

DANVILLE.

—Prof. C. Norris' greatest dog show on earth exhibited here to a crowded house Tuesday night.

—C. D. Portwood has sold his residence on Lexington street to Wm. Markwell for $3,100 cash.

—James A. Frost has bought three acres of land from A. H. Smith, just north of town, and will soon build a residence thereon.

—Archie Washington and John Smith, two negroes from Junction City, were sent to the work house Tuesday for 30 days each for stealing coal.

—The prosecution against Bud Milligan, charged with robbing Portwood's clothing store last December, has been continued until the April term of the circuit court.

—Mr. W. L. Reed is out again after an illness of pneumonia. Isom Dadds, whose conscience wont allow him to sell a tough piece of beef, is again here in the employ of R. S. Russell.

—Henry Burros, son of Fletcher Burros, colored, of Danville, was convicted Monday of the murder of Sam Sanders at Louisville and his punishment fixed at imprisonment for life. Henry claims that certain witnesses lied on him in order to receive the reward offered for his conviction. He says if he had told the truth he would have been cleared.

—George Word, tried several times for the murder of George Wells at Junction City in February, 1891, was found guilty of manslaughter Tuesday and his term fixed at five years in the pen. The case is almost certain to go to the court of appeals again, as Judge Breckinridge, Word's counsel, is in the fight to stay.

—The grand jury adjourned Wednesday, after returning a number of indictments for liquor selling, cigarette selling, the keeping of disorderly houses, etc. Mr. Wm. Cheek, the intelligent and pains-taking foreman, says the experience of the last few days has convinced him stronger than ever of the difficulty in getting reliable testimony for the prosecution in the class of offenses named above. "They don't want to tell" explains it all.

—Judge Sautley's first court in the district will close here Saturday. To say that he has given satisfaction to all reasonable persons in the discharge of his official duties, is strictly true. As for the unreasonable fellows, they have not been heard from. His rulings are prompt and accurate and while the strictest courtesy marks everything he does, there is blended with it a firmness which says unmistakably that he is to be the judge in fact, as well as name. Mr. J. S. Owsley, Jr., as prosecuting attorney, has also made many friends and handles a criminal case with the skill of a veteran. His arguments in the murder cases of Miller and Word have been much complimented by older lawyers.

—Harry A. Melton, the escaped convict from the Michigan penitentiary, left for Jackson Tuesday evening in charge of Mr. Eugene D. Mosier, an officer of that institution. When Mosier went into the jail to see Melton, the latter greeted him with: "Hello, Mr. Mosier, glad to see you." He says Melton is a most capable book-keeper and once traveled for a wholesale Indianapolis shoe house and that his mother (who married the second time) is now the wife of a prominent business man of Indianapolis. As intimated in this column heretofore, Melton must have cash, and when he gets strapped will take big risks to get some more. Chief of Police Silliman, who made the arrest, received the reward of $50.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—Mr. G. Gilmore sold his farm to Henry Catron.

—Mrs. Amelia Barton, aged 103, died Monday morning of heart trouble.

—Our thanks are due Mr. W. W. Jones, of London, for a giant pipe made of dogwood and pine.

—Will Cozatt was here from Parksville Wednesday. D. C. Poynter has a fine pack of six hounds, which are being trained for fox hunting in Southeast Texas, where they will shortly be shipped. Mr. S. H. Hay, a Liverpool stove man, was here during the week to see J. W. Nesbitt.

—Mrs. Catherine Sharp, aged 115, died in Philadelphia. Her age is thoroughly authenticated by family records, which go back as far as the birth of her grandparents. She was well known as the oldest woman in the United States.

—A terrible story comes from Colon. The passengers and crew of the sloop Juane, just arrived, existed for 20 days without food and water. Previous to their last they existed for four days on rattans and three days on puppies. Some died during the period and portions of their bodies were eaten by the survivors.

