Memorial Day

Think of a multi-millionaire engrossed in some uplift. He gives of his wealth; he urges on his co-workers; he puts his heart and soul into the project. It almost wins—but it lacks. He will win! He must! He pours in his whole remaining fortune. And he takes the helm to steer against head winds; his health fails; his life snuffs out; he has given his whole world to his cause.

Yet that is no more than every individual soldier gave to his country when he fell on the field of battle. He, too, gave his all—his life.

It is not for the finite mind to know why life comes through suffering, but this Union of States was threaded on tender cords until the Blue and the Gray mixed with their life blood the cement for the everlasting amalgamation of States into the best Nation on earth—the rock of hope for the centuries—the Land of Liberty.

It is well that the wheels of industry are stopped for a day. And may the lesson of Memorial Day be a consecration to Patriotism. Why is the day hallowed? Think! You too, would make the supreme sacrifice for the flag!

MUSKIES BEATEN IN SENSATIONAL RALLY

MARSHALLTOWN WINS THRILLING ELEVEN-INNING GAME BY SCORE OF 3 TO 2.

SLATTERY AND ROJAS IN PITCHING DUEL

Big Crowd Treated to Ten Innings of Air Tight Ball, and Then One Inning of Free Hitting in Which Eganites Score Two Runs and Home Team Pulls Game From Fire With Three.

Pulling the game out of the fire in the eleventh inning, after it apparently had been lost, by staging one of the most sensational belated batting rallies ever seen on the home lot, the battling Ansons Sunday took the second game of the Muscatine series by a score of 3 to 2, and sent the big holiday crowd home baseball crazy. It was the fourth victory for Marshalltown out of five games played with the Muskies, and with Clinton meeting defeat at Fort Dodge, sent the Boyle aggregation into second place in the percentage column.

After ten innings of airtight baseball, with Slattery and Rojas in the finest fettle, both crews suddenly went wild, the Muskies hitting for a brace of runs, and the home crowd coming back strong, driving Rojas from the pan and finally winning after Flannagan had been socked in an effort to save the game for Muscatine.

Brilliant Pitching Duel. For ten innings it was a brilliant pitching duel, with Slattery having the best of the contest as to the matter of hits allowed and strike-outs. More than once, however, the port-sider was in trouble due mainly to wobbles in his support, but errors did not figure in the making of any of the scores. Muscatine hit safely in but three frames, Hruska beating out a bunt in the second, Rojas singling cleanly, and Reinhart scratching a hit in the fifth, and three blows being registered in the seventh which were turned into runs incidentally, Slattery struck out nine Muscatine batters.

Rojas Almost as Effective. Rojas was little less effective, all wing Marshalltown not more than one hit in any inning until the final attack in the eleventh. Durham connected in the second, Byers in the third and fifth, and Lee in the seventh. In the eleventh four hits were clustered, three off Rojas and one off the Musky star, Flannagan.

Altho Rojas was hit hard in the final round there is some question as to whether it was good judgment to have relieved him, to send in Flannagan, who had seen on the warning pan just four minutes and thirty seconds. Flannagan pitched but two balls, the first being called a ball by the umpire, and the second being met by Byers for a two-base drive which sent two scores across the plate, resulting in the game with Marshalltown the winner.

Wild Scene at Finish. Up to the opening of the eleventh the game had been one between two master box artists, with chances to score offering frequently but with neither team having sufficient offensive strength to drive a run across when one tally apparently was enough to bring the game to a decision. The last frame resulted in a small swatfest. As far as Slattery was concerned, perhaps, it was not due to his own weakness but to some poor guessing on the part of the umpire, Ellison, who led the final attack. The Muskies by hitting for two bases, had four perfect strikes served him before he finally hit the ball. Two were called balls, altho both cut corners by good markings and were perfect as to altitude.

