The part played by Grinnell contestants in the recent central Iowa tournament at Toledo has stirred up the feeling among the players here that Grinnell may be able to promote a tourna-

When Governor Ben Butler was practicing law in the courts of the District of Columbia he was famous for his striking ideas he evolved and the effective methods he employed in order to get the interests of his clients before the jury in a favorable light.

In one case, in which he had a rather poor show of winning, the case came for him to cross examine a false lawyer who had given testimony extremely favorable to the other side. Everybody listened intently for Butler's onslaught. It was expected that he would go after the witness with gloves off.

"Gentlemen of the jury," he said, "with an air of confiding familiarity, 'I would as soon think of shooting skyrockets into the infernal regions for purpose of illumination as to cross-examine the witness in the hope of extracting the truth.'"—Popular Magazine.
