The commencement exercises were continued today, when the West Oratorical contest was held. This evening a representative from each of the five literary societies of the college competing for a cash prize of $25 offered by Rev. Mr. West, of Adel.

The commencement exercises will be continued on Sunday by the delivery of the baccalaureate sermon in the Methodist church by President Strickland, who is one of the most forceful and eloquent speakers that could be secured for this purpose.

Simpson is graduating a class of fifty-nine, forty-seven being from the college of liberal arts and twelve from the conservatory of music. The attendance during the year has passed the 550 mark, so that the year has been highly successful in every respect.

COLLEGE AFTER ENDOWMENT.

Upper Iowa University Prosecuting Vigorous Financial Campaign. Special to Times-Republican.

Fayette, June 8.—Just now the cry of Upper Iowa University is "a long pull, a strong pull and a pull all together." While Cornell College is striving to raise $500,000, Upper Iowa University is doing the same thing, and it looks as if it was to be accomplished.

President Cooper with a large number of stenographers, is busy from early morning until late at night making the effort. The county will be asked to raise $45,000 and some of the leading citizens are taking right hold of the matter.

Four hundred thousand dollars is the sum total they want beside an increase in the endowment to $500,000. This money is to be used in the erection of two new buildings, libraries, laboratories, etc. The school has never been so successful as at the present time.

Ida Grove, June 8.—Dennis Cain, one of the pioneers and best known of Iowa county citizens, died at his home in Arthur, this county Thursday night at 10 o'clock after a week's illness of pneumonia. The deceased located in Blaine township in the early 30's and has resided there ever since, retiring from farm life and moving into the village of Arthur only a quarter of a mile from that town about three years ago.

WATCH WAS RETURNED.

Conscience Stricken Thief Restores Stolen Timepiece to Owner. Special to Times-Republican.

Spencer, June 8.—Here is evidence of another stricken conscience. About two years ago Russell Saunders was in attendance at a ball game. He was asked to play and he took the money he had in his pocket and some trinkets, together with his gold watch, and threw them into his hat. At the conclusion of the game he went for his property but found that the watch had been taken. He was very much surprised recently in receiving thru the mail a nicely done up package and when he opened it found his lost watch. The package was mailed from some Minnesota town, but it was so scratched that it could not be figured out. The watch is a valuable one.

They gave me almost instant relief when my kidneys were sluggish and inactive. I can cheerfully recommend them to all sufferers from kidney troubles." McBride & Will Drug Company.

BAFFLING DISEASE KILLS.

Mysterious Malady Takes Third Child in Des Moines Family. Des Moines, June 8.—Medical science of Des Moines has faced one of the most remarkable mysteries in its history in the death of 5-year-old Walter Deaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Deaton, 2237 Maple street, last night.

The child is the third of a family of four children to die suddenly in the last two months and the Dr. H. L. Sawyer, city physician, and other doctors who have been interested in the deaths attribute the cause of demise to burglars gained entrance to the store by breaking open a window. They made their get-away without being discovered. No trace of them has been secured.

Charles Selling and chauffeur, Ed Knight, drove to the Selling farm, southwest of the city, and set millions of locusts in the timber there. They were attracted to the timber by the noise the locusts made and when there had no trouble in finding the insects. They gathered a few of them and brought them back to town where they have been quite an attraction as few of the younger people remember them. They are about the size of a large bumble bee just larger and the ones seen here had just crawled out of their shells.

New London. The largest improvement that has been undertaken in New London for many years has begun here. It is an improvement that will employ a number of laborers for several months and is the forerunner of other important improvements. The Burlington railroad has commenced to build two miles of side-track at this station and is looking for a suitable site for the excavation of an immense reservoir. The large number of laborers necessary to carry on and complete these undertakings will call for provisions and necessaries that will increase the trade of the town, and be of benefit many ways. Conjecture has it that another important enterprise is to follow these improvements.