—It is said that a couple of Frankfort lawyers have agreed to bring suit for Len Tye against the lynchers who took him out of jail and swung him up awhile, in case the grand jury does not indict them. They will bring the suit in the Federal court at Louisville and will sue for big damages.—Williamsburg Times.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—A man with a performing bear furnished amusement for the loafers Wednesday.

—Monday was county court. A large crowd was in town, but very little business transacted.

—The musicale given at Garrard College Monday evening was enjoyed by a large audience.

—The union services Sunday night will be held at the Christian church. Sermon by Rev. Tercy.

—It is stated by good authority that the Opera House block will be rebuilt this spring. Here's hoping.

—Mr. T. J. B. Turner, the clever-hearted hedge fence man, has purchased the Lillard property on Lexington street.

—Col. W. G. Welch, one of the best lawyers in this or any other State, was here Wednesday on legal business.

—Mrs. Russell Noel came to town on Monday and while here was stricken with paralysis. She was taken to the residence of Mr. Gabe Gaines, where she now lies in a critical condition.

—Collins & Buchanan have moved their picture gallery to Stanford. They are clever gentlemen and we bespeak for them a liberal patronage. It's true they only take tin types, but that's the reason they moved to the "killed" town.

—Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hardin and Master Lewis West, of Illinois, are visiting Mrs. Jennie West. Mr. Howard Rice is in Louisville on business. Mr. John Kirby was in town Sunday. Mrs. A. H. Rice has returned from a visit to Lower Garrard. Miss Mollie Smith, the popular saleslady, has accepted a position in West & Batson's store. We are glad to know that Mr. A. J. Rice is much better. Misses Lula and Isabel Owsley, of Hubble, were here Saturday. Misses Carson and Hacker have returned to Richmond. Mr. Will Jennings, of Paint Lick, visited his mother Sunday. Mr. Ira Taylor was here this week. Mrs. Lizzie Rice and son, A. J., attended the concert at the College Monday.

—We have good authority for saying that Hon. M. C. Sautley is making an excellent judge. His opening court at Danville has been eminently successful and he has shown, not only his knowledge of law, but his ability to manage his courts. There is usually in every court a set of loafers, composed of Smart Alecks, who take up the room intended for the members of the bar, the officers of the law and the litigants. These self-important individuals smoke, talk, rattle newspapers and comment on the business of the court generally. They include boys, middle-aged and old men, many of whom should know better, as men ought to grow wiser as they grow older. They seem to be prompted solely by idle curiosity and are never so happy as when they are listening to a trial in which they have no interest whatever. It is said that Judge Sautley has disposed with the services of professional loafers in his courts. There is no office within the gift of the people of as much importance as that of circuit judge. A president, governor or senator has the constitutional right to make a fool of himself, and make mistakes. His blunders generally affect only himself, and if he can stand it, the people can. The decisions of a judge, however, affect the rights of individuals—the right to life, liberty and property, and the errors of the head are visited not upon the dispenser of justice, but upon those who have sought justice at his hands. It is therefore of the utmost importance that a judge should be possessed of a clear head and an honest heart, with the moral courage to do right regardless of consequences; to take broad and liberal views of the law instead of giving importance to technicalities. Judge Sautley will no doubt prove an ornament to the bench, as he has to the bar.

—Ex Senator George F. Edmunds has an article in The Forum upon "Politics as a Career." He speaks of an individual devoting himself to the career of politics in the same way as that of farming, trade, manufacture, art, architecture, law, medicine, &c., are respectively taken up as the business of life, according to the inclination and opportunities of different men. It is rather remarkable that a man of the ability of the ex Senator should place the vocation of a politician upon a par with that of farming, trade, manufacture, law, medicine, &c. The ordinary avocations of life are presumed to be for the benefit of society as well as for the benefit of those who engage in them; but this cannot be truthfully said of the politician. The latter enters upon his profession with no capital other than presumption and his sole desire is to make something out of nothing. Ordinarily he drifts into the tide, prompted solely by selfish considerations, and will give up a tried for two untried friends, whenever it becomes necessary to his success. The career of nine-tenths of the professional politicians of the age are not one to be envied. They usually become the victims of dissipation and are mere wrecks upon the ocean of life, mentally, morally and financially, at the termination of their career. Very few of them are ever remembered for what they have done, unless it be for some conspicuous rascality, in which they have been detected while posing as the protectors of public morals.

