

THE STANFORD INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOLUME XVIII. NO. 71

STANFORD, LINCOLN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1911.

EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

ANOTHER GREAT SALE HELD IN STANFORD.

Total of $33,000 Realized from First Day's Auction From J. H. Baughman Live Stock Co's Disposal.

Like his first sale last year, the second annual sale of the J. H. Baughman Livestock Company was one of the biggest sales ever held in this part of the country. The rains of ten days previous and a night or two before the sale had given promise of fine fall grass and buyers came from far and near.

A great crowd had gathered at Nunnally's Stock Yards on Wednesday when Auctioneers T. D. Engle and L. M. Dunn, opened the bidding. The first day's sale was of stock belonging to Mr. Baughman's company, while commission horses and mules were sold the second day.

The sales of the first day totaled $33,000, and all of Mr. Baughman's stock could not be sold at that time some running over to Thursday. The first day's sales were as follows:

BEAUTIFUL WEDDINGS SOLEMNIZED WEDNESDAY

Miss Nell Warren Becomes Bride of John Charles Osborne in Presence of Many Loved Ones.

The Presbyterian church was the scene Wednesday afternoon of one of the most beautiful weddings that has been solemnized in Stanford in many months. As the fitting climax to a courtship of several years, Mr. John Charles Osborne, of Knoxville, Tenn., led to hymen's altar, Miss Nell Warren, of this city. The church was beautifully and appropriately decorated for the occasion and a myriad of candles from their elevated position around the altar shed a lustre of yellow radiance over the bridal party which made the scene one of enchanting beauty.

Previous to the ceremony an organ solo, "Pilgrims Chorus" was softly rendered by Miss Mary Higgins, a violin solo "O, Pina Sublime Evening Star," by Miss Berta Jean Penny was exquisitely played and Miss Mary McRoberts sweetly sang "Because." As the bridal party entered the church Lutheran's wedding chorus was sung by Miss McRoberts, Mrs. J. G. Carpenter, Prof. W. Ireland and Wallace Englandton accompanied by Miss Mary Higgins on the organ. From the right wing came Messrs. W. T. Adams and A. C. Bishop, while in the left aisle were Messrs. Jack Rout and R. A. Asbury the groomsmen. Following were Misses Alice Abeam, Margaret Warren and Josephine Warren, the latter the maid of honor; and then came the bride down the arm of her brother, Mr. Ashby McKee Warren. As they approached the altar, the groom, attended by Mr. A. J. Wertz, his best man, came in from the side entrance and met his bride in the center before the altar where stood Rev. P. L. Bruce, who, with the impressive ring ceremony, united two loving hearts in the holy bonds of wedlock. To the strains of Mendelssohn's march, Mr. and Mrs. Osborne left the church, followed immediately by their attendants, who had taken position on either side of the altar during the ceremony.

The bride was attired in an attractive traveling suit with large hat to match, and was never more beautiful than on this her wedding day. She is a daughter of Mrs. Charlotte Warren and is admired and loved by a host of friends here and elsewhere. A sweet, bright and beautiful young woman, and a lovely Christian character, Mr. Osborne is to be congratulated on winning her heart, for she will ever prove a source of happiness to his life. He is a prosperous travelling man, the representative of a large lumber firm in Knoxville, and not one of its many salesmen stands higher for energy and capacity.

Mr. and Mrs. Osborne left on the 5:15 L. & N., on a bridal tour of the northeast, which will include a visit to the groom's parents at Grand Rapids, Mich. After October 1st, they will be at home to their friends at Knoxville, where the best wishes of friends will ever attend them. May their voyage through life be ever as bright as the rays of the sun that smiled down upon the happy pair as they came from the house of God, husband and wife.

PARTNERSHIP DISSOLVED.

Alfred Pence Sells Out to His Brother to Go on Road

The firm of Pence Bros., the well known farm implement men of Main street, was dissolved this week, Alfred Pence selling out his interest to his brother, Tom Pence, who will conduct the business under his own name in the future. Alfred Pence will go on the road for the large range manufacturing company with which his brother in law W. J. Dozier is connected, traveling in the south this fall and going to California in the winter. He is one of the best known young business men of this section of the state and his many friends will wish him every success though regretting exceedingly to see him leave Stanford. His brother will continue to conduct the business on the same high plane that it has been operated on for so many years.

PUBLIC SALE!

