ABANDON NO. 2 STATION.

South Side Fire Company Again Moves Up Town

Hose company No. 2, stationed at the south side station, Wednesday was moved to the central station for the winter. The south side was housed in the town station last winter during the coal shortage as a fuel conservation measure. The plan worked so advantageously to the department that it had been hoped to abandon the south side station entirely by the closing of the Third avenue viaduct to traffic, during the construction of the Linn creek bridge, necessitated the return of the company to its former quarters. Now that the viaduct is again open, permitting of direct runs from the central station to all points on the south side, the south side station has been temporarily abandoned.

While this change probably will meet with some opposition from manufacturers of the south side, the action is defended on the ground that funds of the department are low and the plan is necessary to carry the department thru until appropriations are made next spring.

Thru the unification of the two companies at central station, members of the department see an opportunity to put across the long desired two platoon system. This scheme now is being worked out by the firemen and a concrete plan looking to its establishment may be laid before the city council in the near future. The double platoon, it is said, will not require any extra men, with the two companies at the one station and will result in better service.

SMITH WITH HAWKEYE FIVE.

Local Athlete Expected to Win Berth on Basketball Team.

John ("Ty") Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Smith, of this city, is expected to win a permanent berth on the State University of Iowa basketball five. He is a member of the squad which left Iowa City Wednesday night for a long training trip in which games will be played with a number of Illinois teams. The members of the squad taken were Frohwein, center; Aubrey Devine, forward; Shimek, forward; Captain Kaufmann, guard; Lohman, forward; Ehresman, forward; Smith, guard; Kiatt, guard; Postma, guard, and Jones, center.

The first game of the trip will be played tonight at Rockford, when the probable lineup will be Frohwein, center; Devine and Shimek, forwards; Kaufmann and Smith, guards. Friday night the Hawks will play at Bloomington, and Saturday night they will meet the strong Milliken University five, which recently splintered the University of Illinois basketballers. The Milliken boys have one of the strongest aggregations in the west, it is said.

USE REVOLVING STAGE.

Clever Device Made Possible the Rapid Scene Changes.

Many who witnessed the performance of "The Masquerader," by Guy Bates Post and company, Tuesday night, wondered at the rapid changes of scenery and there was much speculation as to how the heavy scenic displays were so quickly removed and replaced with others equally as heavy. Many, perhaps, thought a stage army of a half hundred men were at work behind the drop curtain.

The changes from the apartments of Chilcote, with the heavy furnishings, to the apartments of Loder, in a poor rooming house, were made in a very few seconds. It would not have been possible to have made these changes with stage hands meeting the scenery in many minutes, even tho a force as large as that employed at the New York Hippodrome had been employed.

The first apartment was set on a revolving stage, with a real floor to place on the Odeon stage. When the scene was concluded, the stage set was swung back to the back wall and another set slid into place. The two apartment scenes, which were used often, were interchanged in a twinkling and there was a wait of but a few minutes between scenes.

The production is one of the heaviest that has played the Odeon in years and the system adopted was the only one with which rapid changes could be made. Those were nine scenes in the production and the play is long hand shifting of scenery would have resulted in the show lasting until morning.

KIEFER DISAPPEARS.

Former Marshalltown Man Reported Missing From Paris, Mo.

Charles F. Kiefer, for years a resident of this city, an employee of the M. & St. I. and formerly janitor of Central Church of Christ, is missing from his home near Paris, Mo. Mrs. Kiefer, who has written friends here of her husband's disappearance, says that he has not been seen since Dec. 7, when he said he was going to Paris on business.

The family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Kiefer and several children, formerly lived at 811 Bromley street. In September Mrs. Kiefer traded their home as part payment for land near Paris and soon afterwards moved to the land thus acquired, giving a mortgage on the land for the unpaid portion of the purchase price.

Mrs. Kiefer writes that she believes the transaction was an unfortunate one, and that worry over it has caused her husband's mind to become unbalanced. She is greatly worried, in need of assistance. Most of all she wants to find her husband and would appreciate any information regarding his whereabouts. Mrs. Kiefer's address is R. F. D. No. 4, Paris, Mo., care of J. P. Boggs.

