

Just Apply This Paste and the Hairs Vanish

(Helps to Beauty.) safe, reliable home-treatment for quick removal of superfluous hairs...

What is IT?

Time to Plant Garden AND Flower Seeds

This grocery store prides itself on having a varied selection of both. Most of the well known seed firms are represented in our lines this year.

These seeds were received this year from the seed houses and you are sure of getting seed that will grow.

Phone 97 Crosby & Crosby GROCERS The Grocery that you should know.

Lowney's Chocolates

IT IS NOT A SECRET That our candies are rare quality. In fact we couldn't keep it secret if we wished...

B. A. MORGAN Wholesale and Retail Druggist. 10 WEST MAIN STREET

Jeffery Velie

Roskopf Auto Co. At the Marshalltown Buggy Co. Building Phone 38 For Demonstration.

Jeffery Velie

Times-Republican

CITY IN BRIEF

Five-cent domestic sardines, seven for 25 cents. Sanitary Grocery.

Buy Tip-Top bread and have good bread. Sanitary Grocery.

Large assortment scrub brushes, your choice 10 cents. Sanitary Grocery.

Red and black raspberries and strawberries, canned in syrup, in number 2 cans 20 cent quality, at 15 cents a can. Sanitary Grocery.

Mrs. R. M. Burtis and daughter Ruth, who have been visiting for a few days with the former's sister, Mrs. C. C. Trine, and family, returned to Chicago last night.

More-Strub's buttermilk bread than all others now sold by the grocers of this city. This is the bread that far exceeds the kind mother used to make.

The word "Sanitary" means clean; that's a feature of our store. The word "Economy" means a saving, and "S. & H." green stamps mean the same.

Tomorrow afternoon, at the fair grounds, baseball fans will be regaled with a contest between the "Whites" and "Greys" of the Anson squad, who are to stage an exhibition practice game for the benefit of the parks and playgrounds, movement of the city.

Miss Mamie Mayer was hostess Tuesday evening to the Beta Chapter of Westminster Guild at her home, 111 West State street.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. W. H. Gelvin, 403 North Third avenue.

DAVIS HAS LOTS OF FUN. Gives Fishing Party at Which 450 Pounds Are Caught.

The St. Petersburg, Fla., Times, of April 12, says: William A. Davis was host to a number of friends on a fishing party to the gulf yesterday on the Benetita.

Horton's Condition Unchanged. There was no noticeable change in Col. C. C. Horton's condition today.

CHOOSING NEW MODERATOR. Waterloo Presbyterian Elects Pastor of Waterloo Church—Other Business.

Rev. C. E. McCartney, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Waterloo, was elected moderator of the Waterloo Presbytery at the session now being held at Albion.

Thirty-five different churches are represented at the meeting, which is unusually well attended, about seventy-five delegates being present.

Eliminating the Federal League meant renewed life and popularity for public managers and players alike.

breaker in public favor. Possibly the only drawback is the probability that some of the older stars in the two big leagues are beginning their last season after many years of fame.

to a bit. But Honus says he's going to remain in the game as long as he can.

He's No. 1 in the pictures. No. 2 shows a scene in a recent game in New York and No. 3 is the great and unequalled Detroit star, Ty Cobb, the best of them all, many fans think.

EVERY ONE EXPECTS 1916 BIG LEAGUE SEASON TO BE BEST IN GAME'S HISTORY

WITH US AGAIN!

Jeffery Velie

the presbytery. Meals were served to the delegates in the church. The session closes tonight with an address by Rev. L. C. Cooley, of Mason City, who will speak of "The Rural Church."

ANNOUNCEMENTS. Senator. I wish to announce my candidacy for renomination as senator from Marshall county before the republican primary election to be held June 5.

County Attorney. Times-Republican: Please announce my candidacy for renomination for county attorney before the republican primary to be held June 5.

Representative. I will be a candidate for the republican nomination as representative from Marshall county before the primary of the party to be held June 5.

