THE Lancaster ladies have decided to defer the presentation of the Cantata here until later in the season, we regret to say.

W. K. HOBBS, our worthy blacksmith, does not wish his name confounded with that of the fellow who is adulterating Crab Orchard salt.

SHERIFF MENEFFEE'S delinquent tax list has been reduced 30 odd names since it appeared in this paper, which proves that advertising pays even a sheriff.

TWO Lincoln county men struck the combination for arrears of pensions last week: Messrs. J. J. McKinney and N. J. Smith, the former getting $1,300 and the latter $2,000.

THE Commercial Hotel at McKinney has changed hands several times in the last week. J. W. Adams sold it to T. C. Jasper for $2,000 and he subsequently disposed of it to Will George at the same price.

THE body of Ben Dorman, who was drowned about three weeks ago in the Kentucky river, was washed ashore Sunday near Hickman. His body was not disfigured and his watch and gun, which was buckled to him, were still on his person.

THERE are always one or two other times and circumstances which beats the present occurrence, if we are to credit the memories of the oldest inhabitants. Uncle Dud Newland says Cedar Creek was never higher before, nor did the water ever do more damage than in the recent freshet, save once in the 40 years he has lived on its banks.

DIVORCE—Mrs. Ellen Alford, through her attorneys, Welch & Sandifly, filed a petition for divorce Friday against her husband, B. G. Alford, alleging abandonment and a settled aversion to her. She prays in addition to a decree for alimony, a judgment for $1,050, money of hers which came into Mr. Alford's keeping. She also prays for a restoration to the name she bore at the time of her marriage to the defendant.

THE directors of the Roller Mill Company have organized by electing Thomas J. Foster president and J. S. Hocker secretary, both of whom are to serve without compensation. Mr. Potts was chosen superintendent at $1,000 a year and steps were taken for the immediate purchase of the new machinery. The only drawback now is the absence of a permanent water supply, but it is thought that this can be remedied with an outlay of less than $500.

WITH this issue the INTERIOR JOURNAL enters upon its 16th year, 12 and more of which have been under the present management. Its subscription list is larger than it has ever enjoyed and its advertising patronage is about all it can carry and do its readers justice.

MARSHAL NEWLAND says the occupation of the night marauders is almost entirely gone since the barrooms closed. He has not been compelled to make an arrest for several weeks and says that a drunken man is now a rarity here, although he knows of 36 bottles of whisky that came up from Rowland on a certain night.

CAPT. DELPH's freight train jumped the track near Hazel Patch, Saturday night, but no damage resulted save the breaking of several trucks. In assisting in getting the cars in shape, Section Master Coniffie was struck on the head by a chain which broke and rebounded hurting him considerably. The express was delayed four or five hours by the accident.

—Col. Barry Taylor died at Georgetown Sunday, after a lingering illness. He was a son of the late Col. James Taylor, of Newport, and a brother-in-law of Colonel Thomas L. Jones.

—Mrs. Cath Bailey received a telegram yesterday announcing the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Harrison Bailey, at her home in Shelby county. Deceased was a most estimable christian woman, loved by all who knew her and almost idolized by her immediate relatives.

—Mr. Abner Chensault, who has been ill for several weeks of typhoid fever, breathed his last yesterday morning at the home of his brother-in-law, M. G. Thompson, aged about 48 years. He had but recently returned from the West, and purchasing Mr. T. J. Foster's farm, was preparing to spend the days of his declining years in the land of his birth and in the quiet enjoyment of his family, when inexorable death came to rudely tear asunder a happy household.

Mr. Chensault was twice married, the last time to Miss Thompson, who, with one child, survives him, and in their hour of terrible bereavement they have the sympathy of every true heart. A member of the Methodist Church, a christian and a gentleman, Mr. Chensault was highly esteemed and in all of the walks of life demonstrated his worth as a man.

—The death of Hugh L. Porter, which occurred at 10 o'clock Friday night at the home of his father, Robert L. Porter, while not unexpected, was a surprise to his friends who had no idea that the end was so near. A few short years ago, when he came to town to enter business, he was a robust and hearty youth, apparently destined to a long and useful life, but the fell destroyer, consumption, marked him for his own, and claimed him ere he reached his 20th birthday.

His strict attention to their interests won for him a high place in the esteem of his employers and his modest and gentlemanly demeanor made him popular with young and old, a fact which was fully demonstrated by the very large concourse of town and country friends which gathered Sunday to follow his body to the tomb. At his home, Elder John Bell Gibson read a chapter and spoke a few words of comfort to weeping relatives and friends and then the remains were taken to the old burying-ground, on the late William Logan's farm, and laid away. Eight years ago Hugh gave his heart into the keeping of his Master and joined the Christian Church here. His faith sustained him in his long illness and two weeks since he told his father and mother that he must die; that he had no fears of death, but on the contrary hailed it with a pleasure, tempered only by the thought of a separation from them and the others that he held dear. He exhorted them to live so that the parting would not be eternal, but all the happier, beyond the skies, for their short separation. The loss of a good and dutiful boy is a sad affliction, but the grieving parents can praise God in their sorrow for the sweet consolation that their example and training prepared him for an eternal life of joy at His right hand.