The final session created a riot. Muscatine's sudden attack on the ball seemed sufficient to end the game, and the fans were resigned to defeat owing to the magnificent duel between the pitchers for ten long innings. Then Boyle's legs broke loose, and as they hit the ball for three runs the great crowd suddenly went mad. With one run across and two men on bases the fans begged for the hit that meant the game, but Durham and Lee failed to deliver, and meanwhile Flannagan was getting up a sweat. He finally sent a note to Rojas, recalling him from further duty in the strange government, and Flannagan was ushered in to handle the negotiations. Mr. Byers strode up to argue the disputed points, and soon persuaded Egan's ambassador that the controversy should be closed. Then the fans let loose. Cans of soda were thrown and pop bottles were shied about with careless abandon. A great game had been fought, and the better team won.

Rescue Fireworks For Finish. Altho the game was not devoid of thrills aside from the work of the pitchers, there being numerous good plays which served to enliven the entertainment, the real exhibition was deserved for the last act.

In the closing chapter Ellison sent local stock down 99 points by cracking out a double. Martini followed with a single, which scored Ellison, and took second on the throw, from where he scored when O'Day singled. The latter went to the midway station on the throw-in, but Hruska fell victim to strikes, and Hruska fled out to Durham.

With the game apparently slipping away, Marshalltown suddenly launched an attack that Muscatine could not repulse. Murphy strode to the plate and lammed the ball to right. Wall followed with a single in the same general direction. Durham drove a line drive to Reinhart, who made a nice catch and held the base runners at their posts. Lee was whiffed in the pinch, but LeBeau played the hero by slapping the ball over first, near the foul line, scoring Murphy. This upset "Foxy Ned" and he came on the field to protest that the ball was foul. The protest was continued just four minutes and thirty seconds, giving Egan pitcher time to warm up. Then Flannagan was rushed in to save the game. But Byers was to be reckoned with, and Flannagan did a miserable job of rescue work. His first service was on

AND "WATTY" COMES BACK.

Holds Eganites to Six Hits and Wins Saturday's Game by Score of 4 to 3. Watkins has come back, pitching a nice game of baseball in Saturday's contest. Boyle's protegee grabbed off the first game with the Eganites by a score of 4 to 3. Barring the fifth inning, when the Muskies sent home three base runners, Watkins was master of the situation from gong to gong. An error in the fifth was largely responsible for two of the visitors' tallies, and had it been eliminated the score should have been 3 to 1 at the finish.

Boyle was compelled to send a patched-up team on the field owing to an injury to Eunick just before the game was called. In warming up in front of the players' bench Watkins threw wildly, the ball striking Eunick in the head. The latter was dazed for some time and after being given medical attention was sent from the field. Durham was sent to third, and Penner to right field.

Watkins Has Egan's Goat. Watkins had the Muskies helpless in all innings except the third, and Egan had a bad afternoon. He sent his recruit, the detective Pinkerton, to oppose Boyle's side whether he was a three singles in as many innings were all the visitors could register, except in the fifth, when three runs were scored. In that inning O'Day doubled and went to third on Hruska's sacrifice. Sours tripled, scoring O'Day. Pinkerton grounded to Durham, who threw wide to the plate. Sours scoring and Pinkerton going to second, Runser was passed, but Reinhart fled out. Had Durham's peg to the plate been good, Runser's out would have been the third. Ellison then singled, scoring Pinkerton.

Marshalltown Wins in Eighth. Marshalltown had scored three runs prior to Muscatine's rally and the game stood tied until the eighth inning, when a walk and LeBeau's double ended the conflict. One score was counted in the first, but was not allowed. Durham doubled and scored on Lee's single but was called out for not touching third base. The decision was disputed but Logan held that Durham had actually cut the bag.

Ryan Displays Great Nerve. In the second LeBeau doubled and scored on Byers' single. Two more were registered in the fourth, when Tommy Ryan displayed his nerve.

Lee walked in that round, and LeBeau singled. Byers forced Lee at third, and Ryan came up in the pinch. With two on, and one down, and two strikes called on Ryan, the outlook was not promising. Ryan fouled the next ball, the pill rebounding and striking Ryan in the face. He dropped like a plummet, and after an application of water was revived and again faced the pitcher. After fouling off two or three balls, the Camden lad caught the pellet for a two-base drive, scoring LeBeau and Byers.

