

ATHLETIC COLUMN.

By Chas. P. Howard.

In our "Who's Who Column" this week we take great pleasure in introducing to you Mr. W. H. Kendel. Mr. Kendel is an athlete, every inch. He plays a half for the Springfield Y. M. C. A. college, and during proper seasons represents college in baseball, basketball and track. As a matter of fact Kendel is taking the physical training course at Springfield, which makes it imperative that he study all the major sports and the minor ones as well. It is rumored that Kendel is being groomed to take charge of the physical training department at Fisk university. It isn't Kendel's athletic ability, nor his prospects for a great future that inspire us most, but we'd just like to say that Kendel is the most polished, refined and gentlemanly young man that we've ever met. It wasn't our privilege to see Lord Chesterfield in his younger days, but we'd like to say if the celebrated lord had anything on Kendel he certainly must have been polished some.

Drake university's new coaches have arrived. Mr. Ralph Glaze and Lieut. Wier. We've never won any medals for proficiency in judging football coaches, but we'd bet our old grey hat that if Drake doesn't have a great football team this fall it won't be the fault of the coaching. Dept. Coach Glaze had Howard P. Drew under his charge last year and has nothing but highest praise for the gritty little runner. There is a possibility that Drew may comply with Glaze's wish that he come to Drake with him. We'd like to see the colored people of this community get back on their feet for the betterment of the community. Some of our people refuse to have anything at all to do with any movement that isn't designed for the special benefit of colored people. They don't seem to see that what helps the community at large helps them also. Very often religious organizations open their doors to delegates from colored churches and colored organizations, but they seldom, if ever, send a delegate. Last year for the first time a colored Sunday school was represented in the Sunday school athletic meet. If we don't embrace these opportunities now they'll soon be closed to us. Now, all together, let's get ready to enter a rattling good basketball team in the Y. M. C. A. league this winter.

One of the best amateur games of baseball ever played in this town was played Labor day at the Union park grounds between the Des Moines Giants and the Riverview aggregation (white), the game going fourteen innings for a count of 8 to 8. The Riverview bunch got off in the lead with two runs in the third, but the Giants came back in the fifth with four runs, grabbing the lead from their rivals. Everything was lovely then until the eighth, when the Riverview boys made six runs, making the count 8 to 6. With two down and two men on in the ninth, "Bud" Saunders saved our scalps by spanking out a two-bagger, thus tying it up for then, henceforth, now and forever more. From the ninth through the fourteenth innings neither side could score. Each, however, came desperately near getting over the necessary sleep producer. Twice did one Grafton Roane make phenomenal stabs. He was easily the fielding star. In the thirteenth with two down and a man on third, the Riverview first baseman hit a long one far over the said Grafton's head. Grafton ran forward, ran sideways and then turned and ran backwards, and after running as described for about twenty-five yards he stuck up his gloved hand, looked toward heaven with a prayer and was rewarded by having the sphere lodge safely in his gloved hand. The enthusiastic spectators refused to allow him to walk in home. Wade of the Riverview team also did some excellent fielding. Batteries: For Riverview, Goodwin and Flinn; for the Giants, Hays, Moore and Brown.

HEALTH HINTS.

A. J. Booker, M. D.

During the past few weeks the papers have been full of the reports of the epidemic of poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis. The results were simply a panic condition on the part of fond parents, for there was not can there be any definite advice given either to prevent nor cure the malady. It is the sensational and the unusual which attracts attention.

There were about 500 deaths reported in this epidemic, which was bad, of course; there will be many cripples among the survivors. Every year there are more than eight thousand children who die from measles and its complications. People look upon measles as a harmless disease and often purposely expose their children to it, feeling that they have done a favor. While there were thirty-two hundred cases of poliomyelitis in New York, there was nothing said of the nine thousand seven hundred cases of measles.

Diphtheria, scarlet fever and tuberculosis cause so many deaths every year that the small number who die in the present epidemic in New York dwindle into comparative insignificance. The point we wish to bring out is the fact that people are to watch out along the lines of the old and ever present diseases and to use methods of protection which are known, namely: Keep children from all sick people, consider no disease of ailment simple, avoid any but known and safe contact. Be sure that a physician does not mask typhoid fever under the guise of Diarrhoea. The summer diarrhoea is as dangerous as tuberculosis or measles.

The child who is fortunate enough to escape the infectious disease of childhood is in better shape to live long and prosper than the sickly one. Those diseases which confer immunity are too dangerous to trifle with. All fevers and rashes upon the young organism are apt to leave some weakness on delicate and essential organs. This promises to be a year when typhoid fever will be prevalent. There are many cases in Des Moines now. Some cases have nearly died because some so-called doctors cannot diagnose the disease. But we all can fool the doctors by boiling the water which the children must drink. The grown up people may be successfully vaccinated for the disease. Consequently there is little excuse for those who prize health to succumb.

Keep your ear to the ground for the commonplace things, watch for the usual terrible diseases, do not get into a flurry about epidemics in the east when we have right at hand every day our old friend the enemy of life and happiness.

Resolutions from Esther chapter, No. 4, O. E. S.: Whereas in the providence of Almighty God he has seen fit to call from earth one of the foremost members of our order, Bro. H. T. Elliott, our hearts are bowed in deepest sympathy with our beloved sister, Addie Elliott, in the loss of her dear husband, who departed the life July 2, 1916. Bro. Elliott by his ripened experience and long term of service has proved himself a great blessing to our chapter and the ability and wisdom he exercised in the aid of our organization will be held in grateful remembrance. Be it resolved that we bow in humble submission to the Divine will. Our prayers and sympathy are extended to the bereaved wife and family, with the hope that they will in faith cast their burden wholly on the Lord. Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the face of our minutes, a copy sent to the family and copy sent to the Bystander. Josephine Fowler, Susan Harris, Mate Clark, Committee.

Missouri Can't Beat This Pair

MISSOURI has a well deserved reputation for mule breeding, but even the Show Me State can beat hybrids of the class and quality of the pair pictured in the accompanying illustration. They are the finest of their kind—big, smooth and perfectly matched in every way. They are strictly Iowa products, bred and raised by F. A. Hutson & Son of State Center. Exhibited at the Iowa State Fair of 1915, they won the championship ribbon over all comers. The Hutsons are the most extensive mule breeders in the state and perhaps anywhere north of Mason and Dixon's line. For several years past they have made a practice of showing at the state fair and expect to be on hand again this year with their usual excellent consignment. The average reader may possibly entertain the notion that the heat mules all hail from Missouri. If so, he is likely to change his mind after looking over the Iowa bred mules that will be on exhibition at the coming state fair.
