempt to bake bread and pastry together. Bread requires prolonged, moderate baking—pastry the reverse.

term after being on the bench for sixteen years. The presentation was preceded by a high eulogy of Judge Church by Hon. F. Conner and Jacob Sims of the bar.
Judge Church was entirely unprepared for the receipt of a gift. He had opened court at 1:30 p. m. to adjourn at 2, to catch a train home. He was so much affected by the kind words of the attorneys and the remembrance.

Small Schools Cause Shortage.
Des Moines, Dec. 5.—State Superintendent Higgs finds that because of the persistence with which the small schools of the state are maintained there is a shortage of teachers. Four counties have called for an aggregate of thirty more teachers. The shortage is always in the larger and better schools. The six-pupil schools are being supplied with teachers. If the six-pupil schools were closed there would be no shortage of teachers.
