WATERLOO ONCE LINCOLN EMPLOYE

JOHN WEILEIN WORKED FOR MARTYRED PRESIDENT AS FARM HAND.

RECEIVED $10 PER MONTH, BOARD AND WASHING

Weilein Stopped at Lincoln Home in Illinois For Something to Eat and Is Given Employment—Ate at Table With Others of Household—Incidents Related.

Waterloo, Feb. 12.—While the nation has preserved its memory of Abraham Lincoln, there is one man in Waterloo to whom the day is especially significant. For John Weilein, 1728 Commercial street, can turn back the hands of the clock of time and recall the summer of 1859 when he worked for Lincoln, then a practicing lawyer at Springfield, Ill. Aside from Robert Lincoln, Mr. Weilein is probably the only surviving member of the Lincoln household of the time mentioned.

Not only does Mr. Weilein enjoy the distinction of having worked for the martyred president of the United States but he also has to his credit several weeks of employment under Jefferson (Jeff) Davis. He worked for the man who later was president of the confederacy in the winter of 1858-9.

The Call of Adventure. It was the lure of adventure and romance that caused Mr. Weilein to take the step which later took him to the home of Davis, then Lincoln, at Springfield, Ill. Mr. Weilein, then a resident of Aurora, Ill., together with three young men of the neighborhood—Felix Strouse, Fritz Kitchell and Michael Eblain—conceived the idea of working down the Mississippi river, cutting timber and digging ditches. Big steamers plying on the river used wood for fuel and consequently there was a great demand for it. Wages were higher in the south than they were in the north. The quartet secured tools, said good-bye to their relatives and started on the trip. Their first stop was at Island No. 10 near Helena, Ark. Here they found plenty of work cutting timber at 60 and 65 cents a cord. They worked here for several months and then continued their trip down the river. They made their next stop at Lake Providence, La.

One day while the four were at the town tavern a raw-boned man rode up on a handsome black mare. Accosting them he said: "You fellows look strong and active, would you like to work for me? I've got 300 rods of ditch to dig and I'll pay you well of it. The four thought the matter over and decided to accept the proposition. A short time later they went to work for Jeff Davis on his plantation near Berry's Landing.

The Party Disbands. When the ditching job was completed Strouse and Kitchell decided to pursue their fortunes up the Red river. This did not appeal to Weilein and Eblain, who believed that home and friends would look mighty good after their absence of several months. So the party disbanded, Strouse and Kitchell going up the Red river while Weilein and Eblain headed for Aurora. En route home Eblain remembered that he had relatives who lived nine miles east of Springfield and decided to visit them. He persuaded Weilein to accompany him. They remained there until the 5th of May. Eblain then decided to go home, but Weilein had changed his mind. He wanted to earn more money.

On the morning of May 5, 1859, they started for Springfield. They heard that work was plentiful there. It was an ideal spring day so they chose to walk, taking their time and enjoying the treat that nature spread before them along the way. Late in the afternoon the two men, tired and hungry, stopped in front of a big white house in the suburbs of Springfield. They saw cows grazing in a nearby pasture and surmised that it would not be difficult to secure a glass of milk. As they walked up the path leading from the gate to the house they saw a man sitting in a chair on the porch. He was bald, bearded and in his stocking feet.

"Good evening, we're hungry and thought we might get a bite to eat here," said Weilein. The man on the porch smiled. "Well, I'm not running a boarding house but perhaps we can fix you up," answered the man, and he turned and called to some one in the house. "A girl appeared who was evidently the cook." "Caroline," said the man, "here are two hungry gentlemen. Give them something to eat." The girl led the way into the house. Soon milk, cookies and bread were set before Weilein and Eblain. When they had appeased their hunger they went out again to the man on the porch. Weilein wanted to know how much they owed.

"I told you I was not running a boarding house, therefore I can't accept any money," said the man. "Just then Caroline, the cook, again appeared." "Please, sir, Mr. Lincoln," she said, "Mrs. Lincoln has called for you." "Ask her to come down please," her husband answered. Then for the first time Weilein and Eblain heard the name of their host. And it was a familiar name, too, for Lincoln's debates with Stephen A. Douglas had fired the country and his name was on every tongue.

