PLAN TO KILL LONG-TERM BILL

OPponents OF MEASURE HOLD MEETING TO DEVISE METHODS OF EXECUTION.

SENATE SLAUGHTERS CHASE NEPOTISM BILL

Effort to Be Made to Revise Model Injunction Measure—Attorney General Voted $25,000 as Law Enforcement Fund—Governor Signs Suffrage and Whitmore "Bone Dry" Bills.

Special to Times-Republican.

Des Moines, April 6.—The parliamentarians of the senate who wish to amend the four-year-term bill so that it will not legislate two more years on to the terms of the sheriffs, auditors and clerks now in office are figuring now how they can kill the bill.

The senate yesterday afternoon killed the nepotism bill by Chase which had passed the senate and which prohibited public officials from employing any of their own relatives in public office.

Senator Chase says he is yet going to get his model injunction bill by the senate. He only failed by one vote Tuesday.

The Larson bill, providing for an appropriation of $25,000 for law enforcement, to be placed at the disposal of the attorney general and governor, which had previously passed the house, was passed by the senate yesterday afternoon by a vote of 33 to 8.

Speaker Pitt will appoint a sifting committee of six members, three from each faction in the house. The house last night held a night session in order to give a chance to finish up some of the legislation.

The Griffin long and short haul bill was defeated in the house yesterday morning when it fell three votes short of a constitutional majority.

This bill was drafted to permit railroads between the same points, but which have different routes, to equalize their rates, so that, for instance, the Northwestern and Great Western could charge the same rates on shipments from Des Moines to Marshalltown.

The bill was backed by the Iowa Manufacturers' Association, but did not meet with the approval of a sufficient number of legislators.

A similar bill was voted by Governor Cummins some years ago. The subject is one which has caused much discussion in earlier legislatures.

A teachers' pension bill may yet be adopted by the Iowa legislature.

Representative Shortess yesterday called up a reconsideration of the Shortess bill, which failed to pass the house some time ago on a 53 to 54 vote, and was successful in obtaining a reconsideration, the vote being 60 to 37.

He then introduced amendments which reduce the state appropriation to be made to $60,000, and require teachers to register their certificates with the county superintendent, the registration fees being used in the annuity fund.

Teachers who have served less than five years pay $1 annually, and the fee is graduated upward to the maximum of $6 for teachers who have served fifteen years or more.

This would net $40,000 annually for the annuity fund, according to Mr. Shortess.

Consideration of the bill has been set for a special order this morning, and it is quite probable the bill in its amended form will pass the house.

Governor Harding yesterday afternoon signed the senate joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Iowa constitution to permit women to vote.

There was no ceremony over the signing of the resolution. The suffragists had planned on being present when the governor gave the measure his approval.

error was not informed of the plan until after the resolution was duly signed and deposited in the office of secretary of state as provided by law.

The resolution was introduced in the senate by Senator Parker, of Des Moines. It passed the senate and house with good majorities.

Following the method provided for amending the Iowa constitution, the proposed amendment must be submitted to the next general assembly, and if approved, it will be submitted to the voters.

The Whitmore bill prohibiting the appearance of liquor advertising in Iowa was signed yesterday by Governor Harding. It will become a law July 4.

This bill, together with the federal act, will prohibit the sending of liquor advertisements, order blanks, etc., thru the mail. It will be unlawful for liquor to be advertised in newspapers or on bill boards or in any other way.

This was the first of the Whitmore bone dry bills.

WILL BOOST HOME TEAM.

Dubuquers Abandon Custom of Attending First White Sox Game.

Special to Times-Republican.

Dubuque, April 6.—For the last several years it has been the custom to send a large delegation of Dubuquers, usually a special train load, to Chicago to attend the opening game of the Chicago White Sox on their home grounds, because Owner Charles A. Comiskey is a former Dubuque and married a Dubuque woman; also because the present manager of the Sox, Clarence Rowland, is a Dubuque man, who spent all of his life here until a year or two before he became manager of the Sox.

It has also been the custom to bring the Sox to Dubuque for one game early in the season, usually a game with one of the college teams, on some day of the Sox. These things will not be done this year, it is said, because of the desire of all interested in baseball to keep all of the enthusiasm and money at home for support of the Dubuque club in the Central Association.

