LOCAL COMMENT

S. W. Rubee and his co-workers on the decorating committee for the Christmas festival are entitled to a "vote of thanks" for the work done season. The effort is really artistic, and it is doubtful whether any city in Iowa was ever more prettily decorated for the Christmas season than is Marshalltown at the present time. The effect of the Christmas trees and greens, arranged along the streets between the electric lights and the hundreds of colored electric lights that shine forth thru the green cedars, is most pleasing to the eye and a course of much gratification to the merchants who have made the decorating possible. The churches too, entered into the spirit of the occasion with a will, and donated the beautiful "star of Bethlehem" that twinkles from its position high over the beautiful scene.

Extreme cold weather put a "crimp" in some of the Christmas trade, but let the public spirited citizens of the holiday cheer. Their enterprise will not die with the flicker of the Christmas candles, for it is organized enterprise of this kind that advertises to the world that Marshalltown is alive. Compare the reputation our town has now to what was said about it a few years ago, and it will be easy to understand why so many new people are coming to town. Let our light shine—and Christmas trees help to carry the lights.

Kenosha, Wis., has blazed a trail in public finance which should become a highway for all municipalities to travel. Kenosha, like all good merchants, jobbers and manufacturers, has decided to save her cash discounts. Hereafter the city council of Kenosha will buy for cash and take the discount of 2 per cent, or 2 per cent, or whatever is offered, and bidders for city contracts are all to be advised to sharpen their pencils, for Kenosha is to be a cash buyer. Whenever there are any bargains to be had in water pipe, sewer pipe, fire hose, tools, or supplies, Kenosha will get the inside, confidential price, for Kenosha will buy for cash. After other towns have bought at the long price, and issued their warrants there is left for safe travel is the center of the street.
