TONIGHT
Church People
Last night we said nearly 3,000,000,000 people were interested enough during the year 1915 in the motion pictures to attend. Can it be doubted then that this art or industry reflects the ideals of the great mass of people? And surely, if it speaks to and for the people, it must tell the story of life, and if it tells the story of life it must be free to speak truthfully, to reflect life as it is, as does the drama and the press. It can not be doubted but that the same ideal underlies them all, and the people should present the same attitude to them all.
WHAT ARE YOU DOING FOR THE MOVIE?
Are you co-operating with the house whom aim is to show the clean and better photoplays? Do you support the photoplays you want shown? Are you contributing by presence or advice? Were you present when we showed "Homer's Odyssey"? Did you see "The Star of Bethlehem"? Did you bring a friend to see Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress"? If you did, we thank you very much. We mention the above features because they were the first clean pictures in Marshalltown.

Long Time Between Jobs.
A tramp, meekly knocked on the back door of a rural home and asked a bite of eat from the housewife, who responded:
"You don't look like a man who should starve," she declared, after a critical survey. "Why don't you go to work?"
"I would, lady," was the reply of the hobo, "only everybody I go to wants a letter of reference from my last employer."
"No, ma'am," he answered. "He has been dead more than thirty years."—Chicago News.

JANE GREY NEVER PLAYED IN FAILURE

NEW EQUITABLE STAR HAS REMARKABLE RECORD AS STAGE AND SCREEN FAVORITE.
Jane Grey, who is starring in the new Equitable feature, "Man and His Angel," is one of that organization's most important acquisitions of recent date. She had been a star with both Famous Players and Triangle before joining the Triumph Film Corporation, whose features are released under the Equitable banner.

Miss Grey has had an astonishingly successful career for so young a woman. Her first experience was with the famous Belasco Stock Theater in Los Angeles, where from this time she quickly graduated into important roles and soon attracted the attention of Eastern managers. David Belasco secured her services and for several seasons she played the leading feminine roles in this master producer's offerings.
Her principal hits with Belasco were "The Matrimonial Failure" and "The Concert."
Following her last engagement with Belasco, Miss Grey was featured in two Frohman productions, "The Conspiracy" and "Nearly Married." Last season she co-starred with John Barrymore in "Kick-In."
Miss Grey is proud of her record as a pupil of the two greatest stage directors in America—David Belasco and Leo DeWitt. She is also proud of the fact that she has never been in a play that failed.

In her first picture, "The Little Gray Lady," with the Triangle Company her most important appearances were in "Let Katy Do It" and "The Walls."
Miss Grey's wonderful charming personality, even in its photographic version on the screen, was so appealing that President Arthur H. Jacobs of the Triumph Film Corporation, after seeing her in one of her pictures, made her a permanent possession of his organization. Mr. Jacobs offered the charming Miss Grey all sorts of flattering inducements, and eventually succeeded in signing her for "Man and His Angel."
Under her new management Miss Grey more than made good, with the result that as soon as she had finished work in "Man and His Angel" under Director Burton King, she began on a new picture at the Triumph studio, entitled, "The Surrender."

Flynn, of Monmouth, Ill., were out-of-town guests.

AMUSEMENTS.
At the Grand.
Considerably more plot than generally accompanies pictures with Mary Pickford as the main feature is furnished in "Poor Little Peppina," shown at the Grand Tuesday evening to capacity houses. The production is in seven reels, and besides having some very good acting and an interesting story, there are many elaborate and beautiful scenic effects which add greatly to the performance.
Miss Pickford is seen as Lois Torrens, later known as Peppina, the daughter of a wealthy American in Italy, who was kidnapped when a little child and made to work hard, living with an Italian family, supposedly her own parents. Jack Pickford is Beppo, her foster brother. Peppina runs away because she does not want to marry Bernardo, a cruel padrone. She smuggles herself aboard an ocean liner, disguised as a boy, and has all sorts of adventures, even falling again into the hands of the men kidnaped her when she was a little girl. Eventually, however, Carroll discovers that she is not a boy at all, and really the lost child of the Torrens family. She is restored to her rightful family and of course marries Carroll.
There are a great variety of scenes about the picture and the fanciful realism and beauty of many of them make the picture one worth seeing, aside from the well-worked-out story.

At the Casino.
Orrin Johnson and Seena Owen, popular screen stars, appear at the Casino Tuesday evening to fair-sized audiences in "The Penitentes," a story of religious fanaticism in Mexico in the seventeenth century. Johnson takes the part of Manuel, the grandson of Father Rossi, a Catholic priest, who is raised among the Penitentes, a fanatical religious society, opposed by the Catholics. The Penitentes keep Manuel from coming into estates which rightfully belong to him. His identity is suspected by Father David, another priest, and the latter takes an interest in the boy. The Penitentes plan to crucify the boy, but at the last moment he is saved and claims his sweetheart, Dolores, with whom he has been in love for some time. Dramatic acting by both Johnson and Seena Owen, accompanied by much impressive scenery, make the picture good. "Poor Penitentes" and Polly Moran, are featured in a comedy, "The Hunt."

At the Lyric.
"Excuse Me," adapted to moving pictures from the well-known stage farce by Rupert Hughes, was shown at the Lyric Tuesday evening to fair business. The piece is a laughable mix-up, with the scenes laid mostly in a sleeping car where a young couple who want to get married run into another couple who want to get divorced, a minister, a missionary, and other characters calculated to produce mirth. After many complications the young couple succeed in being married and all goes smoothly. The picture is well produced and capably acted.

George Alexander, of State Center, was a business visitor in the city Tuesday.
Washing Won't Rid Hair Of Dandruff
The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.
Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.
You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustreous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.
You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

If You Have a Boy Who Is Hard on Shoes
Try him in our "Iron Clad" BOYS' $1.95 SHOES

WE'll prove to you that it isn't the fault of the boy, but of the shoes. If boys' shoes are to wear well they must be strong, sturdy leather, and built extra strong at the hard-wear points. These things we've learned by experience, and consequently our shoes give the greatest mileage.
"Iron Clad" shoes come in sturdy gunmetal, button or lace styles.
