It is likely that a good many farmers will store their wheat this year as prices are bound to advance. D. M. The irregularity of yield in the wheat in this section is illustrated in the crops grown on two farms in this vicinity. A few farms have gone above Mr. Bagby's yield and a few below Major Covington's, which makes a very poor showing for as fine lands as Warren county boasts.—Bowling Green Times-Journal.

HUBBLE.

Mrs. John Blanks has been on the sick list for a few days. Miss Katie Walter, of Stanford, is visiting Mrs. A. M. Luce. Mrs. Jas. Pollard is on the sick list. Mr. Frank McMelon and wife have moved into our community.

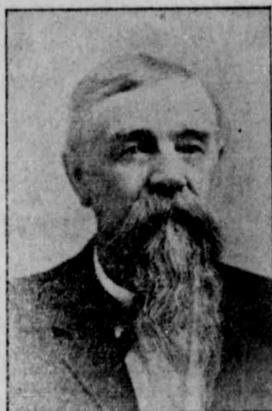

Many hearts were made sad here Sunday, when the telegram reached us informing us of the death of Mrs. Jas. McKechnie, which occurred in Buffalo, N. Y., Saturday evening at 5 o'clock, where she had gone about two weeks ago for treatment. Her husband was with her and brought her remains home Monday noon, and after a very appropriate funeral service at her home by Bro. Moore, she was interred in the Lancaster cemetery. And as a demonstration of the good impression that Mr. McKechnie and his family have made on our people since they have been among us, one of the longest processions that ever left this neighborhood followed her remains to their last resting place, and now sympathize with him and his seven bereaved children. Mrs. McKechnie's maiden name was Sloan and she was from Wayne. She was 42 years old and all regret to give her up as she will be so sadly missed as a wife, mother and neighbor.

JUDGE JAMES P. BAILEY, present county judge and nominee to succeed himself, has made a most excellent officer and Lincoln county people, irrespective of party, are proud of his record. He is a man of fine judgment, has a good knowledge of law and a keen sense of justice. That he will succeed himself there is no doubt and that the affairs of Lincoln county will be closely watched after no one will deny. Judge Bailey is as good a campaigner as he is a law dispenser and the republicans will have a hard time finding a man who will give him enough of a race this fall to make it interesting to the genial and capable judge.

A hen belonging to John S. Reese was killed by dogs after she had been setting for some time. Mr. Reese is an expert with bees, and knowing the temperature of a hive to be about 100 degrees, concluded to use a hive as an incubator and finish the work of the hen. In due time every egg hatched; after shutting off the bees from the top section of the hive, it is now used as a brooder for the orphan fowls, and the chicks are thriving in their strange brooder. The bees don't like the arrangement, but a wire screen gives the chicks room for exercise and keeps the bees away.—Winchester Democrat.