The county not being able to renew the lease on the workhouse lot, as committee of the Fiscal court, I will, on Monday September, 11th, 1911, at 1 o'clock P. M., in front of the highest bidder for cash in hand, the workhouse building located on the lot adjoining the Baptist church. There are about 1700 feet of lumber in the building and it will be sold as it stands, and purchaser will be required to remove the entire building before October 1st 1911. W. S. Burch, Committee, Lincoln County Fiscal Court.

PARENT-TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION PROPOSED

Public School Opens Monday With Appropriate Ceremonies and Goodly Attendance.

Before a goodly number of friends and patrons, the Stanford graded school opened Monday morning with bright prospects for a splendid year. At 8:30 in the college property on Main street the primary department began its work with appropriate exercises by Rev. D. M. Walker and J. W. Ireland. There are about 120 pupils enrolled in this building. At nine o'clock in the main building on Danville avenue, the grammar and high school departments were opened with a short but well chosen program. A piano duet by Mary Moore Roney and Thomas Coleman was the first feature and it was well rendered. "America" was then sung by the school. Rev. P. L. Bruce conducted the devotional exercises after which Miss Ethel Fetters sang a good selection. The next thing on the program was a talk by Superintendent Ireland along lines of progress in school work, the important thought of which was the mention of a parent-teachers' association. This is an organization to promote school interests and to secure a hearty co-operation of parent, teachers and pupil, also to bring the parent and teacher to a closer knowledge of each other and the best work may be accomplished by the pupils. It will prevent fragmentary reports being accepted as wholly true, and impress upon all the necessity of closer application by keeping children home at nights. This association will be organized provided a sufficient number of patrons manifest sufficient interest. It is not to be simply a mother's club but to be truly a parent-teachers' association. Quite a number have already signified their hearty approval of this step and have expressed a desire to become members.

In the event the organization is formed it will be held at a time and place designated by the majority and will meet once a month for the discussion of such topics as are most vital to the progress of the school work. People hear much of the three R's, reading, rithm, and something of the three P's, the head, the hand the heart but this body if completed will deal more with the three B's, brains and bringing up. The truancy problem will be helped by this co-operation. If there are any who wish to become members of this organization which is invaluable for direct personal contact they are requested to give their names to the superintendent.

All departments of the school started off with flattering prospects and the parents or patrons can keep every line of progress most especially the educational welfare. The home is the substructure of all national life the school is to broaden and expand that life to a higher stage of citizenship, then the necessity of co-operation between the leaders of the two is obvious.

The enrollment of pupils the first day was 325 or 100 in excess of the enrollment the first year under the present management.

LOCAL OPTION ELECTION HERE DEC. 18.

Petitions Are Being Circulated For Signers and Will Be Presented to Court Monday

Elections come fast and furious in old Lincoln. The next on docket after the state election in November will be a local option election, said to be scheduled for December 18. At this election the people of Lincoln will be asked to vote on the question of whether they want to have licensed saloons in the county or continue in the present alleged "dry" state.

Following a meeting of several of the wets, at Crab Orchard and Hustonsville last week, petitions were drawn up and are being circulated this week. It is understood that the petitions will be presented to the court at its regular meeting on Monday. Joe Portman, George Logan and Anderson Carr, the latter colored, were circulating the petitions in Stanford this week. These must contain the names of 25 per cent of the voters at the last county election. As the vote was very heavy here in the election of 1909, it will require a goodly number of signatures to the petitions. As soon as filed they will be published.

Lincoln county voted out saloons at the last local option election held here something over four years ago by a majority of over 2,200. Those who favor the licensing of saloons, however, say that the chances for cutting down this majority, or even carrying the county in favor of high license, are greatly improved by reason of the general dissatisfaction over the failure of the officials to enforce the law, and the fact that blind tigers, speak easies, and boot-leggers are permitted to flourish like the green bay tree all over the country. A great many who took prominent part in the fight to vote the county dry before, are said to be so disgusted with conditions in Lincoln that they will take no part in this coming fight, if not actually voting for high license.

On the other hand the friends of prohibition say that they will make the fight of their lives to keep saloons out. An effective and working organization will probably be perfected at once, and a hard-fought campaign is expected to result.

HUSTONVILLE.

BABY BOY KILLED IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

Another Fearful Tragedy in Lincoln County—Mrs. Tom Wilder, Child's Mother, May Also Die.

