

STRIKE AT ARSENAL

THREE HUNDRED MACHINISTS AT ROCK ISLAND DEMAND WAGE INCREASE.

NOTIFY COMMANDANT OF WALKOUT TUESDAY

Employees Base Demands on Recommendation of Labor Department Wrongly Interpreted—Other Workmen Not Expected to Join in Strike—Claim Wages High as Other Plants

Dayenport, May 15.—Union machinists at the Rock Island arsenal have served notice on Col. George W. Burr, commandant at the arsenal that beginning Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock they would quit work until their wages were adjusted so that they would be the same as paid in Chicago for similar work as well as the same as paid in other plants in the tri-cities.

Blame Labor Bureau.

Washington, May 15.—War department officials believe the complaint of the Rock Island arsenal machinists is due to a misunderstanding of recommendations of the labor department on which a new wage scale for the arsenal soon is to be promulgated.

Department's View.

Secretary Baker announced that the machinists would be given increases based on scales in operation at private plants in Rock Island, Moline, and Davenport, Iowa, which are lower than the Chicago wages.

West Des Moines Wins.

Iowa City, May 15.—By scoring points in all but one event, the high hurdles, West Des Moines romped away from the field in the ninth annual invitation to anticipate the misleading campaign of the Taxpayers' league, which had a meeting scheduled for Saturday night. According to reports, this was accomplished.

Each town member of the club, had present a country member or friend as his guest, and that made ideal conditions for a sane presentation of the road campaign now on in Iowa.

The speech of Governor Clarke was remarkably strong. He talked directly to the farmers. He asked them to be dispassionate, to reserve judgment, to consider that constitutionally nothing could come of any great bonding scheme such as the taxpayers league was talking about; that of taxes paid very little went to the state, or could, or was chargeable thereto; that taxation was almost entirely a local matter, imposed by local agencies, either county, city or school; that good roads were not for the joyrider or the pleasure seeker, but were a definite investment for the country and inevitably and universally improved the value of farmland as well as rural social conditions.

But, most of all he argued for what he called the "teachable mind," which would permit the reception of all facts concerning good roads and the welfare of the state. He urged the bigness of the age, the linking up of countries and towns, the forward march of the state of Iowa, the conception of a great vision of a time when the entire nation would be one people, one group, one spirit, one united nation.

"In this analysis of future conditions," said the governor, "no single factor exceeds the factor of good roads."

Ralph Bolton made the sunset and clearest kind of presentation of what was being urged in the way of legislation. There was no purpose or thought of increasing bonding—which could not be done under the constitution, he explained. There was no thought of even increasing taxation, unless the people of a locality themselves so desired. The point to the whole movement, he said, was greater efficiency in the expenditure and results from the present sum total of money spent in Iowa for highways—that was all.

WOMAN DELEGATE IN FAVOR OF CUMMINS AND FRILESS Q. O. P.

Chicago, May 11.—Declaring for the old fashioned republicanism, without frills, Louise P. Lusk, of Missoula, Mont., the first woman elected in this year's primaries, a delegate to the republican national convention, reached Chicago yesterday.

"Mrs. Lusk, who is a banker, the wife of one of Montana's richest ranchmen, and who derives her political inspiration from William McKinley's public life, is here to support the republican nomination for president, she has opened a sort of woman delegate headquarters at the Congress Hotel.

"She is instructed by the Montana statewide vote, to vote for Senator Cummings of Iowa."

"I will vote for Senator Cummins," she said yesterday, "so long as he is in the race. If he should not be nominated, well, I'd just be for any good republican."

Here's Her Platform.

"In my campaign—I was one of twenty-two candidates running in the primary at which eight were elected—I stated my platform. I had the platform printed and circulated and paid the bill myself. It was as follows:

"The republican party and its principles."

"Equal suffrage."

"Preparedness and peace."

"Women participating in selecting all candidates for office."

"Keeping the United States in its proper place as the greatest nation in the world."

LEAPS INTO CISTERN

MENTALLY DERANGED MASON CITY WOMAN PLUNGES INTO WATER WITH CHILD.

MOTHER IS RESCUED; INFANT DROWNED

All Efforts to Resuscitate Baby Prove Fruitless—Mother and Child Found at Bottom of Cistern by Neighbor—Attribute Woman's Act to Depression Resulting From Illness.

Mason City, May 15.—With her baby clasped in her arms, Mrs. James Kosik, living at 819 West Miller street, leaped into a cistern in the basement of her home and also both the mother and child were removed from the cistern within a half hour, all efforts to resuscitate the child failed.

Mrs. Kosik, who is believed to be mentally deranged, will recover.

The attempt at suicide on the part of Mrs. Kosik occurred soon after Mr. Kosik had left the house for the National Clay Works where he is employed on the night force.

Discovered by Neighbor.

Mrs. Faltus, a neighbor, went to the house about 7 o'clock, and being unable to find Mrs. Kosik in the room, Mrs. Faltus ran into the basement where by the light reflected from the stairway she discovered Mrs. Kosik lying at the bottom of the cistern.

Mrs. Faltus was spending some time in Davenport, having been called there on Friday last to attend the funeral of a friend.

Mrs. John Davidson is here from her home in Emmetsburg for a visit at the W. Davidson home.

SIR ROGER CASEMENT

In an interview in the New York Times former Mayor McClellan, of New York, told of meeting in Munich Sir Roger Casement, leader of the Irish rebellion arrested by the British. The meeting took place in August 1915. "At that time he talked in a general way of his hopes for Irish freedom, but if he had any definite plans at that time he made no reference to them to me," said Mr. McClellan. "Casement did not mention or give a hint that he expected a revolt in Ireland, nor did he say anything that would indicate he intended to lead a landing force there. He had renounced his title and surrendered his pension from the British government. Sir Roger appeared to have strong mental vigor, but he impressed me as a dreamer and an idealist. That he had gained some influence in Germany, however, may be seen by the fact that shortly after his arrival there the kaiser issued his proclamation regarding Irish independence. Many attribute that to Casement's efforts. Certainly he was regarded as the official Irishman there, both as spokesman and representative, apparently, for he had a special passport, signed either by the kaiser or the German chancellor, which read, in part, 'Sir Roger Casement, der Irlander.'" ("Sir Roger Casement, the Irishman.")
