Negroes Attack a White Man as He Leaves the Ferryboat.

William Edwards is the name of a well-known farmer of near Brooklyn, Pa. and his children came over yesterday afternoon on the ferryboat and drove back about 4:30 o'clock on their return.

There were several negroes aboard, and Edwards finally accused one of them of stealing some money from him. They had several quarrels, but did not come to blows at that time.

When the boat reached the Brooklyn levee, however, three of the four negroes, none of whom was known except one called "Rabbit," attacked Edwards with clubs. A constable happened to be nearby, and took their clubs away from them. They then trailed along behind the wagon until they began throwing rocks at him. The three children in the wagon narrowly escaped being killed several times by the heavy rocks. The assailants became so bold that they ran up to the wagon and threw missiles at Edwards. Finally the latter picked up a large stone that had been thrown in his wagon and hurled it with great force at one of the negroes. It struck "Rabbit" on the head, and seriously if not fatally injured him. He was knocked down, and although the boat remained there twenty minutes, he had not recovered consciousness when it left. Edwards was allowed to proceed home.

SUES FOR DAMAGES.

The Long Talked Contest Between Magistrates is on.

This morning Attorney Lightfoot and Berry filed suit in the circuit court for Justice J. P. Winchester against Justice J. H. Little, for an injunction enjoining him from longer maintaining his office in the parish of the district.

Justice Winchester is in the second judicial district and the other in the third, and there has for some time been a controversy over where they should hold their office. Some took the position that a magistrate can have his office anywhere, while others contend that it must be in the district he represents.

The two magistrates mentioned above have their offices on the same side of legal row, only a short distance from one another. Justice Winchester served several months ago, threatened to bring suit but it was never filed until this morning. In addition to the request for an injunction to require Justice Little to move his office, Justice Winchester asks $1,000 for damages that have accrued for past alleged violations of the law.

The motion is to be heard before Circuit Judge Hubbard, in his office, this afternoon.

FISCAL COURT.

Nothing of Importance Done at Today's Session of Magistrates.

The board of magistrates in fiscal court today has had since 11 o'clock the matter of connecting the county jail with the city sewers under discussion.

As the cells revolve, the jail can be connected only at a great expense, and it is not yet known what will be done about it.

The American German National bank was re-elected receiver of the funding account.

Justices Sheehan, Winchester and Emery were appointed a committee to examine the city's claim for millage expenses.

The Evening News was awarded the contract of publishing the minutes of fiscal court in the daily and weekly at 2 1/2 cents a line in each paper.

A compromise was agreed to with the People's Street Railway company of franchise tax for 1896 for a basis of a $10,000 assessment, at the established rate of 70 cents on the $100, 50 cents to be paid by the assessors within ten days from date.

This afternoon the road question will be discussed and arrangements made to complete the work this summer. Court will adjourn this afternoon, after completing all the business before it.

An order was made this morning that preference be given residents of the county in working the roads.

Many rich people should emulate the example set by Mrs. Emmerson Rame, of Chicago, who was one of the heirs to the great fortune left by her father, the philanthropist McCormick. She has made a true return of all her possessions, excepting a share of the taxes. She admits that if a who have much of this world's goods would do the same the burdens of the poor would be materially lightened.

About 500 coal miners have gone on a strike at Brookwood, Ala. No overtures for a settlement have yet been made. Two hundred negroes have been imported from Georgia by a company in the Birmingham district.

LOCAL LINES.

At the park tonight.

The picnic of the Second Presbyterian Sunday school will take place tomorrow afternoon at La Belle park. A large crowd is expected.

The meeting of Mt. McGregor lodge of Colored Masons, announced for tomorrow night, has been postponed till further notice.

The street roller is today being worked on the streets near Fourth and Court. Many excavations left by the sewer men have been leveled.

Though last night was delightfully cool today has been the hottest one for near a month. Old summer has evidently started home from the springs.

The city has been very quiet in all circles today.

Court street, already too high when compared with the sidewalks, is being raised several inches by the improvement being made to the drainage. There is hardly a street in the city which is not from six inches to a foot too high, and consequently, should be lowered rather than raised.

Elder Randolph Cook, the eloquent young minister of the Christian church in Metropolis, Ill., is visiting Rev. W. A. Parker and will preach at the Tenth street church tonight at 8 o'clock. A cordial invitation is given to all to attend. The pastor requests the presence of as many of the members as can possibly come.

COLORED ODD FELLOWS.

Large Gathering Here—Mayor Lang's Welcome Address.

