

DOCTORS FACE DEATH

LIVES OF 400 PHYSICIANS AT DAVENPORT CONVENTION IMPERILED.

STEAMER IN DANGER WHEN RUDDER BREAKS

Big Steamer Carrying Excursionists Drifts Toward Bridge—Ferry Boat Hears Call For Help and Prevents Disaster—Des Moines Awarded Next Meeting—Society Elects Officers.

Davenport, May 12.—The lives of 400 Iowa physicians who attended the state convention here, were imperiled when the rudder of the steamer on which they were taking an outing broke and the boat started to drift down towards the Crescent railroad bridge. A ferryboat plying between Davenport and Rock Island heard the signal of distress and came to the rescue.

Had it not been for the proximity of the ferryboat the swift current probably would have carried the excursion steamer with great force into the bridge as it was impossible to steer the big boat.

WINNIPEG IS VAST CAMP.

Canadian Metropolis Permeated With Military Spirit.

Fort Dodge, May 13.—"Winnipeg is permeated with the military spirit," said E. B. Rich, of New York, who is here on a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Rich. "It is nothing but a military camp. It is a common sight to see thousands of men marching. You can see down one street a thousand men drilling and if you look the other way another battalion is going thru the setting up exercise."

Mr. Rich has just returned from a visit to the Canadian city. He says the effect of the war is seen in the high prices. There are many vacant stores and residences and real estate prices, poor enough before the war now are, out of the race entirely. The saving clause is that these thousands of men coming in from all parts of Manitoba have to be fed and cared for. This provides work for many and keeps money circulating. Canada is strong in favor of the war. Most of the inhabitants are either immigrants, children of immigrants or Canadians. The Americans have to be very careful of their speech, or some little remark is apt to pull down a hornet's nest. The Germans in Winnipeg are under police surveillance and have to report at headquarters once every thirty days. In case they move or change address the police must be notified.
