ACCORDING to the annual report of Secretary Taft, of the War Department, the actual strength of the regular army was 3,709 officers and 54,659 enlisted men in October. Yet there were but 368 deaths from all causes during the year, or six and a fraction to the thousand. Army life seems conducive to health, though it must be taken into consideration that none but young and healthy men are permitted to enlist. The death rate per thousand in cities runs from 15 to 25 persons.

SENATOR BAILEY is having the fight of his life for a return to the Senate from Texas. His enemies in the State are doing everything to encompass his defeat, and a representative from Texas has introduced a resolution, considered a slap at the Senator, providing for fine and imprisonment for any member of Congress who accepts money or office from corporations. We hope the Senator is wrongly accused, and further hope he will triumph over those who would destroy him.

REV. JOHN QUINCY MCANTER, of Philadelphia, was shot and probably fatally wounded by his daughter, who says she did the shooting unintentionally. Her neighbors tell a different story, however. They say that McAnter was drunk and trying to throw his wife into the cellar of their home when the daughter used the weapon.

DURING the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, 9,073 persons—passengers, employes and tramps—were killed on the railroads of the United States and 86,008 injured. This terrific slaughter is inexcusable. The railroads are not using the safety appliances that are at hand if they would.

THE Republican papers are making much ado over Mr. Hearst's statement that his election expenses were a little over $250,000. As he paid it himself, it is nobody else's business, but where did the Republicans get that two millions it cost to elect Hughes?

THE Danville Advocate is evidently hard up for news when it devotes three or four inches to the death of a cat. The feline family must be short in Little Britain.

Congress at this session may limit the hours of railroad employes. It is understood the opposition to the enactment of this law is likely to be withdrawn by most of the railroads themselves.

A resolution, considered a slap at Senator Bailey, was introduced in the House by Representative Randell, providing for fine and imprisonment for any member of Congress who accepts money or office from corporations.

Owing to the condition of his health, it is believed that former Senator Cockrell will resign his place in the Interstate Commerce Commission before Jan. 1, and among those who have been mentioned to succeed him is Senator Blackburn.

The present road between these two points crosses the railroad tracks in two dangerous places; it is proposed to build the new pike on the South of the tracks so as to make a straight road between the two places without crossing the tracks.—Advocate.

In an obscure but picturesque little village of far off Germany there is a place called the "Chocolate Cure," where thin people go to become stout. The patients eat and drink cocoa and chocolate all the time while they rest, admire the scenery, gossip and grow fatter every day. The true secret of the great success of this treatment is the happy way chocolate has of fattening just the right places, setting in the hands, the arms, the neck and the shoulders, making the fair patient prettier and plumper all the time. The really effective part of this cure may be tried at home by any persevering woman, and the medicine is so palatable and the method so simple that there is actually, it seems, no reason why all should not be of just the desired weight.—London Chronicle.