Clerk of Courts. I will be a candidate for the republican nomination as clerk of the district court before the primary election to be held June 5.

Recorder. I will be a candidate for the republican nomination as county recorder before the primary to be held June 5.

Supervisors. Times-Republican: Please announce my candidacy for the republican nomination for county supervisor for the term beginning Jan. 1, 1917.

Auditor. Please announce that I will be a candidate for nomination for county auditor to succeed myself for a second term at the republican primary, June 5.

Treasurer. I will be a candidate for nomination as treasurer of Marshall county, subject to the will of the republican voters at the primary on June 5.

Times-Republican: Please announce my name as a candidate for the republican nomination as county treasurer before the primary to be held June 5.

Sheriff. Upon the solicitation of friends I have decided to become a candidate for sheriff, subject to the wishes of the republican voters at the primary June 5.

Republican County Convention. To the republican electors of Marshall county: By direction of the republican county central committee of Marshall county, and in accordance with the provision of the statute, a delegate convention of the republicans of Marshall county will be held in the city of Marshalltown.

HAVE YOU EATEN FASTNACHTS? One Pennsylvania County Consumed 215,000 on Shrove Tuesday.

True it is that half the world does not know what the other half eats. Here we have slipped quietly into another Lenten season, but how many of you ate a Fastnacht cake?

will be entitled to delegates as follows: Bangor 3, Eden 4, Greenacres No. 1 4, Greenacres No. 2 4, Iowa 2, Jefferson No. 1 3, Jefferson No. 2 3, LeGrand No. 1 2, LeGrand No. 2 2, Liberty 3, Liscomb 4, Linn No. 1 4, Linn No. 2 4, Logan No. 1 3, Logan No. 2 3, Marietta 3, Marion 3, Minerva 3, State Center 3, Taylor 3, Timber Creek 3, Vienna 3, Washington 3, Marshalltown 7.

LOCAL MARKETS. Prices Paid to Farmers by Marshalltown Merchants. The following prices are quoted by Marshalltown dealers for the different varieties of farmers' provisions, grain and produce.

George McCord quotes the following prices: Butter—30, Eggs—18, Benedict Flour and Feed Company will pay the following prices at their place of business in this city, subject, however, to market changes.

Local Live Stock Market. Britain & Co., today quoted the following prices for hogs in wagon load: Premium hogs, over 150—9.15, Hogs, 125 to 150—8.90, Good packers—8.90.

Cats and Dogs in War. Bombardments affect different animals in different ways. Dogs, as a rule, show great distress when shells burst near them and howl piteously.

Good For His Corn. An old acquaintance, one of those fellows who hides his airpipes the year round behind a set of blond galwags, complained that the continued wet weather was certainly bad for his corn.

Make Your Body Tingle with life and energy for the day's work by eating foods that contain real nutrition—that do not use up all the vitality of the body in an effort to digest them.

Shredded Wheat Biscuit supplies the greatest amount of body-building, energy-creating material with the least tax upon the digestive organs.

Regimental mascots appear to have the best time, for they stay in the new trenches, live on the fat of the land, and are made much of by the local inhabitants.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

There have been instances of lost dogs and cats actually venturing into the British trenches in France during an engagement. Some of them lived in cottages near the firing line—long since destroyed—and clung to the remnants of their homes; others strayed a long distance.

A nondescript dog, with an Armenian address on his collar, turned up near Wytchaete early one morning, spent the day with a British battalion, disappeared at dark, and was never seen again.

Regimental mascots appear to have the best time, for they stay in the new trenches, live on the fat of the land, and are made much of by the local inhabitants.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

eh? But they know over in York county, where the bakers in the city of York alone turned out 215,000 cakes for Shrove Tuesday. That was four Fastnachts for every inhabitant; and I suspect that everybody old enough to ask or fight for his Fastnachts got his average.

In Pennsylvania Dutch communities the Fastnacht cake is quite as much of a fixture for the fast on the night before Ash Wednesday as baked beans are at a New England Society dinner or roast turkey at Thanksgiving.

