

BYERS VOTE GOES TO OTHER CANDIDATES

FUNK AND KENYON CHIEF BENEFICIARIES WHEN ONE CANDIDATE DROPS OUT. KENYON LACKS ONE VOTE OF TIEING LAFE YOUNG

Effort to Be Made to Induce Garst Followers to Temporarily Abandon Him—Standpats, Worried Over Situation, Moving For Only One Ballot Per Week, to Prolong Deadlock.

Special to Times-Republican. Des Moines, Jan. 24.—The vote on senator today resulted: Porter 53 Young 27 Funk 34 Garst 8 The Byers vote was distributed as follows: To Funk—Huntley, Jewell, Newell, Russell and Van Law. To Kenyon—Brown, Bybee, Hagan, Hunt, Jacobson and Van Camp. To Funk—Huntley, Jewell, Newell, Russell and Van Law. The Franke vote changed Cousins going to Garst and Gates to Funk. Pickford, of Cerro Gordo, changed from Funk to Kenyon. Only one was absent, Mr. Leach, a democrat.

An effort is to be made this evening to induce the eight members who are voting for Garst to temporarily abandon his candidacy and divide. It is so stated that six will go to Funk and two to Kenyon, which would make the Funk vote total 33 and the Kenyon vote 35. It is also stated positively today that several of the Young votes will tomorrow go to Kenyon, and that one or two of the Funk votes may turn to Young. The leaders declare, however, that even with these changes the situation would still be as badly off as ever. It is expected that there will be one vote cast tomorrow for Justice Deemer for senator, with the probability of a large number to follow.

Special to Times-Republican. Des Moines, Jan. 24.—The senatorial matter has not been cleared in the least today, so the leaders say. The Kenyon and Young men are demanding that the candidates who receive a small number of votes shall withdraw, and insist that it should be brought down to not more than three candidates. Last night Byers asked his supporters to deliver their votes to others, at least for the present, and this will be done. The supporters of Garst do not believe this would help matters any and will continue to vote for him the he has not asked them to remain.

Standpats Disturbed. It was learned today that the standpats are greatly disturbed over the restlessness which is manifest and that they are planning some way to get rid of the annoyance of being compelled to cast their ballots at least once each day in order to maintain the deadlock to the legislature. The standpats have asked lawyers to investigate and see if there is not some way they can arrange it that the balloting may be abandoned or that a vote be taken once each week by making a legislative day for each week and merely taking a vote at noon, thus voting only one day out of the entire week. They have set Harding, of Woodbury, to this task of devising some way for getting them out of their dilemma, and he will prepare an argument to show that it is not necessary to ballot every day to maintain the deadlock thru the session.

No Headway Made. The determination on the part of leading legislators that this week at least shall see some positive steps in the direction of loosening up the deadlock is very strong. The members, leading republicans realize that they are up to them to do something, that no headway at all is being made by the old familiar scheme of jockeying as between the candidates and each one trying to steal away a few of the weak sides from the other. None of the really big men of the republican party are open to the kind of arguments that are being used. None of them are making any changes. The shifting about is nothing more than a symptom of restlessness.

Kenyon Men Busy. The Kenyon men are doing the most work. They have the only real lobby which has been here during the session. They have an abundance of workers and have avenues for reaching the public that are closed to all others. Besides they have started the policy of building back fires for the legislature. The Kenyon men who stated last night that he would vote for change to Kenyon at once declared they have had agents in his county and have been bombarding him with letters and petitions until he can no longer resist the pressure. The plan of the Kenyon men, and has been all along, to gradually gather strength for their candidate so that at the critical time they can elect their man with the standpat votes declared to be pledged for him and ignore the leaders among the progressives.

Elimination. The demand comes from both the Kenyon men and the Funk men that the fight be slimmered down to a three-cornered one between Young, Funk and Kenyon. They therefore insist that the friends of Byers and Garst give up their preference first. The standpats have been seen to be and while both Garst and Byers have refused absolutely to hold any of their friends to them by any pledge, or to permit any pressure of any kind for them, their following has been steadfast. The theory of both the friends of Garst and those of Byers has been that it would be demonstrated that neither Funk nor Kenyon can win, and that then the swim would be in the direction of one or the other of these men as available for securing the entire republican vote.

