IOWA'S NEW MENACE

ADDITIONAL CASES OF FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE EXPECTED IN IOWA.

EVERY SHIPMENT RECEIVED FROM CHICAGO BEING WATCHED

State Veterinarian Gibson Has List of All Consignments From Union Stock Yards Since Oct. 1—Warning Sent to Every Veterinarian of State to Be on Guard.

Special to Times-Republican. Des Moines, Nov. 6.—Now the "foot and mouth disease" is actually in Iowa. Dr. Gibson has definitely located it. A hard fight is ahead.

A few days ago indications were reported from Iowa county and Dr. Gibson went personally to investigate. He found that the disease has actually appeared near Parnell and Williamsburg, where shipments of cattle were received from the Chicago stock yards on the 21st of last month.

Four or five farms are infected. Others may be. A quarantine was immediately ordered. The state veterinary department immediately directed that investigation be made into every shipment of cattle received in Iowa since the first of October. A record is kept of all these. They will all be watched.

There is very little doubt that the disease will be found in other parts of the state, for there have been many shipments in this direction out of the Chicago district. It is almost certain there will also be discovery of the dread disease in other states of the middle country.

All Veterinarians Warned.

The state veterinary department immediately sent out instructions to all veterinarians to be watchful, giving description of the disease and instructions what to do. The bureau of animal industry at Washington was notified and its co-operation secured thru the governor.

A complete quarantine will be established wherever the disease is found. No person will be permitted to go or come from the district and every violation will be rigidly punished. It will not be like the ordinary quarantine at all but will be as rigid as a military order.

The federal government will take hold of the outbreak here as in other states and in the end the legislature of Iowa will be asked to bear half the expense.

Dr. Gibson's Warning.

Dr. Gibson sent the following letter yesterday to every one of his assistants in the state:

"Dear Doctor: You are undoubtedly aware that there is at present, in the United States, one of the most extensive and wide spread outbreaks of Foot and Mouth Disease known to this country.

"The presence of the disease has been determined in Iowa county, near the towns of Parnell and Williamsburg. The disease came in this case from Chicago on Oct. 21. We have received a number of shipments of cattle from Chicago during the month of October, and have already requested an investigation of all such shipments. If you know of any recent shipments of cattle into your community please look them up at once and see if they present any symptoms of this disease.

"The common symptoms of the disease are: Fever, lameness, sore feet and sore mouths and sometimes sores on the teats of cows and sores. By turning up the upper lip of a cow or sheep you will find blisters or vesicles which rupture, forming ulcers of a peculiar brown color. The foot lesions are most marked in hogs as a rule.

"Kindly notify this office at once of the existence of any well grounded suspicions in your community. If you should find the infection on any premises be very careful to disinfect yourself before leaving the infected premises. Very truly yours,
"J. I. GIBSON,
State Veterinarian."

ANSWERS CRITICS OF LAW.

Commissioner Garst Meets Challenge of Insurance Interests.

Special to Times-Republican. Des Moines, Nov. 6.—Commissioner Garst yesterday met the challenge of the insurance interests on the proposed necessity for amendment of the workmen's compensation law, by speaking before the local chamber of commerce, a select club of Des Moines people, in answer to the arguments made by Mr. Diggs of Ohio. It is said that Governor Garst presented the matter in graphic style and made an excellent showing of the need of some changes in the law.

It has developed that Mr. Diggs, who has been sent here by the eastern insurance interests to organize Iowa to control insurance legislation, has personal feeling in his opposition to the Ohio law. Mr. Diggs was an active and insistent candidate for appointment on the Ohio commission to administer the Ohio law. He wanted very much to be in a position to handle the business. But he did not get the job. Therefore the Ohio law is all wrong; and he has come to Iowa to say so.

Governor Garst has taken the view that the present system in Iowa is inadequate and revision should be made. They resent system is that insurance is compulsory on the Iowa employers and they are left wholly at the mercy of the private insurance companies to be exploited at will. This is dead wrong, according to Governor Garst, and he has asked the legislature to relieve the employers of labor of the burden by some system that will enable them to get their insurance at the minimum cost.

The agreement entered into by the insurance agents and insurance managers when they met here last week to listen to the plan of Mr. Diggs was that immediately after the election the agents would get into touch with the men elected to the legislature, that they would personally see every member and present to them the insurance company side of the matter, that literature would be furnished from New York in any quantity desired, and that it was hoped that before the legislature meets every member will be fixed.

An extensive state campaign to organize in every county and town has been started and Mr. Diggs will speak at the various meetings. Governor Garst may also do some talking. The state wherever there is desire to hear the other side.
