

SUNDAY STARTS ROW

EVANGELIST IN RED-HOT QUARREL WITH NEW YORK REPORTERS.

WRITERS DENOUNCED AS DIMINUTIVE PREVARICATORS

Criticism of Evangelist's Methods and Pulpit Demeanor by Metropolitan Press Brings Denial of Interview and Respectful Party Visits Sunday—He Admits Correctness of Report.

Washington, April 12.—Billy Sunday and some of the New York newspapers are engaged in a red-hot controversy that has served to draw added attention to the meeting of the evangelist has opened in Patterson, N. J. The newspapers had reported the opening of the Paterson meetings to be a "froth" and had quoted Mr. Sunday as saying the Paterson crowds were cool compared to those in Philadelphia.

The New York Sun in its issue of Thursday carries this head over the Sunday revival story: "Liar, Liar, Ginks, Yells Billy Sunday at Reporters." The Sun article follows:

Vitriolic Attack. "Billy Sunday, with a plate of stewed peaches in front of him in the dining room of his house of many windows and garbed in his flowered silk dressing gown fastened with a diamond pin, figuratively went up after the altitude record at noon today. His comments upon New York newspapers and especially upon New York reporters who quoted him verbatim this morning as saying 'let me bang the table and spill language that out-did the late Elijah Dowie, the second himself.' New York newspaper men who say that I said Paterson crowds are cool compared to the Philadelphia crowds are liars," yelled Billy.

Angry With Reporters. "The people who write this stuff in the New York papers," hollered Billy, with another bang that made the china and glassware rattle, "are a lot of dirty little lying reporters: that's what they are. Let them stay away if they don't like things. Let 'em let me alone, the dirty little liars."

"Whereupon when Billy finished his sermon this afternoon a group of the dirty little lying reporters from New York—Billy had added other adjectives deleted here—approached Billy as he came from his platform.

"Mr. Sunday," began the spokesman of the group, "you're quoted as saying that we're a lot of dirty little liars and fakes in quoting you in saying that you think Paterson audiences are cool to you compared to Philadelphia and New York."

"I never said that about Paterson crowds in my life," yelled Billy whereupon the men to whom Billy had said it pressed up closer.

"Say pardon, you said it to me Mr. Sunday."

"Billy raised at the group for a moment uncertainly while one of the men to whom he had made the statement repeated the assertion a bit more vehemently.

"O, well," roared Billy, "what if I did. Why don't you let me alone? If you don't like any style of talking why don't you leave it? You come here for the purpose of breaking up my meeting. Heat it if you don't like it—all of you."

Got Under His Shirt. The New York Tribune in reporting the conflict between the evangelist and the reporters started its story as follows:

"As Billy Sunday would probably put it, the New York morning newspapers got under his shirt today, for following the reading of his plain statements of this morning, he exerted himself tonight. He gave what was certainly the most amusing show he has yet staged."

After referring to the "liar" incident.

WHOLE FAMILY TORTURED BY ITCHING RASH

Kansas City, Mo.—"My husband had a rash all over his body, and soon the whole family was in the same condition. It looked soaly and raised up on the arms and body in big bumps. This trouble burned and itched so that it would nearly drive one crazy. It was relieved at once and before the third jar of ointment had been used, we were all completely cured. It has been four months since we were cured, and there are no traces of the trouble."

(Signed) Mrs. E. A. Clarkson, 1520 Lawn Ave., Oct. 24, 1914. Every drug store carries this ointment and Resinol Lotion. Write to Dept. of Medicine, Baltimore, Md.

dent the Tribune said about Sunday's sermon: "Sunday was funny tonight. There was little in his sermon that appealed to the intellect, but the ribaldries were tickled often. He specialized in imitations, varying all the way from a photographer taking a picture of a little girl to a portrayal of a drunken man, which was not amusing at all because it was disgusting."

Deemed Versatile Actor. "He proved himself a versatile actor in a crude, backwood-style. At one time, as Esau, he limped like Richard the Third; at another he drives his mouth into the grimace of a Bowery thug, and shoved his shoulders forward like a prizefighter; at another he mimicked a society woman in the most accurate fashion. He was working all in the last part of his sermon, although he did not profess anything unusual in the athletic line, nothing worthy of note in his high lofty evangelistic tumbling."

"At one time he defied anyone to accuse him of being a greater, more successful actor than the New York newspaper men, for whom he seems now to have no love. The fact that they have said plainly what they thought of him, instead of lathering him with flattery, as has been heaped upon him in other cities, appears to have convinced him they were right in the beginning," as he said to some one. He has been unable to grasp that the newspapers have looked at him simply as a piece of news."

HAMPTON'S LIVE CLUB. Commercial Association Doing Much Good Work For Town. Special to Times-Republican.

Hampton, April 12.—Perhaps no single influence could be mentioned that has a greater power for good to the business interests of this city than has the Hampton Commercial Association. Organized about five years ago, it at once took up the work that all realized needed to be done, and it has been carried forward with marked success.

The present officials were chosen last November, and without any disparagement of former officials, it should be stated that at no time has the work gone forward better, or has more been done in the same time, than during the past year. It is also true, and the officials acknowledge it, that without loyal and steady assistance from each of the members, the officers could do but little. The spirit of "get together and work together" is apparent all the time.

Mr. Andrews, the president, is a leading attorney, and has been identified with the business interests of the city for many years—is almost a pioneer. Mr. Clark is a younger man, and is a member of the firm of Clark, Saley & Clark, attorneys and abstractors.

The Hampton Commercial Association held a meeting recently to make preparations for the coming year, and to consider the matter of putting on a short course at some date next winter. A Mr. McDonald was present from Ames and outlined the plan and work as it is being given at other places in Iowa.

Before the meeting closed it was decided to hold a proposition, and in all probability this city will be listed for the course late next winter.

The matter of advertising for the auto show was planned, committees reported arrangements going forward in good shape, and everything promises to be a success. In connection with the showing of automobiles, the business men generally will co-operate heartily with the auto dealers for the purpose of bringing a great number of visitors to town during the show. Special sales, demonstrations and other unusual efforts will be put forth to increase the number of visitors.

NEW BUILDINGS AT GRINNELL. Ground Broken For Additional Cottage Dormitories. Special to Times-Republican.

Grinnell, April 12.—The contract has been let and the ground broken for two more cottage dormitories for women, to be placed north of the new buildings now nearing completion, adjacent to Messers cottage of Iowa College. The contract price is $80,000 and the new dormitories are to be ready for use by the opening of college in the fall. This increases the expenditures of the college or new buildings this year to $250,000. The next expenditure in that line, as now planned, will be for a men's gymnasium. Following that there has been planned the building of dormitories for the men. The accommodations for women, to be ready with the beginning of the next college year, will take care of 300 women. It is stated that all rooms now under way have already been engaged and there are numerous applicants waiting the completion of the two additional cottages. These will be on the same plan as the ones now nearing completion and will extend half way from Seventh to Eighth avenue, facing East street. An ornamental gateway will be erected across Seventh avenue and cloister will connect them with the rest of the dormitory system.

When the plans for college buildings, as at present formulated, are all carried out there will be a new gymnasium for women north of the present ladies' cottage, and facing on Eighth avenue, completing the quadrangle.

The Bailey-Morrison Company, that has the contract for the buildings now going up, has the contract for the new dormitories. The Grinnell College Foundation has the whole matter of building in charge.