Discussion of the necessity for trying it out for a new man still continues, but most of the republican members insist that first a fair effort must be made for a conference and a working out of a result from the present field of candidates. A Seize For Kenyon. Consideration of the necessity for time in the ranks of the Kenyon committee when their morning organ came out in an editorial which looked as if it was ready to desert Kenyon on the slightest occasion. Quoting from the Knoxville Journal which had said the legislature ought to elect Judge Kenyon, the morning paper suggested that it be changed to "elect a United States senator," and later declared that the senatorship is only one of several important things before the legislature. This was taken to mean abandonment on the part of the morning paper of the insistence that Judge Kenyon alone was competent to be senator, and recognition of the fact that some other republican might be elected.

RIOTING IS RENEUED

STRIKING GARMENT WORKERS IN CHICAGO WRECK NON-UNION SHOPS.

EMPLOYEES SEVERELY HANDLED AND DRIVEN TO STREETS

Police Called Out to Quell Two Disturbances and Order is Restored After Fifteen Minutes of Fighting—Six Alleged Ringleaders Placed Under Arrest.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Two tailor shops were partly wrecked and more than 100 non-union tailors driven into the streets and six arrests were made in a riot incident to the garment workers' strike here today. Many tailors were bleeding from cuts and scratches before the disturbance was quelled. The trouble started when about 200 strikers and their sympathizers appeared at the shop of William Tuttle. Fifty non-union tailors of both sexes, were at work at the machines. The strikers drove them into the street, wrecked the machines, and mutilated the garments upon which they had been at work.

Workers Are Beaten. As the terror-stricken workers rushed into the street many were beaten and felled to the pavement. A riot call brought a detail of police, but before they arrived strikers had moved east to North Wood street. The police followed and found the rioters in front of the shop of Mrs. Baumgarten. Forty-five employees of the latter had been driven into the streets and roughly handled. The bluecoats charged the crowd with drawn clubs. Policeman Solberg was beset by six strikers, who beat him to the ground, but after a strenuous fifteen minutes dispersed, leaving six alleged ringleaders in the hands of the officers.

FEDERAL REGULATION ADVISED.

Wabash Railroad President Contends State Supervision Leads to Conflict. Chicago, Jan. 24.—For corporations having more than one state, federal regulation of the issuance of railroad securities would be far more preferable to state regulations. F. A. Delano, president of the Wabash railroad, testified today before the railroad securities commission, which is endeavoring to ascertain the sentiment of the country with regard to the possible control by the federal government of the issuance of stocks and bonds by railroads. Delano contended that state regulation, as at present enforced, often leads to a conflict, and requires a complicated system of the state, enacted legislation to suit their particular requirements, and they therefore are not uniform.

PHILLIPS HAS FAIR CHANCE FOR LIFE

SURGEONS AND ATTENDANTS HAVE SOME HOPE THAT AUTHOR WILL RECOVER.

NO DEFINITE MOTIVE KNOWN FOR TRAGEDY

Man Who Shot Phillips Down in Street, Then Committed Suicide, An Eccentric Musical Student With Fancied Grievance Because of Magazine Article—Sketch of Graham's Career.

New York, Jan. 24.—"His chances are fair," was this morning's report from the bedside of David Graham Phillips, in the Bellevue hospital, where the author was taken yesterday afternoon after he had been shot down in the street by Fitzhugh Coyle Goldsborough, an eccentric musician with a fancied grievance and who followed his murderous assault by committing suicide on the spot. All things considered, the nurses and medical attendants of Phillips felt justified today in describing his night as one of comparative comfort and, although little change was noted in his condition, there was no disposition on the part of the hospital authorities to take other than a hopeful view of the case. At the same time the fact remained that the author's condition was still considered critical and, while a favorable outcome was hoped for, it was admitted that grave complications might arise.

W. T. Mossman, the former manager of the orchestra, said that about a year ago, without any announcement, Goldsborough disappeared, and the police here were asked to search for him. Then a letter was received by Director Emil Paar, in which the young man said that he was in a sanatorium in New York, where he had gone on the advice of a physician.

Another letter later announced that he was resting to health and after being away a month he returned to the orchestra. When the orchestra season closed all trace of him was lost.

