LIGHTNING KILLS ONE; STUNS TWO

RAY W. ANSON MEETS INSTANT DEATH WHEN STRUCK BY BOLT IN OATS FIELD.

EDWARD CARLSON, NEAR HIM, BADLY STUNNED

Clothes, One Glove, and Sole of One Shoe Torn From Anson's Body, Which Received Direct Force of Shock—Young Man Son of Late Warren Anson and Support of Mother.

Lightning claimed a victim with awful suddenness at 9:45 today when Ray W. Anson, aged 23, a young farmer living one mile west of the city on Main street, was killed instantly by a bolt that struck him while working in the oats field. Edward Carlson, a farm hand, was stunned severely by the same bolt, but was not injured seriously.

Young Anson was shocking oats for Lee Batesole on the Peter Nelson farm, the old Packard place, a portion of which Batesole had rented for the season. Carlson, whose home is in Indiana, was also working for Batesole, and at the time the lightning struck was working fifteen feet away from Anson on the opposite side of the shock.

Body Terribly Burned.

The freakish results so often seen in cases of electrocution by lightning were apparent in all of their horrible details in Anson's death. Practically all of the clothes the young man wore were torn from his body. A glove was torn completely from the left hand, but that worn on the other hand was not even scorched. The sole of the left shoe was torn off as if it had been cut with a knife. The hair was burned from most of the body, including all of the back of the head and the eyebrows. The body was black as coal, from head to foot, but later the discoloration disappeared, and normal color was restored.

Dr. G. E. Hermance, who was summoned with the thought that possibly something could be done to revive the young man, said that Anson's death had been instantaneous and painless.

Carlson Stunned Twice.

The bolt that killed Anson stunned Carlson, knocking him to the ground. The man was frightened, and started to run. He went 100 yards or so when a second bolt came crashing into the ground near where the first one had hit Anson. This stunned Carlson a second time and brought him to the ground, temporarily helpless. He soon revived under treatment, however.

Son of Warren Anson.

Young Anson was the only son of the late Warren Anson, who was a son of the late Alva Anson, the oldest brother of Henry and Horace Anson, real pioneers of this city.

Young Anson was an exemplary young man, and was the support of his widowed mother. Since Warren Anson's death Jan. 24, 1911, his son has been carrying on the work of the farm, supporting his mother and only sister, Alvera A. Anson. The death of the young man, and as death always are within family circles, will prove an especially sad blow to the mother.

Mr. Anson was a native of this county, and was born on the farm where his mother still lives. Anson was a member of the Royal Highlanders' lodge of this city.

Lightning Turns Fingers Black.

W. L. Crill, 13 North First street had a narrow escape shortly after 10 o'clock this morning, when lightning struck near him, as he was sitting on one of the iron benches on the court house lawn. The electrical fluid, connected with the bench and Crill was instantly stunned. After the shock he found that the fingers on his right hand had been blackened by the shock, giving them the appearance of having been smoked. The color returned to the fingers in a short time, but Crill felt the effects of the shock for several hours.

During the same storm lightning struck in the alley north of the Times-Republican building, burned out the fuses in the composing room, and put all the machinery in the building out of commission for an hour or more.

STREET CARS "KILLED."

Lightning Puts Cars Out of Commission For Short Time.

Because the lightning of the forenoon weakened the motor generator at the Iowa Railway and Light Company power house, street cars were put out of commission from 12:15 until 12:30 today. An extra machine was put into service at once and the cars were able to resume traffic. The power was off throughout the city for the quarter hour that the new machine was being put into service.

SIoux CITY WOMAN DEAD.

Mrs. Rebekah McKrill Dies at Soldiers' Home of Heart Disease.

Mrs. Rebekah McKrill, a member of the soldiers' home from Sioux City, died at 4:20 Wednesday afternoon of valvular disease of the heart. Mrs. McKrill entered the home April 14, 1912.

Mrs. McKrill was a native of Wayne county, Ohio, where she was born Jan. 10, 1849. Her husband, J. W. McKrill, who served in Company B, Thirtieth Indiana infantry, died at the home May 22, 1912.

Mrs. McKrill is survived by three sons and one daughter. They are J. W. McKrill, of Sioux City; James O. McKrill, of Van Tassel, Wyo.; C. C. McKrill, of Williston, N. D.; and Mrs. Jennie Cress, of Carrington, N. D.

NEAR-DROWNING IN IOWA

Ralph Bunting, Aged 19, Comes Near Finding Watery Grave While Swimming Near Marietta—Goes Down Third Time Before Being Rescued.