Rojas Charged With Game. Many inquiries have been made today as to whether Rojas or Flannagan should be charged with the loss of Sunday's game, many believing the latter should take the responsibility owing to the fact that two runs were scored after he relieved Rojas. Rojas is charged with the game. Altho his team was leading when he was removed, the winning runs were on the bases when Flannagan went to the mound. Had Flannagan pitched in the town without a run, the victory would have gone to Rojas, as Muscatine was in the lead when he went out. But the rules specifically state that a relieving pitcher shall not be held responsible for the scoring of men who are on bases when he takes up the game.

Taylor Now With Bunnie. "Dave" Taylor, known to local fans as "Sam" or "Bugs" Taylor, has joined Herbert's Cedar Rapids club. After having been signed with Burlington, Taylor was soon released, without having participated in a game, and immediately got on with the Bunnie. In his first appearance with the Bunnie, Taylor held his opponents to four hits but lost the game.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Strand. Geraldine Farrar, grand opera prima donna, is given another opportunity to display her prowess in acting emotional roles in "Maria Rosa," a Spanish-story shown at the Strand Sunday night to good-sized audiences.

Miss Farrar has a part somewhat similar to that she played in "Carmen" and, surrounded by a capable company and scenic and costume effects which are elaborate and picturesque, the production becomes a fine one. The story is the familiar one of two men and a woman, and an innocent man being accused of crime because of circumstantial evidence. Miss Farrar's acting is the principal feature of the production, along with Wallace Reid as Andres, the lover who was wrongfully punished. Anita King, who has appeared here several times, and who drove thru here last summer took the part of Ana, Maria Rosa's sister-in-law.

At the Colonial. Young men who are overburdened with money should take heed of the lesson "The Conscience of John David," teachers. The production, with Crane Wilbur starring, was shown at the Colonial Sunday evening to large audiences. It tells the story of how young John David, rich and idle, was brought to his senses by a stranger who called himself David's "conscience." David loses his fortune just as he is about to marry a worldly woman, and together with his conscience, he goes away, where after many more adventures, he finds "the" girl, and is happily married.

Mr. Wilbur's acting in this piece, with the obvious moral, is well fitted to his part, and with supporting cast of good caliber the entire picture is an interesting one.

At the Lyric. Large audiences witnessed the act of the Musical Alexanders at the Lyric Sunday evening, and were well pleased with the performance. The team plays cleverly on reed, brass, and string instruments, and their selections include both popular and classical airs. Three pictures, a drama entitled, "Tightening the Reins," a comedy, and a one-reel picture depicting various dances of Japan, complete the program.

At the Casino. An old-time western picture, with new thrills and exciting moments which rival the best "dime novel" ever written, is "Hell's Hinges," with William S. Hart as the leading character, shown at the Casino Sunday night. Thomas Ince, who produced the picture, succeeded in getting a western atmosphere and several exciting scenes without resorting to drashy or melodramatic methods, and for tense moments and real excitement "Hell's Hinges" fills the bill. "Hell's Hinges" is the name of a western mining town, and Blaze Tracy is the rough but good-hearted miner played by Mr. Hart. He befriends Rev. Robert Henley and his sister Faith Henley who come west, and when the lawless element get the Rev. Mr. Henley drunk, Hart takes the girl's part. Later Blaze rescues the girl after her brother has been killed, and sets the whole town on fire. Hart's part calls for several difficult feats of horsemanship and gun play, and altogether the production revives the interest in western dramas in a satisfactory way. "Fatty" Arbuckle and Mabel Normand win laughter as usual with an absurdity entitled "The Bright Light," cleverly produced and full of fun. The audiences were large.

Local Weather Record. Summer temperature, with two good night showers, made ideal weather conditions for starting the young corn the latter part of last week and over Sunday. The range of temperature Sunday was 55 and 81, compared with 82 and 50 Saturday, and 55 and 49 a year ago Sunday. The rainfall Saturday night was .18 of an inch. Sunday night it was .18 of an inch. At 7 o'clock this morning the temperature was 61, eleven degrees cooler than at the same hour Sunday morning.