Like Husband, Like Wife. Rev. Benjamin Moore, the second bishop of New York, was a man noted in his day for his ready wit—a quality that his wife apparently shared with him.

A dinner was given by some of Governor Morris' friends when he was about to depart for Europe. Bishop Moore and his wife were of the party.

Mrs. Moore immediately added: "My dear, you have come into possession of your inheritance remarkably soon."

Sounded Familiar. An Englishman was walking along one of the principal thoroughfares of Washington and saw a curly-haired old negro putting coal in one of the cellars of the government buildings.

"What is your name?" asked the interested tourist at length. The negro bowed in a pleasant way. "My name's George Washington, sah; at your service."

"Washington? Washington?" muttered the Englishman. "It seems to me I have heard the name before."

"Shouldn't wonder, sah," replied the negro, in a delighted tone. "I've been here doing this sort of thing for the last ten years."—Philadelphia Record.

Good For His Corn. An old acquaintance, one of those fellows who hides his airpipes the year round behind a set of blond galwags, complained that the continued wet weather was certainly bad for his corn.

Make Your Body Tingle with life and energy for the day's work by eating foods that contain real nutrition—that do not use up all the vitality of the body in an effort to digest them.

Shredded Wheat Biscuit supplies the greatest amount of body-building, energy-creating material with the least tax upon the digestive organs.

Regimental mascots appear to have the best time, for they stay in the new trenches, live on the fat of the land, and are made much of by the local inhabitants.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

was coming on, he said, "All right, so far as I know, but there was only enough of the stuff to go over about a half acre, and if that proves satisfactory I'll get a case of it and go over the whole field."—Zim in Cartoons Magazine.

Our Bewildered Poultry. "What is a roost, dad?" asked Tommy. "A roost, my son, is a pole upon which chickens sit at night," replied his father.

"And what is a perch, dad?" "A perch is what chickens perch on." "Then, I suppose, dad, a chicken could roost on a perch?" came the further inquiry.

"Of course," was the smiling reply. "And they could perch on a roost?" "Why, y-yes," answered dad. "But if chickens perched on a roost, that would make the roost a perch, wouldn't it? But, if, just after some chickens had perched on a roost, and made it a perch, some more chickens came along and roosted on the perch, and made it a roost, then the perch would be a perch and the perch would be a roost, and some of the chickens would be perchers, and the others would be roosters, and—"

Much-Needed Device. The optical device, recently invented, designed to help women choose dresses without mistaking the colors, could well be abetted by a tiny automatic phonograph, trained to repeat, incessantly, the exact numerals of hubby's salary.—Springfield Republican.

An agricultural census of Uruguay has been postponed on account of the losses occasioned by an invasion of locusts.

There have been instances of lost dogs and cats actually venturing into the British trenches in France during an engagement. Some of them lived in cottages near the firing line—long since destroyed—and clung to the remnants of their homes; others strayed a long distance.

A nondescript dog, with an Armenian address on his collar, turned up near Wytchaete early one morning, spent the day with a British battalion, disappeared at dark, and was never seen again.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

Regimental mascots appear to have the best time, for they stay in the new trenches, live on the fat of the land, and are made much of by the local inhabitants.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

There have been instances of lost dogs and cats actually venturing into the British trenches in France during an engagement. Some of them lived in cottages near the firing line—long since destroyed—and clung to the remnants of their homes; others strayed a long distance.

A nondescript dog, with an Armenian address on his collar, turned up near Wytchaete early one morning, spent the day with a British battalion, disappeared at dark, and was never seen again.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

Regimental mascots appear to have the best time, for they stay in the new trenches, live on the fat of the land, and are made much of by the local inhabitants.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

There have been instances of lost dogs and cats actually venturing into the British trenches in France during an engagement. Some of them lived in cottages near the firing line—long since destroyed—and clung to the remnants of their homes; others strayed a long distance.

