Summer School Of Eastern Kentucky State Normal.

The State Normal Summer School at Richmond is now in full blast. The term opened on June 8th and will close on July 17th. The enrollment for the present term alone is 159. This makes 738 to enroll in the Normal School for the entire year. A large number of students are in the Summer School who have been here for several months. In all there about 275 doing work at present in the Normal School. The enrollment of this year surpasses that of last year by 188, and there are a few who perchance may enroll before the close of this year. As the progress which has been made during this year far exceeds that of last year, so it is hoped that next year will keep abreast of the educational demands and greatly surpass the present year. An enrollment of 1,500 and an actual attendance of 1,000 has been adopted as the "battle cry" for 1910. There are 4,500 teachers in the Eastern District and it does not seem impossible to reach these figures. All that is needed is an awakened public sentiment and a realization of the opportunities of the Normal School at Richmond. Prof. I. H. Boothe, of the faculty, will visit during the Summer and Fall a number of county institutes as a special representative of the Normal. He will endeavor to show the teachers why they should attend the Normal and come in contact with the educational movements of the day and better prepare themselves for their work as teacher.

The school has been at a disadvantage in the past on account of the lack of ample room. This condition will be relieved by another year. Three handsome brick buildings are now being erected upon the campus at a total cost of $97,000. They are the model school building, a girl's dormitory, and a power house. They are modern in every respect and will add greatly to the comfort and convenience of the school. The contract for these buildings was let to Combs Lumber Co., of Lexington, some time in April and the work has been progressing nicely all Summer. The power house is nearly completed and the brick layers are about through with their work on the model school building. A pipe line ditch which connects the power house with the other buildings, extends across the campus and makes the campus a little unsightly for the present. The work is being pushed rapidly and will be finished by Winter.

Ten or twelve of our young men attended the State Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association which was held at Danville, June 11-17. The local organization of the Y. M. C. A. is very active, and our delegates reported a pleasant and profitable stay in Danville. It is the policy and spirit of the Normal to have representatives in all such gatherings as this one.

Wednesday, June 23, was a day off at the Normal and the school went in a body to the Kentucky Educational Association at Estill Springs. The trip was an interesting and enjoyable one except for a Summer shower that added the discomforts of dampness and mud to the occasion.

The cornerstone laying and dedication of the model school building occurred last Tuesday. A crowd of 500 or 600 people was present and listened to able addresses from Gov. Willson, Senator McCreary, and Hon. A. R. Burman. The cornerstone was laid by Gov. Willson at 5:30 and the handsome, immense building was dedicated to the late Dr. K. N. Roark. In his speech Gov. Willson made a strong appeal for better roads and better schools. He said that the roads measure the civilization of a people and that the schools measure the education and enlightenment of a people. The Normal School has enrolled several prospective county superintendents during the present year. The nominees for that office from six counties have been in school here. They are Miss Sloan, of Clinton Co., Messrs. Starns, of Grant, Land of Estill, May, of Magoffin, Mullikin, of Robertson, and Meade, of Johnson.

Last but in no wise least I must mention the State Normal Student, a paper published by the student body of the Normal. The paper is gotten out each month and contains articles from the students and school news in general. Eleven hundred copies were printed for the June issue and one was sent to the chairman of every educational division in Eastern Kentucky. The writer is manager of the paper and is considerably interested in its welfare. He would be glad to send copies to any of his Lincoln county friends who are interested enough to ask for a copy.