Monday afternoon as Mrs. Thos. Wilder, the wife of a farmer, living in the Hubble section, was on her way to visit Mr. and Mrs. John Farmer, living at Hedgeville, the horse ran away and the surrey was demolished, resulting in injuries to the seven-months old infant son, from which it died that evening Mrs. Wilder also received many severe bruises and one cut about the face and internal injuries, it is feared, which are more than likely to prove fatal.

One of Mrs. Wilder's little girls and a young lady named Kayes, who were also occupants of the carriage, jumped and escaped with not a single scratch.

As Mrs. Wilder's condition was so precarious, and also having had recent attack of heart trouble, it was thought best by the attending physician that she be not told of the death of her babe. She revived somewhat by next morning, when the sad news was given her, but being only semi-conscious, she did not seem to be fully aware of its awful importance.

The terrible catastrophe occurred on the pike, almost in sight of the Wilder home. The breaking of the under girt of the harness allowing the shafts to raise and the surrey to run upon the horse caused the horse to plunge and run away, after he had reduced the carriage to a complete wreck.

Mrs. Wilder and the infant were thrown out after the horse had dragged the carriage some distance before kicking loose. Assistance came quickly and medical attention was secured and everything done to relieve the sufferers, but the child expired in a few hours. Its burial occurred in Buffalo cemetery Wednesday morning at eleven o'clock.

SEPARATE SPEAKING.

Will Be Held Monday By Democrats and Republicans.

Hon. E. J. McDermott, will fill his appointment here next Monday county court day. Some discussion has been had in regard to a joint date being arranged between Mr. McDermott and Hon. E. P. Morrow, who is also billed for a speech here on the same date; but in a letter to the chairman of the campaign committee, Mr. McDermott states that he happened to meet Mr. Morrow, a few days ago and the latter agreed with him (McDermott) that no good would result to either party from such a meeting. Both gentlemen agreeing upon this matter the probability of a joint discussion of the campaign issues is of course at an end. Mr. McDermott will speak in the court house at 1:30 P. M., and Mr. Morrow will speak at the opera house at 1 o'clock P. M.

OPERA HOUSE SEASON

Opens Here Saturday Night With "Daniel Boone on the Trail."

The theatrical season of the Stanford Opera House opens Saturday night September 9th with "Daniel Boone on the Trail." This is a thrilling romance of pioneer days one of those thrilling soul stirring dramas that appeals to every man woman and child who have within them one spark of patriotism. Manager Harris has mounted this historical production with scenery painted from photographs taken along the beautiful Kentucky river where Boone's interesting campaign against the Shawnee took place. A number of real Sioux Indians, loaned by Uncle Sam from one of his reservations are used in the exciting scenes of the play. A pack of Siberian wolves, a den of ferocious bears and Boone's famous trailing dogs are also worked in the different scenes and helps to give it the real atmosphere of pioneer days when our earlier settlers had to fight them by night and the howling savages by day.

The burning of Boone's cabin, the throwing of Elizabeth into the den of bears and Boone's heroic fight for life with hungry wolves, the surrender of Corewallis and Washington's message to Boone are among the many scenes of this famous drama.

The Indians dressed in their native war regalia and the wolves in their cages of captivity are seen on the streets the day of this attraction.

Bounding Elk the great Sioux warrior is with the company and chief of the tribe of reds carried. Bounding Elk in his native tongue says: "I saw Cluster fall and he laughed as he fell."

This is a thrilling romance of pioneer days one of those thrilling soul stirring dramas that appeals to every man woman and child who have within them one spark of patriotism. Manager Harris has mounted this historical production with scenery painted from photographs taken along the beautiful Kentucky river where Boone's interesting campaign against the Shawnee took place. A number of real Sioux Indians, loaned by Uncle Sam from one of his reservations are used in the exciting scenes of the play. A pack of Siberian wolves, a den of ferocious bears and Boone's famous trailing dogs are also worked in the different scenes and helps to give it the real atmosphere of pioneer days when our earlier settlers had to fight them by night and the howling savages by day.

The burning of Boone's cabin, the throwing of Elizabeth into the den of bears and Boone's heroic fight for life with hungry wolves, the surrender of Corewallis and Washington's message to Boone are among the many scenes of this famous drama.

The Indians dressed in their native war regalia and the wolves in
