DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Circuit Judge.

HON. CHARLES A. HARDIN,
of Mercer County

Hubert Vreeland says we are actuated by spleen because we said it served him right to have the republicans, with whom he was dealing in an effort to take Newman a state fair secretaryship away from him, "double-cross" him. And he was never more mistaken in his life. Hubert's an awful nice fellow in every way, and we thought it too bad that a man who has attained the prominence which he has in democratic ranks—having served with distinction as State Commissioner, of Agriculture,—should be heralded as having been in league with the present republican officials, to take away a paltry office from a brother democrat. And then to have his republican allies hand him a large fat lemon, after he had thus compromised his democracy with them. Not spleen Hubert; you might call it ultra democracy—something you rarely find in politicians who come out of Louisville.

The Courier Journal continues to thunder for a democratic platform convention before the State primary on July 1. Don't pay too much attention to it, however, for the Courier Journal very probably won't play unless it is allowed to write the platform and what country democrat is willing to stand on certain planks it keeps in its lumber yard? And again, what assurance have we country boys that the Courier-Journal will support the nominees after they are made? Better look a leetle out.

Col. Walton in the Lexington Herald says we "handed it" to Hubert Vreeland insaying that it served him right to have the republicans double-cross him after he had dealt with them in an effort to turn a good democrat out of the state fair secretaryship. Well now tell us Colonel don't you think that looking at the matter from a Simon-pure democratic standpoint, it really did serve him right?

Ed Leigh heads a boost for his and Henry Hines, Candidate for governor in the Bowling Green Messenger: "Democracy affrs for Judge Reed." Yes, and Democracy in the shape of friends of the grand old warhorse of Madison, is going to hand the same Judge Reed a "hot one" about the first of July.

By all means let's oil the streets this summer. There is no effective way to lay the dust, but this and after the first two weeks' trial, everyone will be pleased.

With plans on foot for new courthouse, Harrodsburg now wants a federal building. Stanford has wanted one for some time, but that's as far as it's ever gotten.

LARGELY PHONETIC.

The general manager had dictated a letter to the new stenographer—a most stately and straightforward blonde—and this same letter dealt largely with the "physical" condition of the line.

"Can I assist you, Miss Mayne?" "Yes; sir, if you will be so kind that word 'physical', I've been over the file and the file's three times, and yet I can't seem to locate it."

"Are you following the record?" "Yes, and if I ever catch up to them I'll quit."

THE RECALL.

Senator Hatley's resignation (and the withdrawal of the resignation) has given to the initiative, referendum and recall more advertisement than the direct legislation league could have purchased with a million dollars, and advertisement is all these reforms need. As soon as the people understand them they will adopt them—shocking as this may seem to those who think that these reforms will destroy the institutions bequeathed by our fathers. As the recall is the reform least understood, and therefore most violently attacked, let us examine this method of dealing with officials.

There may be differences of opinion as to how many signers should be required in order to invoke the recall, but that is merely a matter of detail. When the right of recall is admitted the percentage required to call an election can be fixed by agreement among those favoring the recall—and it will probably be a compromise between extreme views as to notice of election, time required for consideration and means used to inform the public. These also, are matters of detail and do not affect the right itself. Such safeguards will be thrown around the use of the recall as experience may prove necessary. But as to the right of recall—two questions are raised:

First—have the voters a right to terminate the contract entered into, when the candidate accepted the office? This question cannot arise if the candidate is elected after the adoption of the recall, because he will take the office subject to the right of the people to recall. But the question could not give much trouble any way, because provisions could be made, if necessary, for the salary to be paid for the unexpired term. If an official demonstrates his unfitness for an office the people can much better afford to pay him while not serving than to allow him to serve even without compensation.

The second question—the only real question in fact—is whether the recall so robs the official of independence as to injure the public service. This question admits of but one answer. Why should a public official be independent of the wishes of his constituents? It is an aristocratic—not a democratic—conception of representative government that contemplates that the representative will be indifferent to the wishes of his constituents. The democratic theory is that the people will think for themselves and select representatives to give expression to their thoughts. The moral and intellectual standard of the representative will not be lowered by an increased watchfulness on the part of the public. Banks have not lost anything in standing and character by the fact that they are now examined and may be closed without a moment's notice. On the contrary, the banking level has been raised and it will be raised still more when the law requires the bank to give absolute security to depositors, so officials will be better when the betrayal of trust—the embezzlement of power—is dealt with as a crime.

But if independence is the thing desired, is that not already menaced by frequent elections? If independence is necessary, how can we secure it except by life tenure? How can a congressman act independently if eleven months after the first regular sessions convene his constituents may defeat him at the polls because of some vote he has cast or some speech he has made? In state and city the situation is the same. The recall asked for would be invoked when we now have frequent elections acts as a restraint on all officials and acts constantly. How can we condemn the proposed recall as dangerous or destructive and at the same time approve of short official terms? And does not impeachment act as a restraint on independence? The regular election is a form of impeachment; it gives the people a chance to remove, at stated times, by refusing re-election. The recall simply goes a step farther and permits the voters to shorten the term, when in their judgment, the official has betrayed his trust. The fact is that opposition to the recall is a reverision to aristocracy, plutocracy and monarchy. The objection rests upon a distrust of the capacity of the people or upon a contempt for their rights because the people have a right to self-government and the capacity for self-government, and because the people are conscious of their right and confident of their capacity, they favor the recall—and will, in time secure it."—Bryan's Commoner.

MAJOR SHELBY

(W. P. Walton in Lexington Herald.)

The death of Major Isaac Shelby at Arcadia in Lincoln county, at the age of seventy-nine removes from the sphere of action one of the most pronounced types of the Colonel Sellers variety we have ever known. He spent fortunes in the illusive chase of greater ones. Crab Orchard Springs was his holy thirty or forty year-old, and he spent thousands of dollars in making it a resort to which he hoped visitors would flock from the South and elsewhere, but in vain.

Besides building many handsome cottages, he put over $100,000 in one building at the springs which would do credit to any watering place. The property passed out of his hands years ago, and it has just sold for the second time for a little more than a tenth of what had been spent on it.

Major Shelby was a fine gentleman and a popular one, but his enthusiasm over any project always ran away with quiet judgment and left him in the lurch. He was the grandson of the first Governor of Kentucky, for whom he was named, and he had a son of the same name and for years the line of Isaac Shelys was known by numbers down to the fifth. Major Shelby wore the gray with valor during the Civil war and strove with all his might afterwards.