Burlington. The Iowa supreme court in an opinion handed down decided that Mr. T. W. Barbydt, a former resident of this city, would be compelled to pay taxes on his local moneys and credits. Mr. Barbydt, who several years ago transferred his residence from Burlington to California, was assessed by the city council on the sum of $250,000 in moneys and credits. He appealed to the district court to have the assessment canceled on the grounds that he was a non-resident of the state and had no moneys and credits in Iowa that were assessable. The case was heard by Judge James D. Smyth, who decided that Mr. Barbydt was a non-resident and that the assessment should be canceled. An appeal had been taken to the supreme court by the late C. L. Poor, city solicitor. The taxes on the above amount of moneys and credits will amount to about $5,000.

Fairfield. Considerable excitement was caused in the vicinity of the Ledger office about 7 o'clock in the evening when the second floor of the building just three doors east gave way under a heavy load of lumber stored there by A. E. Johnson, the groceryman at the southeast corner of the square. Employees had just finished unloading twenty tons of flour when the timbers began to creak and groan under the weight placed upon them. Before braces could be secured the entire floor gave way, carrying flour, timber and everything else with it. The elevator was demolished, the first floor gave way as if made of pasteboard and the whole mass was lodged in the cellar. In its descent to the basement electric light wires were torn from their fastenings and an incipient blaze started, but prompt action on the part of those who had just unloaded the flour extinguished the flames before the fire department turned on the water. The loss to both building and contents will probably reach $500 and is about equally divided.

GIRL LANDS CONTRACT

PUTS IN BID FOR SEWER WORK DURING ABSENCE OF EMPLOYER AND WINS.

EQUAL TO EMERGENCY UNEXPECTEDLY DEVELOPED

Delayed Train Prevents Arrival of William Horrabin, of Iowa City, and Stenographer in Office Figures on Work and Files Bid in Nick of Time—Lands $16,000 Contract.

Special to Times-Republican. Iowa City, June 8.—"The young woman in business," may be the title of a book to be written by seven Iowa contractors, before the summer of 1912 ends.

What brains and beauty, blended, may accomplish in the field of dollars and cents was vividly illustrated in Iowa City today, when Iowa City saved between $3,000 and $4,000, and a prominent contractor landed a $16,000 sewer contract by a pretty young woman kept her wits.

The east end sewer bidding was in progress at the city hall. Seven bids, between $19,000 and $21,000 were on file. The city council was to open them in two minutes—at the expiration of bidding time William Horrabin, a leading contractor of Iowa City, was out of town, and a delayed train prevented his arrival.

Appreciating the circumstances, Miss Mabel Montgomery, his secretary, prepared a bid; rushed to the city hall—presented the document, and it was duly filed. One minute later the city clerk struck the time expired, and the girl had saved the day.

Her bid was $16,180—and it captured the little plum for Contractor Horrabin, while the city was ahead just $3,308, comparing the young woman's bid with the next lowest bid of the competing men.

status lymphaticus, they all are baffled by the mysterious madady.

Like the other two children, Walter died at a time when he was supposed to be in the best of health, but a short time after he had been playing with his mates. For a week his parents had noticed that he was troubled with a slight deafness, but there was no indication of illness up to the time of his death.

The lad and his mother had been chatting in the house when Mrs. Deaton decided to run over to a neighbor's on an errand. She was gone but a few moments and on her return she found the child lying on a bed and at that time dead. Drs. Goodridge and Kelley were called in and Coroner James Lee and City Physician Sawyer.

On April 11, 1912, Walter Deaton, 4 years old in the same manner and seven days later, April 15, 2-year-old Cecil Deaton died. A postmortem was held after each death and status lymphaticus was given as cause of death. The disease is a condition of enlarged glands of the lymphatic system and that the world have always been at a loss for a cure. A postmortem will be held over the remains by Coroner Lee.

One more child is left in the family, Josephine Deaton, aged 7 years.

WATCHING DAIRY CONDITIONS.

Department Inclined to Prosecute Offenders. Special to Times-Republican.

Des Moines, June 8.—The discovery that a milkman at LeMars had been making use of formaldehyde in preserving milk has started a general investigation into dairy conditions in the state, and it is not at all unlikely that other irregularities will be discovered. The dairy department of the state is vigilant and will promptly prosecute all offenders against whom charges are filed. Thus far it is believed that the cream business is being conducted properly as no complaints have been received of poor ice cream in the state.