Would Not Accept Money. Seeing that Lincoln would not accept any compensation for the food,

MISS TARBELL SEES INDUSTRIAL WAR

LECTURER WARNS AMERICA AGAINST CONDITIONS IN LABOR WORLD.

DANGER IN ATTITUDE OF CAPITAL AND LABOR

Points to I. W. W. as Result of Capitalistic Shortightedness—Sees a Movement Among Manufacturers Toward Shorter Working Days and Better Sanitary Conditions.

Sioux City, Feb. 12.—Miss Ida M. Tarbell in her lecture on the subject of "Industrial Idealism" in the Grace Methodist Episcopal church, pointed out the danger to America of a great industrial war. She explained that the original ideal of American industry was industrial democracy, but showed how that ideal had fallen until it is no longer the professional agitator who calls out an industry slavery.

TWO DEATHS AT ELDORA.

Frank D. Lynn Expires Suddenly—Mrs. Johana Panthen Dead.

Eldora, Feb. 12.—Frank D. Lynn, a resident of Eldora for a number of years, died here Saturday afternoon rather suddenly, having been stricken with paralysis on the evening previous and never fully regaining consciousness. Mr. Lynn was born in Grundy county, Iowa, in 1851. In 1855 he was united in marriage to Miss Clara Sharp, who with three children, one son and two daughters survive him. Another son died when about 9 years of age. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. John Cross, who lives near Conrad in Grundy county. Mr. Lynn was for several years prominently identified with the business interests of Eldora and his death is a distinct loss to the community. The funeral was held this afternoon from the Congregational church, the service being in charge of Rev. W. G. Ramsey.

Mrs. Johana Panthen, for years a resident of Eldora, died Sunday at her home in the east part of the city, aged about 80 years. Mrs. Panthen was born in Germany, but came to this country in her young womanhood. She is survived by one son and one daughter. The son is Herman Panthen, a prominent farmer, living southwest of Eldora, and the daughter, Mrs. Emil Jaska, living in the same neighborhood. The funeral service will probably be held Tuesday from the German Lutheran church.

Lake City News Notes.

Special to Times-Republican. Lake City, Feb. 12.—Harry Wood, aged 9 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wood, died following an operation for mastoiditis, at St. Anthony hospital, Carroll, Iowa, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The funeral was held here Sunday afternoon. Earl Smith, pioneer shoemaker here, who sold out to Pitman & Collicott, expects to move with his family to California March 1.

Some Good Advice.

"Don't think too much of your own methods. Watch other people's ways and learn from them." This is good advice, especially when bilious or constipated. You will find many people who use Chamberlain's Tablets for these ailments with the best results, and will do well to follow their example. For sale by all druggists.—Adv.

MISS TARBELL SEES INDUSTRIAL WAR

LECTURER WARNS AMERICA AGAINST CONDITIONS IN LABOR WORLD.

DANGER IN ATTITUDE OF CAPITAL AND LABOR

Points to I. W. W. as Result of Capitalistic Shortightedness—Sees a Movement Among Manufacturers Toward Shorter Working Days and Better Sanitary Conditions.

She says the greatest menace to our modern industry is the attitude of mind which the employer and the employed cherish toward each other. The aristocratic spirit of the employer is shown in his expression when he says he gives men work. The capitalist class has the idea that the low wage is the profitable wage and the long hours are the profitable hours. The I. W. W. is the logical result of this ideal. Today it would seem that open warfare exists between the two classes.

Better Conditions Ahead.

Miss Tarbell has seen a movement at work which tends to destroy these dangerous conditions. She showed how some manufacturers were making their factories sanitary, well ventilated and pleasant places in which to work; some employers have shortened the working day to six hours; others have introduced the profit sharing plan, so that the employee feels that he has a share in the business. Statistics have shown that in such establishments as have adopted these schemes, output has been increased, profits have grown larger and the quality of work has improved.

A new slogan has been launched by the promoters of the "safer first" movement which is called "health for every man." Realizing that they can not get the best work from the unhealthy, many employers have instituted medical dispensaries in their factories. All employees are required to pass physical examinations, if they are found to be "unhealthy," treatment is given them.

News of Ackley.

Special to Times-Republican. Ackley, Feb. 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martin returned Saturday from a week's trip spent in George.

Grinnell and Vicinity.

Special to Times-Republican. Grinnell, Feb. 12.—Under exceedingly trying conditions the Women's Relief Corps of this city served a public supper on Saturday evening to nearly 300 people on no complaint was heard from the patrons. The W. R. C. kitchen is provided with a gas stove for cooking. When the cooks were ready at 2 in the afternoon to begin operations in the heating line it was discovered that a gas main had been broken and the company had shut off the gas, and the company expected to have the break mended in a short time but there was no gas available for the entire afternoon. Oil stoves were hastily gathered in and the feast was ready on altercation Friday night and in the fight which followed one of them was badly slashed by knife in the hands of the other.

The news came to Grinnell friends on Saturday evening of the death of Mrs. Edna Edmunds Wilder, at Des Moines, after several weeks of illness. Mrs. Wilder was well known and very popular as Miss Edmunds in college here, class of 1905. She leaves a husband and two small children.

The fire department was called out just after the dinner hour on Saturday to the residence of Art Mattan, at the corner of Fifth avenue and High street, where the flames damaged probably $100 of property before being subdued. The origin of the fire was sparks from the chimney.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the Congregational church over the body of Mrs. Lucille Jackson, home from Chicago, where she died on Thursday evening last. Pastor E. W. Cross conducting the services at the church and the Masons taking charge at the cemetery.

Many friends in church, city and college of Everett Turner, secretary of the student work of the Y. M. C. A. in the Philippines, will be glad to hear direct from him of his life and work in those island possessions. He speaks hopefully and enthusiastically of his work and the results already seen. He has now as a resident member in the association building Emilio Aguinaldo, the sea of the old general, who is earnestly desiring that the young man shall have the best the association can give him. Mr. Turner was an exceptional worker and executive in Grinnell, an athlete in college and a dynamo of christian energy in the church, not only in personal work but in his power to get results from the entire church body.

The Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society will be for the discussion of the South American field. Mrs. Walter Weaver is to speak on "Pioneers and Their Problems," and Miss Mabel Blair will bring fresh information of "Present Day Workers."

Henry E. Stone reports bringing from his Sheridan farm recently a bunch of fat hogs that brought him $11.20 a hundred weight.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Kirby, who with their two children, have been visiting in Grinnell briefly, have gone to Ames to visit relatives.

William T. Lewis is ill and his sister, Mrs. D. J. Herter, came from her home in Marshalltown to help in caring for him.

Walter Wolcott recently sold his fine Sheridan farm to his brother Charles for $195 an acre. In the same vicinity, Mrs. Mary Bruce is enjoying a visit from her daughter, Mrs. S. M. Payne, who came in from the north on Friday morning for a few days' stay.

Mrs. P. A. Woods, who has been visiting in this city at the home of her son Glenn, returned today to her home at Thornburg.

Miss Mabel Stecker is again at her home here after a visit of some months at Abingdon, Ill.

Donald McDonald, of Eldora, has accepted a position in the H. E. Miller meat market.

Vivian Brooks, who won first in the declamatory contest given here, was the honored guest at a party given by the juniors at the home of Marion Rath. Miss Brooks will represent the Ackley high school in the sub-district contest to be given in Cedar Falls on March 2.

Miss Grace Heiland, daughter of Henry Heiland, a prominent farmer living south of Ackley, was operated on at the Miller hospital here to correct a defect in the muscles of her neck, which caused her to carry her head on one side. The operation seems to have been successful.

Laugh When People Step On Your Feet

Try this yourself then pass it along to others. It works!

Such a ? ! ? ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people trod with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn stops soreness at once, and soon the corn drops up and lifts right out without pain.

He says freezone is an ether compound which dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding tissue or skin. A quarter of an ounce of freezone will cost very little at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels.
