Durnovo was the first to speak when the boat came within hail. "Very sorry," he shouted. "Thought you were a native boat. Must establish a funk—get in the first shot, you know."

A puff of blue smoke rose slowly over the boat.

little expedition, while the manner and attitude of the man in the bow suggested the servitude of a disciplined soldier slightly relaxed by abnormal circumstances.

"Whose first shot?" inquired Durnovo, when there was no longer any necessity to shout.

"Joseph," replied the man in the stern of the boat, indicating his companion. "Was it a near thing?"

"About as near as I care about. It threw up the dust between my legs."

"The man called Joseph grained. Nature had given him liberally of the where-withal for indulgence in that relaxation, and Durnovo smiled rather constrainedly. Joseph was grabbing at the long reedy grass, bringing the canoe to a standstill, and it was some moments before his extensive mouth submitted to control.

"I presume you are Mr. Durnovo?" said the man in the stern of the boat, rising leisurely from his recumbent position and speaking with a courteous savor faire which seemed slightly out of place in the wilds of central Africa.

He was a tall man with a small aristocratic head and a refined face, which somehow suggested an aristocrat of old France.

"Yes," answered Durnovo. The tall man stepped ashore and held out his hand.

"I am glad we have met you," he said. "I have a letter of introduction to you from Maurice Gordon of Loango."

Victor Durnovo's dark face changed slightly. His eyes—billions, fever shot, unhealthy—took a new light.

"Ah!" he answered. "Are you a friend of Maurice Gordon's?"

There was another question in this, an unasked one, and Victor Durnovo was watching for the answer. But the face he watched was like a delicately carved piece of brown marble, with a courteous, impenetrable smile.

"I met him again the other day at Loango. He is an old Etonian, like myself."

This conveyed nothing to Durnovo, who belonged to a different world, whose education was, like other things about him, an unknown quantity.

"My name," continued the tall man, "is Meredith—John Meredith—sometimes called Jack."

"They were walking up the bank toward the dusky and uninviting tent. "And the other fellow?" inquired Durnovo, with a backward jerk of the head.

"Oh, he is my servant."

Durnovo raised his eyebrows in somewhat contemptuous amusement and proceeded to open the letter which Meredith had handed him.

"Not many fellows," he said, "on this coast can afford to keep a European servant."

"I understand," answered Meredith, with a half suppressed yawn, "that the country gets finer farther up; more mountainous."

Look at me, on the verge of jaundice; look at this wound on my arm, it began with a scratch and has never healed. All that comes from a month up this cursed river. Take my advice. Try somewhere else."

"I certainly shall," replied Meredith. "We will discuss it after dinner. My chap is a first rate cook. Have you got anything to add to the menu?"

"Not a thing. I've been living on plantains and dried elephant meat for the last fortnight."

"Doesn't sound nourishing. Well, we are pretty well provided, so perhaps you will give me the pleasure of your company to dinner? Come as you are; no ceremony. I think I will wash, though. It is as well to keep up these old customs."

CHAPTER VII.
IN that part of Africa which lies within touch of the equator life is essentially a struggle. There is hunger about, and where hunger is the emotions will be found also.

Now, Jack Meredith was a past master in the concealment of these, and, as such, came to Victor Durnovo in the guise of a new creation. He had lived the latter and the larger part of his life among men who said, in action if not in words, I am hungry or I am thirsty; I want this, or I want that; and if you are not strong enough to keep it; I will take it from you.

This man was different, and Victor Durnovo did not know, could not find out, what he wanted.

He had at first been inclined to laugh at him. What struck him most forcibly was Joseph, the servant. The idea of a man swaggering up an African river with a European manservant was so preposterous that it could only be met with ridicule; but, the thing seemed so natural to Jack Meredith, he accepted the servitude of Joseph so much as a matter of course that after a time Durnovo accepted him also as part and parcel of Meredith.

Joseph took off his coat, turned up his sleeves and proceeded to cook such a dinner as Durnovo had not tasted for many months. There was wine also, and afterward a cigar of such quality as appealed strongly to Durnovo's West Indian palate.

The night settled down over the land while they sat there, and before them the great yellow equatorial moon rose slowly over the trees. With the darkness came a greater silence, for the myriad insect life was still.

"So," said Durnovo, returning to the subject which had never really left his thoughts, "you have come out here for pleasure?"

"Not exactly. I came chiefly to make money, partly to dispel some of the illusions of my youth, and I am getting on very well. Picture book illusions they were. The man who drew the pictures had never seen Africa."

The evening had turned out so very differently from what he had expected that Durnovo was a little carried off his equilibrium. Things were so so-called and pleasant in comparison with the habitual loneliness of his life. The fire crackled so cheerily, the moon shone down on the river so grandly, the subdued chatter of the boatmen imparted such a feeling of safety and comfort to the scene, that he gave way to that impulse of expansiveness which ever lurks in West Indian blood.

"I say," he said, "when you told me that you wanted to make money, were you in earnest?"

