The house was most attractively decorated, each room being a symphony of an especial color. The hall was in red, the parlor white and green, the back parlor in yellow and the dining room in pink. From 3 to 5 the large rooms were crowded with guests. Miss Whitefield looked very charming in a dainty gown of pink organdie over silk. Mrs. Whitefield and Miss Whitefield were assisted in receiving by a number of friends, among them several attractive visitors in the city, and the occasion was an especially notable and delightful one.

Those who received were: Mrs. W. G. Whitefield, Misses Kathleen Whitefield, Martha Davis, Carlina Sowell, Alina Bagby, Virginia Lockett of Henderson, Florence Elliott of Mayfield, Mesdames R. H. Different plans of civic work were outlined.

UNIQUE REGISTRATION.

Mr. Walter S. Rand, a drummer of St. Louis, has inaugurated a good advertisement for the St. Louis world's fair 1903. He has black stickers the length of one line of a hotel register and on the right end printed in white letters is "World's Fair, St. Louis, 1903" and on the other end is a blank place enclosed in a black border and in the space is written the name of the register. The scheme is one of the best advertising schemes and will probably be widely adopted.

Most Used Numbers.

A member of the French Academy of sciences has recently made known the result of a curious investigation of his. His object was to find out the numbers most used by the people of different countries, and to this end he made a study of the various denominations of money, postage stamps, weights and measures. He finds that nearly all countries show a preference for two, three and five, and their multiples. The Mohammedans, however, do not use the number three; he did not find a trace of it in either Turkey or Persia, and found very little trace of it in Egypt. The French and other Latin races prefer three to five, and the English two to three. In China the preference is about what it is in France, and India shows a marked partiality for two. The number 7 is most used in Russia and other Slavic countries.