A nondescript dog, with an Armenian address on his collar, turned up near Wytchaete early one morning, spent the day with a British battalion, disappeared at dark, and was never seen again.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

Regimental mascots appear to have the best time, for they stay in the new trenches, live on the fat of the land, and are made much of by the local inhabitants.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

There have been instances of lost dogs and cats actually venturing into the British trenches in France during an engagement. Some of them lived in cottages near the firing line—long since destroyed—and clung to the remnants of their homes; others strayed a long distance.

There have been instances of lost dogs and cats actually venturing into the British trenches in France during an engagement. Some of them lived in cottages near the firing line—long since destroyed—and clung to the remnants of their homes; others strayed a long distance.

A nondescript dog, with an Armenian address on his collar, turned up near Wytchaete early one morning, spent the day with a British battalion, disappeared at dark, and was never seen again.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

Regimental mascots appear to have the best time, for they stay in the new trenches, live on the fat of the land, and are made much of by the local inhabitants.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

There have been instances of lost dogs and cats actually venturing into the British trenches in France during an engagement. Some of them lived in cottages near the firing line—long since destroyed—and clung to the remnants of their homes; others strayed a long distance.

A nondescript dog, with an Armenian address on his collar, turned up near Wytchaete early one morning, spent the day with a British battalion, disappeared at dark, and was never seen again.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

Regimental mascots appear to have the best time, for they stay in the new trenches, live on the fat of the land, and are made much of by the local inhabitants.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

There have been instances of lost dogs and cats actually venturing into the British trenches in France during an engagement. Some of them lived in cottages near the firing line—long since destroyed—and clung to the remnants of their homes; others strayed a long distance.

A nondescript dog, with an Armenian address on his collar, turned up near Wytchaete early one morning, spent the day with a British battalion, disappeared at dark, and was never seen again.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

Regimental mascots appear to have the best time, for they stay in the new trenches, live on the fat of the land, and are made much of by the local inhabitants.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

There have been instances of lost dogs and cats actually venturing into the British trenches in France during an engagement. Some of them lived in cottages near the firing line—long since destroyed—and clung to the remnants of their homes; others strayed a long distance.

A nondescript dog, with an Armenian address on his collar, turned up near Wytchaete early one morning, spent the day with a British battalion, disappeared at dark, and was never seen again.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

Regimental mascots appear to have the best time, for they stay in the new trenches, live on the fat of the land, and are made much of by the local inhabitants.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

There have been instances of lost dogs and cats actually venturing into the British trenches in France during an engagement. Some of them lived in cottages near the firing line—long since destroyed—and clung to the remnants of their homes; others strayed a long distance.

A nondescript dog, with an Armenian address on his collar, turned up near Wytchaete early one morning, spent the day with a British battalion, disappeared at dark, and was never seen again.

Another British battalion was adopted in the thick of a fight near Postulim in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived, snugly in the trenches with an identification disk around its neck.

E. R. LAY THE NEW ENGLAND Trade at Headquarters—It's Safe

House Cleaning Necessities Cedar Mop and Cedar Oil 25c Dustless Mop 19c CEDAR OIL Small Bottle - 10c Pint Bottle - 17c Quart Bottle - 33c BIG WONDER DUSTLESS MOP DUSTLESS RAG BOTTLE OIL 59c Moth Proof Bags for COATS, SUITS, FURS E. R. LAY

WEATHER—Sunshine at This Store. Bargain Store News VOLUME 5. MARSHALLTOWN, IOWA, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 19, 1916. NUMBER 91. New Easter Millinery In Our Cloak and Suit Department STORECLEANING UNDERMUSLINS AT SPECIAL PRICES FARMERS NOTICE WE ARE PAYING 20c FOR EGGS AND 30c FOR BUTTER We always pay the highest price for your produce. You will make no mistake in bringing your eggs and butter to the Bargain Store.

EVERY ONE EXPECTS 1916 BIG LEAGUE SEASON TO BE BEST IN GAME'S HISTORY WITH US AGAIN! Illustration of baseball players at bat and fielding.