News of Theatres

A delightful drama and a first class cast is the pleasing combination that comes to our theater soon. "Lena Rivers" is the play and is said to be unique, though interesting, and is pronounced by the critics everywhere as a most worthy offering. The play is a dramatization of Mrs. Mary J. Holmes' popular novel of that name and the engagement has awakened much interest among our play-goers.

The story of "Lena Rivers" is too familiar to even need sketching, as Mrs. Holmes' novel has been read in nearly every household in this country, her publishers claim that she has ten million readers. The first act is laid in the beautiful mountain country of Massachusetts, in the little village of Slocumville. The rural types pictured in the book are all shown here: "Granny Nichols," "Joel Slocum," "Nancy Scovendyke" and all the rest of the Slocumites come to bid "Granny" and "Lena" farewell and to take away with them whatever "Granny" is inclined to give as a remembrance. The last three acts are placed in Kentucky, and the atmosphere of the play changes from the rural to the quiet elegance of the south. Three beautiful pictures of the Livingstone estate are shown and are indeed works of art in the scene painter's line. "Lena Rivers" will be seen at The Kentucky next Saturday, November 21, matinee and night.

The act of the Five Musical Marines with the Al G. Field Greater Minstrels this season, is the most expensive and novel ever offered by a minstrel production.

The stage is set for the act showing an armored cruiser at a dock. The sea stretches out beyond into the distance. Scattered around the dock are anchors and other instruments of a nautical nature. The Five Musical Marines, dressed in the most approved yachting costumes, perform their musical act amidst these settings. Doc Quigley does the comedy of the act, appearing in a sailor costume as the lone fisherman. Many of the instruments used in the act are the invention of the Five Marines, and with the assistance of the orchestra they obtain a volume of sound equal to a full band.

During the action of their act a storm arises and the waves of the sea are seen to rise up and dash onto the beach. The light from the lighthouse streams over the waves, giving a weird and beautiful touch to the magnificent scene, and throughout the storm the Marines play weird music that harmonizes perfectly with the wildness of the scene.

The Five Musical Marines will be seen here with the Al G. Field Greater Minstrels at The Kentucky during their engagement of one night performances beginning Monday, November 23.

An attraction that is absolutely unique in that it is entirely different from anything else booked at the local theater has been secured for two nights commencing Tuesday, Nov. 24, when Galvani, king of the occult, and the world's greatest psychic demonstrator will appear at the Kentucky theater. The performance of Galvani is out of the ordinary, but appeals to all, inasmuch as there is plenty offered for the student of that science known as hypnotism or mesmerism, the demonstrations are more mystifying than the work of the greatest magicians known, and above all there is more fun combined throughout the entire performance than would be found in a pot-pourri of minstrels, comedies and circus clowns. In many and many a theater audience have stood up in their seats en masse and howled and screamed with delight at the amusing stunts offered for their approval. In an introductory appearance before the public Galvani will sleep a man in a 24-hour hypnotic sleep Monday evening at 7:30 in the show window of W. T. Miller & Bro. and on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 he will make his sensational carriage drive, starting from the same store. Low prices will prevail.

Judging by the unusual interest manifested by all classes of theater patrons in the engagement of Graustark Friday, December 4th, nearly every one in town must have read the novel. The company presenting the play there is highly praised by the critics of neighboring cities and the scenic production is said to be the most elaborate ever taken on tour.

Tuesday night, November 20, will be "Amateur Night" at the Kentucky. Among the bill this week will be found a few new faces and entirely new songs and acts; also a beautiful picture is promised on this night.

The return of Mr. Tim Murphy to The Kentucky during December, when he will give an elaborate production of his most successful comedy, "Cupid and the Dollar," is one of the most assured pleasures in store for lovers of native American comedy. Since the passing of Joseph Jefferson, Sol Smith Russell and John T. Raymond and the retirement of Nat Goodwin, there remains no other player of high aim and sound art who devotes himself to the same lines of characterization. Mr. Murphy has followed one ideal. He has sought to place on the stage amusing expressions of the finer types of American manhood, whether from the plains of Texas, the drawing rooms of New York, the cabins of the Adirondacks, the political circles of Washington or the mines of the west. He has gleaned with an eye to the humanity and the integrity of the character. George Goodale called him "The Garlick of America" because like the immortal English actor his art seems to know no limitations that human nature does not know. His great public recognize this and they love Tim Murphy for the broad humanity of his characterizations. But they admire his practical side, too, as a manager who furnishes superior support, beautiful dressing, artistically complete scenic background and all the many accessories necessary to satisfy an eye for completeness and detail.

PLAN THEATER OVER TRACKS.
 New York, Nov. 19.—New Yorkers will not miss the Madison Square garden, if a new plan to build an amusement place in the heart of the city, which was divulged today is carried out.

A proposition to construct a mammoth amusement arena and show place upon one of the great squares over the New York Central railroad tracks, North of Forty-Fifth street has been laid before that company. This was admitted today by a high official of the company.

"It has been demonstrated by practical tests that such a structure would not be affected by vibration, or by the noise from the trains. Experts declare that a grand opera house, built over these tracks would not be marred at all by the close proximity of the railroad on the surface underneath it.

The construction of high class hotels or family apartment houses, on this great superstructure above the tracks has also been proposed.

A Considerate Beadle.
 "I canna get over it," a Scotch farmer remarked to his wife. "I put a two shillin' piece in ta plate at kirk this morn instead o' ma usual penny!"
 The beadle had noticed the mistake and also the frightened face of his old friend, who had not the courage to retake the coin as the old-fashioned ladie-like spoon was carefully passed over his head to the next pew, and one penny after another was dropped into the bowl.

The old farmer sat in silence and said nothing. The old beadle allowed him to miss the plate for twenty-four consecutive Sundays.

On the twenty-fifth Sunday the farmer again ignored the collection plate, but the old beadle steadied the ladie in front of him, and in a loud, tragic whisper said hoarsely: "Your time's up noo, Sandy!"

Attempt on Kaiser's Life.
 Frankfurt-on-the-Main, Nov. 18.—Rumors were current here that an attempt had been made to blow up the train on which Emperor William journeyed from Donaueschingen to Berlin. The royal railway administrative office here makes public a statement in connection with the incident. According to this statement, on both Sunday and Monday a dynamite cartridge was found on the tracks near the station at Muheim, between Frankfurt and Hanau. The cartridges were not found on the tracks over which the imperial train was to pass, but on the tracks paralleling these. As this occurred in Hessian territory, the state's attorney at Darmstadt has instituted an investigation.

For Strength

The Supreme Court Says
 in a recent decision about female labor: "The two sexes differ, in structure of body, in the functions to be performed by each, in the amount of physical strength, in the capacity for long-continued labor, etc."
 It follows that female weakness, due to these differences in body structure and functions, requires some certain medicine to hit the right spot and that Cardui, the medicine for women, is more likely to be the right thing for women to take, when sick, than a medicine recommended for the two sexes alike.

 Try Cardui, for female pain, irregularity, weakness, or misery. It is a specific female remedy, especially recommended for the diseases peculiar to the female sex, a medicine that, in the past 50 years, has benefited over a million—WOMEN.
 Try Cardui. Sold everywhere.