BURLESQUE NEW YEAR'S EVE.

"Pat White and His Gaiety Girls" at Odeon.

"Welcome" is the word that greets Pat White and his gaiety girls every season when they play the Odeon Theater. If course, Pat is glad to get back to Marshalltown. Pat never tells them how many papers he used to sell on the street corners, how long he lived in the town, but instead of this he gives his friends and visitors an evening's entertainment that they look for and sends them away from the theater happy.

This season Pat will be seen in his old time role, Michael Casser, in a sides singing will give his audience his usual line of comedy. There are many beautiful scenes which, by their picturesque appointment and reality, combined with the beautiful display of gorgeous costumes, show blends and colors too numerous to mention, and a regular gaiety chorus of beautiful girls who are graceful dancers and possess wonderful voices. Your old friend, Pat White, is always welcomed by hundreds and pleases thousands during a season. Odeon.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Strand.

"The Race of the Age," picturing the race between Man O'War, America's champion runner and Sir Barton, Great Britain's pride, which took place at Windsor, Ontario, late in the season, is one of two attractions now showing at the Strand. The picture shows all the details of the race, the preparations, the crowd, and all. It is very realistic and interesting and the photography is good. The beauty in the movement of these remarkable horses is particularly pleasing. Followers of the race track will find this picture of more than passing interest.

While Mary Pickford in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" is not a new picture it still continues to be popular. It is a pretty story and Miss Pickford is charming in the role of the little girl who lived with the stern maiden aunts. The film has been reviewed before.

The Turkey That Didn't Arrive; A Christmas Tragedy

Mrs. H. A. Randall, of LeGrand, did not have turkey for her Christmas dinner. There was something akin to tragedy in her holiday experience. The Randalls had prepared themselves for a Christmas feast by the festive bird as a centerpiece but "Mr. Turkey" did not arrive.

Shortly before Christmas Mrs. Randall received a letter from her brother, L. A. Haynes, of Grand Valley, S. D., advising her that he had sent a fine Christmas bird by parcel post. Mrs. Randall was greatly disappointed when the next mail brought an empty package. The turkey had been stolen.

The letter, announcing the dispatch of the bird, also bore evidence of having been tampered with.

MISSION OF MERCY.

Medical Corps Leaves to Help Save Children.

Dr. Harry Plotz, medical advisor of the Jewish Joint distribution committee, one of the eight constituent American relief organizations comprising the European relief council, called Wednesday for Europe to direct an overseas medical unit of twenty American specialists, sanitarians, dentists and pharmacists, to serve for one year in the war-stricken countries of eastern and central Europe, under the auspices of the Joint distribution committee. The unit will sail about Jan. 15.

The first and most important thing that the unit will do is to furnish medical supplies—drugs, surgical instruments, liniments, bandages, rubber gloves, etc.—to rural doctors and hospitals, who now lack everything and as a result are helpless to combat the diseases sweeping the countries, according to Dr. Plotz. The remainder of its program, as outlined by Dr. Plotz, will be in co-operation with the governments in fighting epidemics, principally typhus, which it is said will be more severe this winter than ever before; conducting educational health campaigns in the spring; building baths and furnishing soap and fuel for them; and organizing boards of health in each community, so that the work of the unit will go on after it leaves Europe.

This is the third American-Jewish relief unit that has been sent to eastern Europe during the past year by the Joint distribution committee. An appropriation of $2,000,000 has been made by the committee for the unit to carry on its work in fighting diseases and in providing local organizations and machinery to continue American sanitary and hygienic methods after the American relief workers have departed.

Dr. Plotz and the members of the unit will work in close co-operation with the medical program for children's relief to be carried on thru the $2,000,000 fund appeal of the European relief council. $10,000,000 of the fund going for medical service, the balance for food and clothing for the 3,500,000 destitute children throughout eastern and central Europe. Franklin E. Lane, 42 Broadway, is treasurer. Send your check to your precinct committee chairman.