What came near proving a drowning occurred Wednesday evening in the Iowa river near Marietta, when Bunting, aged 19, employed by John Holmquist, went down for the third time before he was rescued by companions.

In company with young men of the neighborhood Bunting went into the river for a plunge shortly after supper. The young man was stricken with cramps shortly after he entered the water, and had gone down for the third time before the other swimmers could reach him. The young men in the party worked over an hour before the form several minutes before the body was resuscitated. Bunker was removed home, and today showed no ill effects of his close call.

A Home Recipe for Wrinkled, Saggy Skin

The famous saxette lotion recommended by beauty specialists for removing wrinkles and for reducing enlarged pores, can be easily made at home. Any your druggist for saxette in powdered form, 1 ounce; and 1/2 pint witch hazel. Dissolve the powder in the witch hazel and bottle the mixture in a glass bottle. Rub the face, neck and hands in the mixture twice a day. The skin tightens, and this naturally reduces the wrinkles. It will also remove folds about the neck, cheeks or hands. The time beneath the skin also becomes firmer and much refreshed and rejuvenated after using this truly wonderful skin cream. One bottle makes a supply for several days for only a short time makes the average woman look ten years younger.

MISSSES POCKETBOOK FALLS DEAD IN SEAT

MRS. JOHN DALTON, FARNAM, NEB., DIES ON NORTHWEST-ERN TRAIN.

AUTOPSY REVEALS CAUSE TO HAVE BEEN APOPLEXY

Excitement Over Sudden Discovery of Loss of Money, Causes Sudden Death of Woman—End Comes as Train Was Nearing This City—Body Here Awaiting Relatives.

Suddenly discovering that she had lost her purse, containing $25 in money, Mrs. John Dalton, of Farnam, Neb., a woman apparently 55 years old, fell back in her seat in Chicago & Northwestern passenger train No. 11, due in this city at 1:35 this morning.

Mrs. Dalton's death was due to apoplexy, as a post mortem examination revealed after the body was taken from the train here. The shock produced by the excitement of discovering her loss had caused the woman's death.

On Her Way Home From Visit.

Mrs. Dalton was on her way home from a visit with relatives at Grand Mound. She boarded No. 11 at Cedar Rapids. After the train left Tama Mrs. Dalton was in conversation with Mrs. Mary J. Bigelow, of Whiting, and something was said about money. Mrs. Dalton opened her handbag as the work was spoken, and with a gasp said: "My purse is gone; there was $25 in it."

Mrs. Bigelow suggested that she call the conductor, motioned him to where the two women were sitting. The conductor asked Mrs. Dalton about her loss, and got no response. The woman was sitting upright in her seat, lifeless.

Autopsy Is Held.

Mrs. Dalton's body was removed from the train at this point and was taken to the Pursel undertaking parlors, where Dr. G. E. Hermance, the company surgeon, and Coroner F. H. Boucher, conducted an autopsy to reveal the cause of death. The examination showed a hemorrhage of the brain.

Relatives Are Notified.

On Mrs. Dalton's person was a certificate of deposit for $100 on the State Bank of Farnam, and $55 in currency. A letter from a daughter, written early in July, and expressing joy at her mother's early return home, was found. The Northwestern sent a wire to the Farnam bank, and a reply was received to the effect that a brother of Mrs. Dalton would reach this city tonight.

A Peculiar Punishment.

The Slovaks (Hungary) are a very peaceful, law-abiding community, but there are probably black sheep among their number, and in front of the Roman Catholic church at Postyan may be seen an ancient stone pillar reminiscent of the days when punishment was meted out in much the same way as it was in England in those days. Fastened to this pillar in the center is a large iron clasp, and at the base two smaller ones close together. These clasps fitted around the waist and ankles of offenders, and when a man or woman had stolen something they were locked to this post on a Sunday and compelled to hold in their hands whatever they had stolen. Every Slovak attends mass on Sunday, from which it may be gathered that this public exposure was no small ordeal. The post bears a terse inscription, the translation of which is, "I do not ask you to come, but if you come I receive you."—Wide World Magazine.

"Well, I suppose they get to believing what their press agents say about them."

Quick Results Astonish Marshalltown

There is astonishment in Marshalltown at the QUICK results received from simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-I-ka, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. This simple mixture drains such great amounts of foul matter from the body that a SINGLE DOSE relieves constipation, sour stomach and gas on the stomach almost IMMEDIATELY. The speedy action of Adler-I-ka is surprising. B. A. Morgan.
