MARIETTA TO SHOW ITS FARM PRODUCTS

COMMUNITY EXHIBIT AND CORN SHOW TO BE HELD AT HARTLAND OCT. 19 AND 20.

AMES TEACHERS WILL DELIVER LECTURES

Community and Farm Welfare Undertaking Planned For Two Days—To Display Farm Products, Domestic Science Work, and Pantry Stores—Will Also Have Baby Show.

A community and farm welfare movement, that has taken the form of a miniature county fair, has been launched in Marietta township, Thursday and Friday, Oct. 19 and 20, the community is going to hold a fall exhibit and corn show at the Hartland church.

In addition to farm products and corn, which will be exhibited, the women and girls of the community will be given an opportunity to compete by displaying domestic science work and pantry stores. The judges are to be from Iowa State College, Ames, which will also furnish lecturers on farm and rural community subjects, to speak each day.

HEARS SEWER OBJECTIONS.

Not Many Are Made, Altho Method of Assessment is New.

Objections to assessments for sanitary sewers laid this season were heard by the city council at its meeting this forenoon. Only six objections were made. Practically all of them were caused by property owners claiming that laterals laid to the curb line were higher than the sewer connection already in the house, or higher than the bottom of cellars of houses they were intended to drain. In a very few instances properties assessed were already supplied with sewers. In view of the fact that this is the first time the city has ever attempted to build sewers and assess the cost against properties that about the number of objections is very small.

The council is preparing to levy the assessments for the cost of the sewers. Property owners will be given notice of the length of time they will have to pay the assessment in cash, or they can take advantage of the seven-year plan and pay the assessment with their taxes at the county treasurer's office in seven such payments, beginning next year, plus interest at 6 per cent on the deferred payments.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Strand.

Quaker settings, with all of their charming simplicity and delightfulness, predominate in "The Reward of Patience," with Louise Huff as Patience, shown to large audiences at the Strand Sunday evening. Lottie Pickford, sister of Mary, returns to the screen after an absence of some time, and plays the role of the unfaithful wife.

Amity Center, the home of Patience, does not present much excitement, and when Robert Penfield, a young engineer from New York, comes there on business it does not take Patience long to become acquainted. Later she is employed as secretary in his New York home, where he is married to Edith, the match being prearranged. Edith is attracted by Paul Dunstan, and neglects her child, finally running away with Paul. It is then that all of Patience's suffering and despair is rewarded, for of course Penfield sees where his true place is, and the ending is a happy one.

As a Quaker maid Miss Huff is delightfully demure, yet manages to convey the idea that even Quaker maids are capable of most of the emotions that any other girl is. She saves the story from being commonplace. Lottie Pickford has a thankless role in that of Edith Penfield, which she fills well enough. Burton Holmes takes his spectators up the Austrian Alps.

At the Casino.

Indians, cowboys, soldiers and a thrilling plunge of horse and rider over a seventy-foot cliff are offered as attractions in "The Deserter," a Triangle play presented at the Casino Sunday evening.

Charles Ray is the star, having the part of Lieutenant Parker. The young man is court-martialed for disgraceful conduct in a fight with some gamblers while he is a member of an army post back in the frontier days of 1868. The fact that the girl he admired was pledged to another man was the ultimate cause of his being disgraced, and he deserted from his regiment, escaping to the desert. Here he is found by a party

HAIR GRAY? THEN APPLY Q-BAN

It Darkens Gray Hair Evenly

If your hair is gray, streaked with gray, prematurely or just turning gray or if your hair is dry, harsh, thin or falling, simply shampoo hair and scalp a few times with Q-Ban Hair Color Restorer. Soon every strand of hair (whether gray or not) becomes evenly dark, soft, lustrous, fluffy, full of life and health, full and heavy and fascinating, and entire head of hair is so beautifully and evenly darkened no one could suspect you had applied Q-Ban. It is absolutely harmless and no dye, but Q-Ban acts on roots, restoring color glands. Sold on a money-back guarantee, 50c for a big bottle, at E. A. Morgan's drug store, Marshalltown, Iowa. Out-of-town folks supplied by mail.

of settlers, who are attacked by Indians. Then the young deserter realizes his duty, dashes for the fort, and finally brings assistance, despite the fact that he falls over a seventy-foot cliff in a fight with an Indian.

The effort has been too much, however, and the boy succumbs to his injuries. As a reward the word "deserter" is crossed out after his name in the post records. The entire production is well staged, and worth seeing.

Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle and Al St. John, a good comedy pair, run riot in a two-reel fun maker entitled "The Waiters' Ball." Sunday night's audiences were large.

At the Odeon.
A large audience was at the Odeon Sunday night to witness the well-known story of "Freckles" presented as a play for the second time in this city. Members of the company acted to the best of their ability, which in some cases was very much to be commended.

Lawrence Douglas, in the name part, did not vary much from himself, and as a result his part suffered considerably. Harry Dickson did well as Duncan, the timber gang boss, and Judith Raeburn filled her part of the swamp angel acceptably.

Interspersed throughout the action of the piece were several songs, all popular hits of the day, or of several years ago. Most of the songs were sung by Freckles and Duncan, who displayed fair voices. The production as a whole was quite mediocre.

NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH.

"Lonnie" Kinser, Itinerant Fair Follower, Struck by Train.

A pall full of snakes in one hand, and a baby cub in the other so encrossed the attention of "Lonnie" Kinser, aged 19, Louisville, Ky., when he tried to cross the Northwestern tracks at the union station at 5 o'clock Sunday morning, that he failed to move quickly enough and was struck by west bound train No. 7. He received severe cuts and was badly bruised, and would have undoubtedly been killed, according to spectators, had not the train stopped suddenly.

Kinser was with a party of three, others, two men and a woman, who were at the fair at Oskaloosa last week, where they put on a "wild man" show. This was the "boss" and his wife, whose names were not learned. "Jack" Tucker, the wild man, and Kinser. All were on their way to Jefferson, where they said a fair was scheduled for this week. Tucker had a mass of snakes which he used in his wild den and the "boss's" wife was carrying her baby. The snakes and the baby cub were given Kinser to carry, and he went across the west-bound track when No. 7, due at 5:12, came steaming in. Kinser says he did not know the train was so close. The engineer blew his whistle twice, and finally stopped short, but not until the pilot brushed Kinser to one side. He was taken to the Deaconess hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a bad cut on top of his head, a rash in his left hand and arm, and a sprained back. Dr. G. E. Hermance, the Northwestern surgeon, who attended him, said this morning that his patient's condition was satisfactory.

Kinser's duties with the show consisted of pulling a wire on which rosin had been placed, thus producing a hideous noise, which was supposed to represent the scream of the "wild man."

HOWARD HICKMAN as COUNT FERDINAND

"CIVILIZATION" ACTOR SUPPORTED BERNHARDT

Howard Hickman, who plays the dominant role of Count Ferdinand, the submarine inventor, in Thomas H. Ince's million dollar spectacle, "Civilization," was formerly leading man in the photo plays for the Deauville. He has had an unusually varied career. Originally his parents intended him for the ministry, but Hickman devoted his interest to things as remote from the pulpit as real estate, electrical engineering and the drama. He secured a small role at the old Grand Opera House in San Francisco in Sara Bernhardt's company, appearing with her in "Aiglon" and "Cyrano De Bergerac." He next played Shakespearean parts with Joseph Haworth, but after two years resigned from the Bard of Avon's plays to make his debut in musical comedy with Eva Tanguay. Before going into pictures Mr. Hickman played in his own sketch in vaudeville on the Orpheum circuit. He joined Mr. Ince's forces in 1914 as a leading man and has rapidly forged his way to the front-Odeon.

girls, exhilarating and tuneful music, novelties and surprises formed a meager part of a theatrical entertainment, we would advise you to purchase seats in advance for the Henry P. Dixon (Inc.) Big Revue of 1917, which is to be at the Odeon Thursday evening, Odeon.

Studebaker

Service

—A Service that REALLY cares for your car!

Not merely a "promise"—or a book of coupons—or one of these "drop in if anything happens" invitations. No, sir!—this is SERVICE—and a NEW Service that REALLY takes care of your car and insures 100% pleasure from it.

When your Studebaker is delivered, you get a card showing a series of 7 Service Days running over the succeeding SIX months on which the car is to be brought into our garage. When it comes in, expert mechanics go over it from stem to stern and make 41 distinct and agreed upon inspections, adjustments and adjustments that a car needs.

When it comes back to you, it's in tip-top shape, and we teach you how to keep it so. That is done once a month for SIX months, and by the end of that time you not only have a car that's running like a clock, but you know how to take care of it yourself. And remember, there's not a dollar's charge for this service.

This is the ONLY Service of its kind in existence today—and we'd like to have you come in and let us tell you ALL about it