—A war with Hayti seems imminent. Mr. Frederick Meyers, an American citizen, was arrested in Port au Prince, charged with smuggling, and incarcerated in a dungeon for 20 days without a hearing, at the expiration of which time he was released. For this alleged outrage the United States has demanded an apology, and to enforce her demands has sent the steel cruiser Atlanta, with a full armament and Minister Durham to Hayti to demand satisfaction. The semi-barbarous Haytians are to be taught that they cannot commit outrages against American citizens with impunity. It is not known whether Mr. Meyers was guilty of smuggling or not; at all events, he seemed to be turned loose without a trial and may have been innocent. A war, however, with Hayti would be something out of which our country might gain considerable notoriety if not glory. If entered upon at once, it would afford Stephen Bonaparte, Bolivar Bustamante Elkins an opportunity to show his knowledge of war in marshaling the armed hosts of the Nation and a warding government contracts. Poor little Hayti! Apologize immediately, or we will pounce down upon you like a hawk upon a June bug. The New York Press says, "Hayti must apologize," and that "Citizens of the United States will be protected in their rights while the present administration remains in office."

LIBERTY, CASEY COUNTY.

—There was a good crowd attending county court on Monday and more business than usual was done.

—J. W. Wilkinson moved from the old Napier Hotel back to his own commodious residence Tuesday.

—Close confinement to his room on account of excessive bad weather prevented your correspondent from gathering up the news last week.

—J. M. DeBoard opened a singing school here with full attendance Monday night. Mr. DeBoard has the reputation of being a fine teacher of music.

—There was a grand social at Bob Pierce's last Saturday night, at which Lige Coffey met with a serious accident in having his head cut from a fall.

—The following marriage license have been issued since our last report: Wm. J. Richards to Miss Kitty Smith; Thos. Foley to Miss Bettie A. Wilson; Logan Hatter to Miss Raiborn.

—Miss Bettie Burke has returned to her home in Danville. Miss Bertha Elliott has gone to the National Normal University at Lebanon, Ohio. J. Boyle Stone and family have gone on a visit to relatives in Scottville, Ky. Hon. F. P. Combust was from Frankfort attending county court on Monday.

—The excessive icy roads have caused County School Superintendent Hoskins much trouble. On last examination day, being unable to travel horseback, he was compelled to "foot it" all the way from home on the Rolling Fork, some twelve miles distant, to this place to attend to his duties.

—A friend of Capt. Samuel M. Boone was circulating a paper a few days ago, recommending him for the State pension agency for Kentucky, and was getting many signers. We are in hopes he will be successful in his application for the office, as the captain is a clever man, of the finest business qualifications and one of the brightest intellects in the State.

OBITUARY.

—Elsie LaVerna, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Carrier, died at their home near Rowland, on the morning of Tuesday, January 17, 1893, aged two months and 14 days. Apparently in good health for one of her size (at birth weighing 2 1/2 pounds), Elsie rested as well as usual during the night and when the attention of the loving young mother (who was Miss Annie Parkins) was called to her at 4 A. M. the baby was still resting well. When the parents awoke two hours later (at 6 A. M.) the spirit of the pride of the household had taken its flight to Him Who said, "Suffer little children to come unto Me." Death is always a sad visitor, but only those parents who have lost their first-born fully realize the bitter pangs that follow. "If it be possible let this cup pass," is the lamentation and prayer that comes from their hearts. May the loving young mother and father find consolation in the thought that they will meet their child in the city paved with gold, where family circles will ne'er break up and praises never end. Their darling is sleeping the sleep of the innocent by the side of its grand-father and grand-mother, in Buffalo Cemetery, where it was laid to rest after a short service by Rev. Ben Helm. There is a

"Blessed hope! how it shines in our sorrow,
Like the star over Bethlehem's plain,
That it may be, with Him, ere the morn,
We shall meet with our loved ones again."
J. F. W.
Stanford, Ky., Jan. 24, 1893.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—Mrs. Sam Sloan, of Pittsburg, fell last Saturday evening and broke her arm.

