UNDERSEA WARFARE AIDS WHEAT BEARS

PRICES DECLINE BECAUSE ITALIAN VESSELS CANCEL SAILINGS.

HIGHER CABLES HAVE ONLY TRANSIENT EFFECT

Adverse Weather Gives Firmness to Near-by Options in Corn, But Deferred Deliveries Are Affected by Weakness of Wheat—Oats Enjoy Better Demand.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Wheat prices took a downward turn today, influenced by reports that the activity of hostile marines was chiefly responsible for Italian vessels cancelling trips across the Atlantic. Higher cables had only a transient effect. The unsettled weather also received but little attention. Shipping prices which ranged from a shade off to 1/2 and 3/4 advance, were followed by a general setback.

The close was steady, 1/2% to 3/4% lower, with December at 1.04 1/4 and May at 1.09 1/4.

Corn. Adverse weather gave firmness to nearby options in corn. The deferred deliveries, however, sympathized with the weakness of wheat. After opening unchanged to 1/2 higher, the market scored moderate gains for December, but May tended to sag.

Oats. Oats were in better demand than for some time. Several leading firms took a conspicuous part in the buying.

Provisions. Strength of hogs lifted provisions. Lard shorts covered freely.

IMPROVED SHIPPING DEMAND AIDS HOGS

STRENGTH IMPARTED TO MARKET BECAUSE OF INQUIRY FROM EAST.

ENTIRE MARKET FIRM TO 5 CENTS HIGHER

Bulk of Cattle Offerings of Unattractive Quality and Market Turns Weak—Call For Sheep and Lambs Confined Largely to Big Packers—Review of Market Conditions.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Improved shipping demand gave strength today to the hog market. While the top Thursday stood 3 1/2 cents lower than a week ago, heavy packing classes are about the same as a week ago, with underweights 20@40 cents lower than previous Thursday.

The fact that heavy packers are outselling the general run of fair to good light weights is making it hard to sell for salesmen in explaining why the "big heavy" packers outsell the desirable weights, but it is a case of weight counting against quality.

Receipts today were slightly below expectations, the estimated number at 28,000 including 2,500 direct to packers. Quality today was poorer than Wednesday when the average to the load was 91, showing how very light offerings are in weight.

This week's hog run promises to reach 200,000, the largest total since second week of last February and 68,000 more than a year ago.

Cattle. Most of the cattle offered were of unattractive quality. The run in the west shows signs of subsidence and if eastern demand revises the market ought to pick up, but that there will be plenty of the kinds of cattle now selling at 7.50@9.50 right along the trade is confident.

Eastern demand has been lacking because Virginia and Kentucky cattle have been running larger than usual. Packers have been free buyers in Kentucky and all eastern markets have had more cattle than they could conveniently absorb. At Lancaster, Pa., the market has been glutted. Some eastern inquiry has been reported here this week, however, indicating that killers down that way expect subsidence of local receipts and will be here for more cattle. Further relaxation of restrictions on the movement are to be expected and will broaden the outlet.

Few western cattle have arrived here this week and at Missouri river markets the crop of grass beef has been practically garnered. The Dakotas, Wyoming and Nebraska are about in and Kansas pastures have been depleted. The crop of corn fed cattle in Missouri river territory is not available yet and a supply gap is expected which will enable Iowa, Missouri and Illinois feeders to get rid of short fed stuff. Colorado still has considerable beef to unload and consignments from that quarter will be in evidence until early in December.

The poultry season must be reckoned with that commodity being a keen competitor of beef around the holiday period. Choice cattle are scarce, however, and high priced bullocks, usually experience the brunt of poultry competition. The outlook is most unpromising for middle grades of steers, weighing 1,200@1,400 pounds and selling at 7.50@9.50. These are bad actors now, as they comprise the big end of the horn and plenty of them are on the hoof and the soft corn crop will unload cattle right along, as there is no incentive to ship in corn where the crop was a failure and that what little old corn remains is held at a prohibitive price.

Sheep. Call for sheep and lambs was confined chiefly to the big packers. The holiday falling next Thursday and demand restrictions from the temporary favor shown by the meat consuming public to poultry suggests the propriety of short runs of ovine stock all next week, if prices are to be retained.