Among his friends here he was counted far above the average musician in caste. "He was witty, wrote beautiful poetry, and was a dependent in palmistry," Mr. Mossman said last night, "but he was high strung. Previous to his disappearance he came to my office one day after a long walk in the parks. He was haggard and worn, and said, 'I guess I'm losing my mind.' I talked him out of that notion and he soon appeared calmer. He was one of the best educated men I ever met."

PORTUGAL UNSETTLED

Deposed King's Followers Making Trouble in Various Sections of New Republic—Several Nations Enter Protest.

Lisbon, Jan. 24.—The government is experiencing some difficulty in the province. At Leira, seventy-five miles northeast of Lisbon, a Catholic priest named Farlah, has been arrested, charged with treason in inciting soldiers to mutiny to bring about the restoration of the monarchy. Many monarchists, including journalists, have been expelled from the country. At Avila, an export town in the province of Beira, the editor and staff of a newspaper which is attacking the government, have barricaded themselves in their building and, armed with rifles, and bombs, stand ready to resist if attacked by troops which have been ordered to the scene. Great Britain, Italy and other countries have made representations to Portugal relative to much of the property of religious orders seized by the government at the time of the expulsion of religious orders. These powers claim the real owners of church property are their subjects, and ask that restoration be made. The government probably will comply.

CUMMINS IN LIVELY TILT.

Senator in Spirited Debate With Gamble and Bailey. Washington, Jan. 24.—Senator Cummins broke into the discussion of the Lorimer case yesterday afternoon. At conclusion of Senator Gamble's speech, Senator Cummins questioned the South Dakota senator sharply and got into a spirited exchange with Bailey of Texas. Senator Gamble's way of figuring on the method of excluding tainted votes did not suit Senator Cummins. Gamble maintained that even on the theory maintained by the minority report, that ten votes were corrupted, Lorimer was still entitled to his seat. He said Lorimer got 108 votes of the total of 302 cast. Thinning out the ten alleged corrupt votes would leave 192, and deducting the ten corrupt votes from Lorimer's vote would leave ninety-eight. As ninety-eight is a majority of 182, said Senator Gamble, Lorimer is elected, even if ten votes were bought. Senator Cummins, insisting there was no sound legal authority for this, asked Senator Gamble what would happen if, in a body about to cast 202 votes, or with a candidate having 101 votes assured or needing one more, one was bribed to vote for this candidate. This would leave 201 untainted votes, and the candidate for whom bribes were done would get a majority. Senator Gamble said he would be elected, or if one was bribed to stay away, when questioned by Cummins, Senator Gamble said there would also be an election. Senator Bailey rushed to the defense of Senator Gamble, and he and Senator Cummins collided. Bailey insisted that Gamble was right and had calculated the problem according to law. Senator Cummins, who will speak at length later on this, is confident he can show that the position taken by Gamble and Bailey is untenable. On the determination of this matter may depend the question of what happens to Lorimer.

NOTED YACHTSMAN MEETS SUDDEN DEATH

CAPTAIN CHARLES BARR, DEFENDER OF AMERICA'S CUP, VICTIM OF HEART DISEASE.

HAD WON MANY REGATTA TROPHIES AS A SKIPPER

Barr Appeared in Perfect Health This Morning When, While Eating Breakfast With Family, He Was Seized With Pain in Heart and Fell Dead in Wife's Arms.

Southampton, England, Jan. 24.—Captain Charles Barr, the noted American yachtsman, died suddenly of heart trouble here today.

Barr had been in this country since last spring, when he brought over his last command, the schooner, Westward, built by the Herreshoffs for A. S. Cochran, of the New York Yacht Club. With the Westward Barr won many trophies at regattas at Kiel and Cowes last summer.

His success as a skipper, of the defenders of the America's cup, gave him his place in European yachting circles, from which the news of his unexpected demise called forth many expressions of keen regret.

Barr appeared to be in perfect health this morning. He was having breakfast with his family when, suddenly, he was seized with a pain in his heart and fell forward into the arms of his wife, dead.

Barr was regarded generally as the foremost sporting skipper, and won international admiration by his successful sailing of the several defending yachts which have kept the America's cup on this side of the Atlantic since it was brought over in 1851.