Mayor Lang last night delivered the welcome address to the Colored Odd Fellows at the Washington street Baptist church. There is a large attendance, and the occasion is the nineteenth semi-annual session of the District Grand Lodge, G. U. O. of O. F., the largest colored secret organization in the state.

The response was made by Chas. H. Brooks, of Philadelphia, Pa., national grand secretary. He formerly resided here and was a principal in the colored schools. He said in his response that his mind was full of reminiscences and reflections as he stood there and thought of thirty years ago, when he and the honorable mayor, who had just delivered the welcome address, were handcuffed boys together. No doubt the mayor, he said then thought of being mayor, or governor, or perhaps president, such hopes, however, the colored man hardly ever, at any time in life, ventures to have. But while this was the case, Mayor Lang had risen since they were boys together, to the highest place the people of Paducah could bestow—while he had risen to the highest position within the gift of the colored people. Turning to the mayor he laughingly said, "While I could never be mayor of Paducah, Mr. Mayor, you can never be grand secretary of the Colored Odd Fellows of America."

Mayor Lang complimented the speech very highly, and said it was replete with wit and wisdom, and a credit to Paducah.

The program arranged for the entertainment of the visitors is varied and interesting. The principal events will be a banquet at Seventh and Adams, given by the Household of Ruth.

A sea monster has been captured at Paducah, L. I. The telegram which brings the information says that its weight is nearly half a ton. It is ten feet long, eight feet wide, and three feet thick. It has a head and neck as large as a common barrel, and feet and legs that look like the claws of a dragon. At the range creature, which is still alive and very ugly in disposition, snapping at everything that approaches, and hissing like a steam engine, was caught in a fisherman's net four miles from shore.

Those who control ocean navigation for freight and passengers have about concluded that speed is not profitable. Hereafter more attention will be paid to comfort and carrying power.

The new steamer to be built to replace the City of Paris will be 2,000 tons larger, but a day or two slower, and much more profitable to the owners.

KICKED BY A MULE

Walter Whitehurst Had His Skull Crushed.

Young Man Displayed Remarkable Nerve and Was Never Unconscious.

Master Walter Whitehurst, the little son of Mr. L. B. Whitehurst, of Eleventh and Jackson streets, carpenter on the Joe Fowler, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock by being kicked by a mule.

The boy is eight or ten years old, and went out home yesterday with Mr. W. L. Yancey, who lives about four miles from the city. While there he got too close to a large mule that had just been shot and the animal without warning kicked him in the forehead.

Instead of being rendered unconscious, the boy walked to the house, with a large hole in his head, and there received the best attention that could be given him at the time.

The skull was found to be crushed over the left eye, and he was brought at once to his home in the city, arriving about 4 o'clock, and Dr. Redick was called.

The latter decided that an operation was necessary, and the patient was taken to the Methodist Hospital. The crushed bone was removed from the wound, ten pieces being taken out, leaving the brain exposed. In spite of this horrible injury, the young man bore his suffering with the greatest fortitude, and was not once unconscious.

This morning he was reported resting as easy as could be expected, and the doctors are hopeful of his recovery.

OFFERS TO A QUEEN.

People Who Wanted to Care Her and Pray for Her.

The queen of Belgium did not lack sympathy in her recent illness, for in addition to the most patriotic expressions from her subjects, telegrams and letters came piling into the Belgian court from all quarters, says the Boston Transcript. Perhaps the most original communications were from England. An Englishman addressed a letter to Princess Clementine offering to forward some remarkable device which had cured him of bronchopneumonia, including a photograph which showed him what a healthy specimen of humanity he had since developed. Another, believing her majesty's illness due to cancer, sent a triple-weight letter describing several cures for this disease. A third said his valise was packed and he was only waiting a telegraphic call when he could go to his own apartment, and guaranteed a cure within twenty-four hours. There were also several letters from clergymen offering to go to London to pray for the queen's recovery, averring that on a similar occasion they had saved the prince of Wales life by intercession.

A Boston woman had a servant named Norah, a rosy-cheeked girl, who received frequent calls from a young man, of whom she often spoke as "the brother." The conversation of her mistress may be given, when one day Norah announced that she was soon to marry the sailor "Tim."

"What do you mean, Norah?" demanded the lady, feeling that a poor trick had been played upon her. "You're always speaking of Tim as your brother to me," said the blushing Norah. "I always thought of him so, ma'am, while he was making up his mind; but he's been so bold as to remind me, ma'am, that he's only my brother-in-law's brother, after all!"
