ELECTION OF OFFICERS AND SELECTION OF MEETING PLACE TO TAKE PLACE TODAY.

DES MOINES AND CLINTON WANT CONVENTION IN 1917

Fight Has Narrowed Down to Two Cities—Reports of Committees Feature Morning Session—Railroad Men Play Great Ball Game and Have Big Parade.

Election of officers for the ensuing year and the choosing of a city for the 1917 convention late this afternoon marked the close of the two days' session of the Iowa State Manufacturers' Association. Most of the 140 representatives of Iowa factories who have been in the city will leave for their homes tonight.

Foremost among the day's events in the manufacturers' line was the narrowing down of the fight for the next convention to Des Moines and Clinton.

Just before noon the convention elected F. E. Spaulding, of Grinnell, president, and Eugene Adams, of Dubuque, vice president. Mr. Spaulding has been vice president. These are the only two elective offices.

Other Cities Boost For Clinton. Altho Burlington and Waterloo delegations came prepared to bid for the meeting next year, the Clinton delegation was successful in swinging them over to work against Des Moines, making two towns in opposite ends of the state opponents for the gathering next year.

Reports of committees took all of the convention's time this forenoon, with a discussion following each chairman's report. Committees on workmen's compensation, state insurance, employer's welfare, maximum hour, purchase of supplies for state institutions, manufacturing in state institutions and the 2-cent passenger fare were taken up. The following chairmen of the committees reported in the order named: John A. Gunn, Keosauqua; A. Y. McDonald, Dubuque; B. J. Ricker, Grinnell; P. S. Fawkes, Dubuque; E. W. Murray, Des Moines; and T. P. Sharpnack, Des Moines. Some of the railroad men were planning on being present to hear the general discussion by the entire assembly on 2-cent fares. These reports occupied all the time up to noon.

Wednesday's Program. Ed E. Sheasgreen's address on cost finding was the main feature of Wednesday afternoon's program, and proved to be an interesting study of cost accounting. Mr. Sheasgreen gave many facts regarding the modern cost accounting system, and told the manufacturers it was positively the only method in which they could hope to do business profitably. He illustrated his talk with chalk drawings of tables and tabulated statistics to verify his statements.

Address on Advertising. Following Mr. Sheasgreen's address Frank Armstrong, of the Armstrong Advertising Service, Des Moines, gave an address on "Sales and Advertising."

Mr. Armstrong presented in a direct and concise way some facts about advertising as a selling force. His talk was aptly illustrated by various cases in point in which he told of merchants and firms all over the country who adopted many novel means of telling their customers about what they had to sell, and how they sold it. He took up advertising for various lines of business commonly thought of as not needing this means of publicity, and showed how every business could be bettered by the right kind of advertising. Definite statements and clear, concise facts that will appeal to the reader, make good successful advertising, according to Mr. Armstrong.

Final Committee Reports. Reports of the committee on auditing, necrology, resolutions, and highways were given at the afternoon session.

Railroad Men Busy. While the manufacturers were busy with their sessions and speeches, the 150 or more railroad men were being shown the time of their lives by A. B. Combs, chairman of the railroad end of the entertainment committee. The baseball game Wednesday afternoon between the "Boneheads" and the "Ivory Domes" was not such a farce as had been predicted. The "Ivory Domes" won in seven innings by a score of 8 to 5, and had not one of the "Boneheads" received a pitched ball fall on his head, the result might have been different. In the second inning, when a hard ball was being used, E. J. Seymour, of the Kansas City Southern, of Kansas City, was hit on the side of the head by a pitched ball, and forced to retire from the game. His injury was not serious, but a soft indoor ball was substituted and as the players were unable to knock this out of the diamond, the game was not as exciting as it might have been. Fortunate it was that Mr. Seymour was on the "Bonehead" side, say the "Ivory Domes" or he never would have survived. The batteries for the game were Becker and Shields, of the Canadian Pacific and Burlington, for the "Ivory Domes," and Goodnight and Williams, of the Northern Pacific and Southern Pacific, for the "Boneheads."

Parade to Grounds. Two nurses who proved to be only men dressed up as women, a real Scotch bagpiper, with bare knees, and an ambulance were features of the parade to the grounds before the game. The bagpiper was David Crawford, of Des Moines, brought up by the Chamber of Commerce of that city to boost for the next convention. His bagpipes lent their doleful wail to the festivities. Henry Koch, of St. Louis, general agent of the M. & St. L., at that place, and "Jack" Royster, of the Mobile & Ohio, distinguished themselves in the ball game by doing the most talking and nearly succeeded in rattling the opposing pitcher several times. Robert Booth, of this city umpired.

Local Auto Owners Co-operate. A large measure of the success of the first day of the convention was the result of the fine co-operation secured by the Marshalltown Club from local auto owners. Every train during the day was met by several automobiles which took the delegates to either Cronkleton hall or the Marshalltown Club. There were also about thirty autos in the parade furnished by local men. At the Marshalltown Club George Gregory, chairman of the committee on lodgings and accommodations, furnished over 100 men with rooms at various places about the city. Other committeemen took an equally active part in the work of getting both the manufacturers and railroad men settled.

VISITORS WELL PLEASSED.

R. H. Faxon, of Des Moines, Compliments Marshalltown.

"I think Marshalltown covered itself with glory in this convention," said R. H. Faxon, general secretary of the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce, who is here with the big delegation from the capital city in the endeavor to capture the 1917 convention of Iowa manufacturers. "This is particularly true with respect to the big dinner given by the Marshalltown Club," said Mr. Faxon. "It was an excellent affair. It was well handled, exceptionally so, considering the large crowd, and reflects credit on the hospitality and entertaining spirit of the club and the town."

Mr. Faxon is "killing two birds with one stone," as he puts it. He is making arrangements with Secretary Sidney Johnson, of the Marshalltown Club, for the reception of the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce trade extension trip, which will be thru here on June 6. According to Mr. Faxon, there will be 125 persons on this trip, and will be here at noon. Mainly they will comprise jobbers and manufacturers, the bankers and insurance men are eligible to participation. "There will be a special train, complete in its equipment, the no diner. It is not the policy, at least this year, according to Mr. Faxon, to carry a diner, but rather to eat meals in the various towns. Here, the lunch the first day out, will be at the Pilsgrim. Secretary Johnson is arranging some other details of reception with Secretary Faxon.