—The report that "Cap." Tom Taylor had frozen to death has been found to be untrue.

—Frank Saunders and family have returned from Rockcastle, after a visit of several weeks.

—Chris Jackson cut Town Marshal John Marlow in the hand while scuffling Sunday night.

—Hon. J. B. Weaver, of Iowa, and of the people's party, will speak at London Wednesday, Feb. 1.

—John A. Dyche, of Jackson county, a nephew of Col. A. R. Dyche, is now a part of the Echo force.

—Col. Frank Riley is in Kansas. Ed Smith, of Mt. Vernon, had business in town Wednesday. You will have to trot out your goat.

—A little stranger arrived at G. W. Colbert's over a week ago, but on account of its being a girl, his nearest neighbors liked never to have found it out.

—The house of Mrs. Martha Craft, the mother of J. A. and R. B. Craft, burned Wednesday morning. Loss about $1,500; no insurance. Mrs. Craft lived 3 miles east of London.

—You may get most of the ladies to join your anti-hoop club as long as this weather lasts, but they are so nice and airy that they will be right for them when the hot days of summer come.

—J. C. McKee, G. W. Baker and Tip Sparks were appointed a committee by the stockholders in the proposed butter factory to investigate, and left Monday night for Chicago and other points.

—City Marshal Barnett, of Erlington, captured George Maynans, alias George Huston, at Pittsburg, on Sunday, and brought him here. Huston is charged with killing his brother with a rock and had escaped from the Erlington jail.

—Joe Young, C. H. Moses, Miss Nannie McWhorter, Mrs. Sallie C. Craft and probably McCalla Fitzgerald will be applicants for the post-office here. As Judge Weaver's commission does not expire for about three years and no charges are likely to be preferred against him, they will all have plenty of time to get up their endorsements.

—In the various biographies of R. M. Jackson, who was recently made cashier of the First National Bank of London, it has been mentioned that he has been one of the directors since its establishment, that he has been post-master, a druggist, handled trotting and race horses for fair exhibits, has been prominent in politics in Eastern Kentucky, been in the livery business, is a good business man and has made money in everything he has tackled, but the papers and writers seem to have forgotten that he is also right now a Kentucky colonel on Gov. Brown's staff and holds a commission to that effect. Bob will certainly be a good cashier, with his business tact and accommodating manners. I am informed that he will not be a candidate for collector in this district, as reported in the Times.

POETIC GEMS.

Our lives are albums written through
With good or ill, with false or true,
And as the blessed angels turn
The pages of our years,
God grant they read the good with smiles
And blot the bad with tears.

The night has a thousand eyes,
And the day but one;
Yet the light of the bright world dies
With the dying sun.

The mind has a thousand eyes,
And the heart but one;
Yet the light of the whole life dies
When love is done.

(Printed in loving memory of a devoted and true wife, from her own selections.)

DR. APPELMAN'S NEXT VISIT.

—Dr. Appelman, the celebrated Louisville Specialist, will make his next regular monthly visit to this city Tuesday next, January 31, till noon Feb. 1, stopping at the Myers House, as usual. Dr. Appelman makes a specialty of the eye, ear, nose, throat and other chronic diseases, and has met with unprecedented success in his practice. More than a year ago he made his first visit to our city and placed quite a number under his treatment. Since that time many cases have been dismissed cured, and others are steadily improving. His rooms are crowded with patients on all occasions, and his business in this city has increased to enormous proportions. Remember the date of his coming visit—Tuesday next—and see him, ye afflicted.
