AMUSEMENTS.
At the Strand.
A new scenic setting is used for the story of "The Feud Girl" with Hazel Dawn as the star, which was witnessed by two good-sized audiences at the Strand Sunday evening. The story deals with a feud of long standing in the mountains of Georgia between two rival clans, and wild and rugged landscapes predominate, giving a realistic touch to the production. Miss Dawn is charming as Nell Haddon, a member of one clan, while the young railway engineer, Dave Rand, proves to be a member of the Bassett clan, the deadly enemy of the Haddons.
The railway company succeeds in making a peace reconciliation between the Haddon and Bassett clans, and Nell's father is induced to offer his daughter's hand to one of the Bassett tribe. Nell rebels at this, and declares any Haddon can have her who can win her by drawing lots, before she will marry a Bassett. Dave Rand, the young engineer, wins the draw, but unfortunately turns out to be a Bassett. Nell sees that she has been betrayed, and turns away from her new husband. Later, however, she discovers she really loves him, and they are happily reunited. Miss Dawn does very well as the carefree mountain girl among the wild and rugged country, and the other characters give good interpretations of their parts. Interesting educational pictures are shown previous to the main production.

At the Colonial.
For those who desire excitement, coupled with thrilling escapes and plenty of love and plotting thrown in, "The Leopard's Bride," produced at the Colonial Sunday night, will please. The story is laid in India, where Nadie, a native girl, skillfully played by Margaret Gibson, falls in love with Captain Morley, who has been sent to the jungle district by his superior officer. It happens that the superior officer and the captain both love the same girl, Marjorie Lansdown, and that the young captain's suit is favored. The major, therefore, decides to get rid of the captain. The young captain, Morley, is led to believe that the girl loves him no longer, and gives up to the charms of the native girl, Nadie. During a leopard hunt in the jungle, Morley and Marjorie meet, and discover Major Carr's deception. Nadie sees that her white lover really cares for the girl of his own race and, despairing, throws herself into the leopard's lair. She is rescued, but too late, and Morley realizes the sacrifices she has made. Miss Gibson's acting as the native girl is not overdone, while William Clifford looks and acts well the part of the young captain. Fair sized audiences witnessed the picture.

At the Casino.
Bessie Barriscale, the ever-popular Kay Bee star, has the dual role of nun and countess in a picture with the alliterative name of "Bullets and Brown Eyes" exhibited at the Casino Sunday night to good-sized audiences. The story is that of a prince's wooing and winning of a countess in the mythical countries of Bothalia and Marrow. The two countries are at war, and there are thrilling battle scenes which add to the interest. William Desmond, the prince, supported by Billie Burke in "Peggy," and makes an excellent and dashing fighting prince, who wins the princess of the other country after the battles are over. He is also saved from death in the nick of time by the princess in the scene which adds to the interest. There is plenty of action in the picture, and the acting of the two leading characters is lively and well done.
Charles Murray has a good vehicle for comedy in "The Jungle" replete with amusing incidents.

Postal Receipts Show Large Gain
If the postoffice receipts continue to show the same rate of gain for the next ten months that they have for the last two, the local office will jump into the $100,000 a year class. The receipts for the months of April and May have been at practically that rate.
Without there being any special reason for the growth, other than the steady increase of business, the office receipts have increased 35 per cent in April and May over the same two months of 1915. The gross receipts for the two months were $16,648.47, compared with $12,841.04 for the corresponding months of last year, and increase of $3,807.43.
The tabulation shows the comparative receipts:
1915. 1916.
April$6,779.43 $8,226.99
May6,061.61 8,421.48
Total$12,841.04 $16,648.47
The postal department's fiscal year began April 1. It will be noted that if the rate of increase is maintained the total for the twelve months will be $100,000 or even more.

"The Battle Cry of Peace"
At the "CASINO," on June 22nd, 23rd and 24th, will be shown the most noteworthy achievement in the history of motion pictures. But "The Battle Cry of Peace" is more than a motion picture. It is a great national propaganda dealing with the most important problem that has confronted the nation since the Civil War—the problem of America's unpreparedness. If you have a drop of red blood in your veins, you will experience in witnessing this production a thrill such as you have never known before.
You will see the enemy approaching, the powerlessness of New York, the weakness of its forts and defenses. You will see the havoc wrought by the enemy's howitzers, submarines and airships; by its shells, shrapnels and bombs. You will see the most beautiful sky line in the world in flames, the metropolis of the western hemisphere devastated. You will see New York fall, and the desecration that follows.
"The Battle Cry of Peace" is a call to arms against war. It was written by J. Stuart Blackton and vitagraphed under his personal supervision. Scores of prominent Americans in the army and navy and administrative circles have contributed to its preparation. Mr. Charles Richman, the distinguished actor, heads a cast of eminent Vitagraph stars—a cast containing twenty-five thousand National Guardsmen, five thousand horses, and eight thousand supernumeraries.
