"Don't you think Mrs. Boardman would rather you didn't kiss her?"

"I have no doubt of it."

"Wouldn't you rather Mrs. Boardman didn't kiss you?"

"Oh, very much rather."

HAPSBURGS FACE EXTINCTION.

Power, Influence, and Dynasty in Danger of Destruction.

As Emperor Francis Joseph has grown old he has plainly desired that he might never again have to go thru the agony of a national

A desire for peace has been manifest in the attitude of Austria toward the gigantic Balkan question. In 1878 the Austrian army lay still and allowed the Russians to march within sight of Constantinople, receiving for their reward the Turkish provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina. It has turned out to be a dear bargain.

In 1912-1913, while the Balkan powers were at war, the Austrians again lay passive upon their border, though a strong party thought the time had come for war. In 1914 the war party could no longer be held in. A mysterious death years ago and an assassination removed the two heirs of the Hapsburg throne.

Despite all efforts of a long lifetime, the emperor was obliged to see his country in danger of a fearful break-up from internal struggles, or from outward enemies, or from both. Six hundred and forty-one years have passed since first a Hapsburg became an emperor, but the Hapsburgs have lived on the theory of holding fast to what has been. They have attempted the impossible task of governing 50,000,000 of people thru the decisions of an aristocratic fraction out of the 12,000,000 Germans, supplemented by a smaller fraction out of 10,000,000 Magyars.

He would be a bold prophet who would guarantee six years more to that mighty and honorable imperial line. For the Germans in the Hapsburg empire there is always a refuge in the German empire, but can they carry with them into their haven the Bohemians or the Poles, or the Slovaks, or the Hungarians?

Nothing is more certain than that the Hapsburg power, system, influence, and dynasty are in fearful danger of extinction.—The Outlook.

THE BLOOD OF THE VIKINGS.

Fierce Sea Fighters Were Bred of Long Years of Independence.

The Vikings and their followers, who swarmed up the Seine and the Thames, and whose descendants conquered Normandy and then England, were bred of long years of independence and property rights, while those they overthrew were dependent and nonadventurous. They were the hardest and boldest travelers of their time.

The Norwegian sealer still cruises about the sea as far north as it is open, and the history of polar exploration has been associated with Norway from Olaf, in King Alfred's time, to Nansen, in our own. In the Shetland Islands the people talked Norwegian in the last century. Greenland and Iceland were colonized from Norway, and from Iceland comes a literature in old Norwegian, still the language of the people, which ranks with the heroic tales of the East of Greece, of Germany, and England.

The Orkneys, Shetlands, the Hebrides, the Isle of Man, were possessions of Norway for hundreds of years, and for more than 300 years Norwegian kings ruled in Dublin. Many of the Danes who conquered England were Norsemen, and the conquerors of Normandy were mostly of the Norwegian breed.

Dublin still retains a distinct flavor of these breezy warriors—

For 'tis the capital of the finest nation, 'Tis the charmin' pinstrip upon a fruit-fud.

Fighting like devils for conciliation, 'An' hatin' each other for the love of God.

WOMAN OUTWITS POLICE.

Gets Railroad Ticket on Smallpox Threat and Eludes a Ruse.

A woman obtained a free ticket to Chicago yesterday by a novel method of extortion. Early yesterday morning she called one of the managers of a downtown department store to the telephone.

"I've got the smallpox," she said. "It doesn't show yet, but I have it. If I can get to Chicago I can get all the help I need, but if I stay here I shall have to go to the county pest house. I want you to send me a ticket to Chicago, and if you don't I'm coming to your store, get sick there, and you will have to quarantine the whole place."

Then she detailed her plan to escape detection. She demanded that the store manager should give the envelope containing the money or ticket to a messenger, the first messenger to give it to a second, who would meet the first at Sixth and Olive streets, and the second would give the envelope to a third at Fifteenth and Vermont avenue.

The department store noted the ploy and they consented to the woman's demands. The envelope was turned over to a messenger boy, who called. The police followed him to Sixth and Olive streets, where a second messenger awaited. They followed the second boy to the Vermont street house, where the police were in an automobile. The third messenger had a motorcycle. He dashed up Vermont avenue, turned cross-town, and circled back, came into town, dashed thru a congested crossing, and disappeared in the traffic, while the police motor car was delayed at the crossing.—Los Angeles Times.

Feed For the Armies.

The United States already has begun to feed the allied armies. More than 1,000,000 worth of foodstuffs in the way of lard, bacon, beans, flour, meat, corn sirup and corn meal have been shipped to British and Continental ports in the last two weeks, it was said by a representative of one of the exporting houses which have been among the most active in the trade.

On her recent voyage the Lusitania, among other items, carried 273,500 pounds of bacon, all of which, it is said is to be used by the British forces at the front. The same vessel also carried 12,890 pounds of corn meal, 3,000 pounds of hams and 141,455 pounds of lard.

On board the Columbia, bound for Glasgow, according to the outward-bound manifests made public by the custom house, were 244,500 pounds of ham, 84,992 pounds of bacon, 2,900 barrels of sugar, 400 tierces of beef, 150 barrels of beef, 3,000 bags of flour, 845 cases of canned meats, 1,100 bags of corn meal, 250 bags of unrefined sugar, 780 barrels of corn sirup, 197,015 pounds of lard and 128 cases of baking powder. The total value of the exports of foodstuffs by the Lusitania and the Columbia was approximately $225,000.

Growing Older.

What is growing older, anyhow? When young people think of it crudely, physically, it seems to them the wear-

SAVE YOUR HAIR! IF FALLING OUT OR DANDRUFF--25 CENT DANDERINE

LADIES! MEN! HERE'S THE QUICKEST, SUREST DANDRUFF CURE KNOWN.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scourf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and ruffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.
