MAD DOG AT LARGE BITES CHILDREN

Three Paducah Boys and Two County Girls Victims.

Last Heard of Running in Neighborhood of Bethel Church in Ballard County.

MAD STONE USED ON WOUND.

BITTEN BY DOG.
Charles Smedley, 1128 South Fourth.
Harry Berry, 1130 South Fourth.
Joseph Cunningham, Jr., 1018 South Fourth.
Bessie Bumpous, Blandville Rd. Little girl at Milan.

After biting three boys in Paducah yesterday afternoon, a mad dog which was just seen near Fourth and Norton streets, yesterday afternoon, bit eleven-year-old Bessie Ole Bumpous, ten miles from Paducah, on the Blandville road this morning, snapped another little girl at Milan, and was last heard of near Bethel church, in Ballard county, having traveled 15 miles since 5 o'clock yesterday.

The animal is a little yellow brute, and Charles Smedley, 10 years old, son of Frank Smedley, the market master; Harry Berry, 15 years old, and the son of Joseph Cunningham, the steamboat mate, were in the street near their homes when it attacked them last evening about 5:30 o'clock. Each of them was bitten on the leg by the animal, which came on them without warning. Its teeth merely broke the skin, but their parents, surmising the dog was mad, sent for doctors who cauterized the wounds.

The dog dashed off down the street and disappeared.

The first heard of it again was this morning about 7:30 o'clock when it attacked little Bessie Ole Bumpous, daughter of B. F. Bumpous, a well-to-do farmer, living ten miles from Paducah on the Blandville road. She was going to school when he rained upon her and bit her several times on the legs and arms, springing at her with frothing jaws.

She ran home and her father hastily brought her to the residence of Baker Overstreet, 1231 Jackson street, where the madstone was applied this morning.

Near the Milan school house another little girl was bitten.

How much stock has been inoculated with the rabies by the maddened animal it is impossible to ascertain, but the animal was down in Ballard county near the Bethel church this noon.

WAS REJOINDER OF CAPTAIN ED FARLEY YESTERDAY.

Rather disconcerting was the rejoinder of Capt. Ed Farley, chairman of the Republican city convention, yesterday, when Col. Gus Singleton, who is a great friend of Senator McCreary, requested the chairman to announce the McCreary meeting Monday night.

"While we are waiting for the committee to report," said Captain Farley without a moment's hesitation, "a prominent Democrat on my right" pointing to Col. Singleton, "requests me to announce that on next Monday night Senator McCreary will address the citizens of Paducah at the Kentucky theater. LOVE LAUGHS AT THEIR THEOLOGY

Dr. Barney Dryfuss and Miss Claire Burke Wed.

Romance of Former Paducahan and Nurse Who Watched at His Bedside.

NEW YORK'S LATEST STORY.

New York, Oct. 12.—Today's papers print long stories as the result of the announcement by the bride's parents of the marriage of Dr. Barney J. Dryfuss, of the faculty of Cornell University Medical college, to Miss Claire Burke. The ceremony was performed by Father Norris, a Catholic priest, a few days ago, while Dr. Dryfuss was still in bed following a serious illness.

Dr. Dryfuss' parents, who live in Paducah, where he was born and raised, are supposed to know nothing of the wedding as yet. They opposed the match because of the difference in religion, he being a Hebrew and she a Catholic.

The new Mrs. Dryfuss is the daughter of the late Col. John Burke, a prominent Indiana politician. She is handsome, the young woman having been voted the most beautiful girl in the Hoosier state on the occasion of the inaugural ball at Indianapolis a few years ago.

Her mother descended from old Norman stock. Four years ago she went to Louisville as a trained nurse. There she met Dr. Dryfuss, who was still a student. The couple fell in love.

Two years ago he came here from Paducah. Eight months ago Miss Burke also came to New York. Her mother agreed to the wedding despite religious differences. The date was set for November 8, and a few close friends had been invited, when Dr. Dryfuss fell ill. His sweetheart nursed him back to convalescence and the marriage followed this week. According to one story he received word that his family disowned him, but the young couple are happy, nevertheless, in a new home uptown.

FATHER DID NOT KNOW.

Mr. Henry Dryfuss, father of Dr. Barney Dryfuss, had not heard of the marriage. He said he had opposed the marriage on account of their ages and other reasons. Speaking further he said:
