BRYAN EXPLAINS THAT ROOSEVELT IS NO DEMOCRAT

Sage of Lincoln, Guest of Honor at Banquet, Attempts to Answer Question What is a Democrat to Washington Hosts in After Dinner Speech.

SPEAKS AT A MASS MEETING

Washington, Nov. 27.—William J. Bryan was last night tendered a banquet and reception by "The United Democracy of the District of Columbia." Five hundred Democrats partook of the three dollar dinner and more than double that number participated in the reception and feast of oratory which followed. The speech of Bryan, like half a dozen shorter ones in his praise which preceded it, afforded an opportunity for repeated and continued demonstrations of political accord and personal regard for the guest of honor.

Mr. Bryan utilized the occasion to set forth at length the closely reasoned analogy between the policies of President Roosevelt and those he believes should be adopted in the administration of the government. From this view point Bryan's speech was regarded by the Democrats who heard it as a decidedly important and timely party deliverance.

Mr. Bryan's subject was "The Point of View" and his speech consisted of illustrations of the difference in the point of view from which questions are examined. He proceeded to point out things which the president has borrowed, Democratic and un-Democratic doctrines which he has advanced. These are: Railroad regulation; enforcement of laws against trusts; advocacy of income tax; recommendation of arbitration in labor disputes. Here, Mr. Bryan says, are four policies which are distinctly Democratic, and which were being urged by the Democratic party from five to twelve years before President Roosevelt ever said a word in their favor, and it is a significant fact that they are the very things that have given him popularity.

The speaker then considered the Democratic doctrines which he said the president has not endorsed. Summarized these are:

The election of senators by a direct vote of the people; independence of the Philippines and tariff reform.

Bryan then called attention to what he termed "some very un-Democratic doctrines, which the president has announced." First of these is "national incorporation of railroads and other interstate commerce corporations, and this is in line with the school system in California. Democrats insist upon the recognition of the rights of the state over domestic affairs. The ship subsidy is another; an asset currency a third, and fourth, a military spirit entirely out of harmony with Democratic ideas and Democratic ideals."

Mr. Bryan took up each of these various points and dissected them in accordance with his own views and the policy of his party. He praised the president for adopting certain Democratic measures, and criticized him for rejecting others. He was glad to note the growth of reform sentiment in the Republican party, but thought it slow.

The speaker proceeded to discuss the difference between the Republican and Democratic points of view of government, which in brief was that Democrats believed the government should be as near the people as possible and want federal remedies added to, not substituted for state remedies. These he considered directly opposed to the Republican view. The position of the two parties as to trusts, tariffs, regulation of railroads and arbitration of finances were considered in detail. In conclusion he said: "The time is ripe for a Democratic appeal to the Democratic sentiment of the country. There is no doubt that a large majority of the people take a Democratic rather than an aristocratic view of government and of society. All that we have to do is to convince the people that the party can be trusted to be Democratic if entrusted with powers. I believe that in coming to congress our Democratic senators and representatives will prove themselves equal to the task imposed upon them and demonstrate principles. With the united party we can face a divided opposition and enter the campaign with the assurance of victory."

Spoke at Labor Meeting.

Washington, Nov. 27.—William J. Bryan and Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, were the principal speakers at a mass meeting here.

WANDERED AWAY FROM HOME AND RETURNED WITH THROAT CUT—SLIGHTLY BEWILDERED

Mr. Ashley Robertson Was Absent Twenty-Four Hours and Had Strange Experience.

With his clothing covered with blood from a knife wound in the neck, Mr. Ashley Robertson, a well known citizen, appeared at his home at Ninth and Clay streets this morning at 7 o'clock after having been unaccountably absent 24 hours.

Mr. Robertson resigned several months ago as a member of the school board from the Second ward and was sent to the asylum at his own request, as he feared that he was losing his mind. After remaining at the institution several weeks he returned home and was believed to have been permanently cured, but recently became worse again, but was not thought to be in a dangerous condition. Yesterday he left his home, saying he believed he would go to his father's farm in the county for a few days' rest and nothing more was thought of it until yesterday afternoon, when his father came to the city and reported that his son was not at the farm. Mrs. Robertson became alarmed and informed the police, but all search for him was unavailing, until he came home with the wound in his throat.

He said he met a party of hunters yesterday afternoon in the woods beyond Lang park and that they took his knife away from him and cut his throat. He said that when he came to himself it was dark and he was unable to find his way out of the woods until daylight this morning.

Mr. Robertson's unfortunate condition is deeply deplored by his many friends and a close watch will be kept on his movements until he recovers from the dementia, which is believed to be only temporary.

He struggled with her, but lost strength and she escaped from him and rushed to a cistern. Her son followed and held her from jumping in the water until aid came. The woman was taken to a hospital. The son will recover, but is now weak from loss of blood.

NO LONGER AUTOCRAT

St. Petersburg, Nov. 27.—The duma decreed that the title of autocrat, which has been borne by the emperor of Russia for centuries, is no longer tenable within the Russian state and is incompatible with the regime inaugurated by the manifesto issued by Emperor Nicholas on October 30, 1905. At the close of a great constitutional debate the Russian parliament by a vote of 112 to 246, rejected the word "autocrat."

FARMERS' UNION OFFICIALS MEET WITH PRESIDENT

Washington, Nov. 27.—R. F. Duckworth, of Atlanta, Ga., chairman of the legislative committee of the National Farmers' union, and C. T. Ladd, consulting attorney for the union, met President Roosevelt and Secretary Cortelyou by appointment at the executive office and discussed remedies for financial depression.

After the interview, Messrs. Duckworth and Ladd issued a statement, in which they expressed their satisfaction at the fact that the views of the president and the views of the National Farmers' union would probably coincide and that the union would pursue its own campaign methods to urge members of congress to act.

Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou announced today that 90 per cent of the money paid for the $50,000,000 of Panama bonds would be redeposited with the banks subscribing. This means that of the $50,000,000, the treasury will receive the use of only $5,000,000 in cash. Williams has received a letter from Governor-elect Wilson stating that Mr. Wilson approves of the state not ordering out the troops for the inauguration, as the military fund is exhausted, and he does not think the state should exceed the appropriation. He was buried today at 2 o'clock at Paris, Tenn., where he was also the beloved pastor for four years and where his daughter, Mrs. Richard Dunlap, lives. A number of ministers of the Memphis conference were present to pay the last honor to him and the service was an impressive one.