"In the deadliest earnest," replied Jack Meredith in the half mocking tone which he never wholly learned to lay aside.

"Then I think I can put you in the way of it. Oh, I know it seems a bit premature; not known you long enough and all that. But in this country we don't hold much by the formalities. I like you. I liked the look of you when you got out of that boat so cool and self possessed. You're the right sort, Mr. Meredith."

"Possibly for some things. For sitting about and smoking first class cigars and thinking second class thoughts I am exactly the right sort. But for making money, for hard work and steady work, I am afraid, Mr. Durnovo, that I am distinctly the wrong sort."

There was a little pause. Durnovo looked round as if to make sure that Joseph and the boatman were out of ear shot.

"Can you keep a secret?" he asked suddenly.

Jack Meredith turned and looked at the questioner with a smile. His hat had slipped to the back of his head, the light of the great yellow moon fell full upon his clean cut sphinxlike face. The eyes alone seemed living.

"Yes! I can do that."

"I can see you're a gentleman," Durnovo said. "I'll trust you. I want a man to join me in making a fortune. I have got my hand on it at last. But I'm afraid of this country. I'm getting shaky; look at that hand. I've been looking for it too long. I take you into my confidence, the first comer, you'll think. But there are not many men like you in this country, and I'm beastly afraid of dying. I want to get out of this for a bit, but I dare not leave until I set things going."

"Take your time," said Meredith, quietly and soothingly. "Light that cigar again and lie down. There is no hurry."

INTERVIEWS WERE FULLY CONVINCING

Swarm of Humanity at Cooper's Headquarters.

St. Louis Has Become Overwhelmingly Interested in Young Man and His Preparations.

ENORMOUS SALE OF MEDICINE.

St. Louis, Oct. 10.—In view of the enormous sale of Cooper's preparations now going on in this city and the intense interest which Mr. Cooper has stirred up since his arrival, a representative of the Globe-Democrat spent yesterday afternoon at the young man's headquarters, watching the swarm of humanity come and go.

During the afternoon the reporter interviewed many of the callers and obtained statements from all who cared to give them as to their experiences with Cooper and his preparations.

The following are selected from those statements as being typical of the general expression of the people seen:

Mr. W. T. Bray, living at 1120 Angelle St., when interviewed, said: "I had suffered for years with stomach, liver and kidney trouble, seven years in fact. I had tried many remedies but obtained no help from any medicine I took. I bought one bottle of the New Discovery medicine and one of the Quick Relief. After using them one week, I felt so wonderfully improved I can hardly believe it possible. I am very grateful to Mr. Cooper. He has a wonderful medicine."

Another caller was Mrs. Clara Yohe, living at 1610 Locust St. She said: "I had suffered with stomach trouble for several years. I was so bad the last year I could not eat anything at all. I could not digest my food and had severe pain in my stomach most of the time. I did not sleep well and had severe headaches at times. I have tried many remedies, and have been to a number of physicians. I bought some of this man Cooper's preparations. I feel greatly benefited and have gained steadily in health since using the medicines. I have not a trace of stomach trouble left, and have come here to thank Mr. Cooper."

Mr. C. A. Taylor, of 4220 Finney Ave., said: "I have been suffering with severe stomach trouble for several years and owing to the nervous conditions caused by this trouble, I could not sleep. The only relief I obtained was when up and walking around. I tried everything heard of for stomach trouble but nothing gave me any relief. I heard so much of this man Cooper that I decided to try his medicine. I have used several bottles and noticed a decided improvement almost immediately. I am now entirely cured, and feel happier than I have for several years."

Mr. John Schenk, of 2111 N. 12th St., when questioned, said: "I have had eight years of suffering and sleepless nights on account of stomach trouble and headaches. I have used one bottle of Cooper's preparation, and now rest every night. I have not a trace of stomach trouble left and have been immensely benefited every way."

Mr. S. P. Hitchings, living at 2145 Franklin Ave., made the following statement: "I have suffered with rheumatism for 20 years. I was stiff in all my joints so that I could hardly use them. I have tried Cooper's remedy and have come here to thank him and purchase more, as I can now handle myself perfectly after using the preparations one week. I feel better than I have for years."

Amelia Leonard, living at 1530 Salisbury St., said: "I have suffered for the past ten years with stomach trouble, headaches, dizziness and kidney trouble. I have been treated by a number of physicians and have used all kinds of medicine, nothing did me any good. My appetite was very irregular and my back pained me greatly. In fact my life was a misery to me all the time. I suffered with nervousness and loss of sleep. I have used two bottles of the New Discovery medicine. This morning an immense tapeworm passed from my system. This has undoubtedly been the cause of all my sufferings, and I am very grateful to this man who has relieved me."

In spite of assertions made by various physicians that Cooper is a fad, who will soon die out, the young man seems to be gaining even greater headway as his visits draw to a close. It is estimated that four thousand people called on him yesterday.