He had a very persistent cough that hung onto him despite all the treatment we gave him until I got him a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This preparation relieved him almost all on peace officers in any part of the state to come to some distant part of the state and assist in criminal work."

A poster carrying information of Fuqua's desertion, issued by the adjutant general on July 18, 1914, was found on file in the police records. Fuqua enlisted in the Fifty-ninth coast artillery under the name of Reuben Olson early in 1914, and deserted from Fort Andrews, Mass., on July 14, 1914. JUDGESHIP BILL ENTIRELY DEAD

ACTION OF HOUSE PUTS MEASURE BEYOND ALL CHANCE OF RESURRECTION.

ADMINISTRATION FORCES COMPLETELY DEFEATED

Governor Harding Will Proceed to Name Successor to Deemer—Legislature Fully Agreed as to Closed Season on Quail and Prairie Chickens—Effort to Regulate Cats Fails.

Special to Times-Republican.

Des Moines, April 6.—The house of the Iowa legislature "went to bat" for the third time on the eighth judge bill yesterday afternoon and the measure was overwhelmingly defeated. Opponents of the measure in both the house and the senate were overjoyed at the outcome. The bill is now dead beyond all further resurrection by the present legislature.

Speaker Pitt made his much talked of ruling on the point of order as to the tabling of the bill just before noon yesterday. He declared the motion to table the measure, which carried in the house last Friday, was out of order. The house adjourned at noon without taking a vote on this ruling. When the house reconvened in the afternoon, however, Elwood, of Howard county, moved that the enacting clause of the measure be struck out, which of course would kill the bill. Speaker Pitt ruled this motion out of order. His ruling was appealed from and he was overruled by a vote of 48 to 27. The motion to strike out the enacting clause was then voted on and carried by a vote of 62 to 45.

It is presumed now that Governor Harding will announce his appointment to the vacancy on the supreme court bench to succeed the late Judge Deemer without further delay. The governor has been waiting on the decision of the legislature as to this additional judge before making an appointment to the vacancy. Now that the legislature has definitely disposed of this eighth judge bill it is believed the governor will soon announce the other appointee.

The supreme court is now in session and it is conceded the work is heavy. The late Judge Deemer was a conscientious and hard worker and an unusual amount of work in the high court, it is claimed that his untiring labors on the supreme court bench caused his death at the age of 59 when he should have been spared for several years of active service.

Closed Season For Quail.

The Iowa quail had many friends in the senate of the Iowa legislature yesterday afternoon when the Turner bill which had already been passed by the house, providing for a closed season of five years on quail, came up for consideration. The majority of the senators consistently voted down proposed amendments which might have weakened the bill and carried the main question by a vote of 35 to 14. When a motion to reconsider the bill was filed the senate promptly tabled the motion.

Senator Price, of Marion county, led the forces opposed to the closed season. He took the position that the quail now had plenty of protection as the open season was only from Nov. 1 to Dec. 15. He also declared that cats and other enemies killed the quail in far greater numbers than did the hunters.

Senator Byington, of Johnson county, and Senator Chase, of Hamilton county, championed the cause of the quail. Senator Chase said the bird should be put in the song bird class. He said there were thousands of women and children and men as well in the state who would be delighted and take great pleasure in seeing these birds in the fields and meadows and along the roadside to where there were a comparatively few hunters who would take pleasure in killing them.

It was declared on the floor of the senate that conservation and preservation of bird life and of the lakes and forests of Iowa would be an important issue in the next campaign for there is now a widespread interest in these matters.

Senator Caswell, of Crawford county, endeavored to amend the bill to permit the destruction of cats found in the fields. He said the cat was the greatest enemy the quail has. The quail nests on the ground where the cat has every opportunity to destroy the young, he said. This amendment failed, however.

The prairie chicken bill by McFarlane, of Black Hawk county, also passed the senate yesterday. It has likewise passed the house. The bill provides for a five year closed season on prairie chickens.

Wire Your House This Spring. Wiring a house adds far more to its value than the cost of the work while the increased rent such a house will bring soon pays for the improvement.

Money appropriated by a house owner for electric wiring is thus well invested—it is not spent. We have a special proposition for landlords that is well worth investigating.
