KENTUCKY NEWS TOLD IN PARAGRAPHS

Burned to a Crisp.
Cadiz, Ky., Jan. 27.—Mrs. Tom Williams, of Linton, Trig county, was so badly burned that it is almost impossible for her to recover. She was sweeping up the hearth when her clothing caught fire and her entire body was burned almost to a crisp.

Enjoined From Going to Church.
Owensboro, Ky., Jan. 27.—The members of the Colored Baptist church in this city sued for an injunction against the Rev. S. E. Smith, pastor of a Lexington negro church and former pastor of the church in this city, enjoining him from attending prayer meeting, alleging that he would interfere with the congregation and create a schism. The notice was served on the Rev. Smith and he did not attend the services. The members claim that he wants to dictate who his successor shall be.

Federal Building for Owensboro.
Louisville, Ky., Jan. 27.—Judge Walter Evans, of the United States court, has gone to Washington, D. C., with a delegation of the Owensboro Business Men's Association, for the purpose of appearing before the committee on public buildings of congress in the interest of a new federal building at Owensboro, in which is housed the postoffice, internal revenue collector's office and the United States clerk's office and court room.

For the past two years Judge Evans has been holding his courts twice a year in the county courthouse at Owensboro. The federal court room will not much more than hold the judge, jury, attorneys and other officials. The postoffice has entirely outgrown its quarters, and the internal revenue collector has made the statement that he has no place of safety at all for the records of his office.

Death in Graves.
Mayfield, Ky., Jan. 27.—Mrs. Jas. F. Morris died at Pilot Oak of consumption 35 years of age, and leaves a husband and five children. She was a daughter of Mr. Calvin Jones, of Calloway county.

His Wife Murdered.
Louisville, Ky., Jan. 27.—A dispatch from San Francisco states that Charles Tidcombe, a college athlete and a member of the Multnomah club of Portland, Ore., shot and killed Mrs. Georgia Mabry Nelson, wife of Frank D. Nelson, traveling salesman for the H. N. Martin Tobacco Co., of this city, and then committed suicide yesterday.

Destroyed a Still.
Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 27.—Deputy United States Marshal Will Jones broke up a large illicit still near Fruit Hall, in North Christian. No arrests were made, but the entire outfit was destroyed. The still was about sixty gallon capacity, but no whiskey was found.

Telepathic Case.
Louisville, Ky., Jan. 27.—Mrs. Sophia Anderson died at her home, 2335 West Chestnut street, and a few hours later her brother, Albert Weidling, died at 1218 20th street. Both had been ill several months. The cases afforded remarkable telepathic features. The brother and sister had been devoted to one another during their long illness. Any change in the condition of one was followed by a corresponding change in the condition of the other. They will be buried in the same grave.

Supports a Democrat.
Maysville, Ky., Jan. 27.—The Maysville Ledger, Republican, has created a surprise by declaring for Judge Thos. Paynter, a Democrat, for United States senator.

Wouldn't Be Saved.
Louisville, Ky., Jan. 27.—John

Blackburn, river pilot between here and the Kentucky river and a native of Franklin, Ky., died at a hospital. His feet were frozen and gangrene set in. He refused to permit his legs to be amputated, which alone would have saved his life.

Madisonville Has a Fire.
Madisonville, Ky., Jan. 27.—Fire in the business section of this city destroyed a dwelling, six stores, two blacksmith shops and a livery stable.

The loss is between $15,000 and $20,000, with $6,500 insurance. The following was burned: Dwelling, belonging to W. A. Nesbit and occupied by a tenant; Munford & Smith's livery stable; Charles Friend's drygoods and notion store; Creekmur Bros.' meat shop; Nesbit's wallpaper house; Haynes & Miller, second hand furniture; J. G. Foley's buggies and carriages; Allen's & Morgan's blacksmith shop; Lee's blacksmith shop. The fire broke out in Creekmur Bros.' meat shop, and is supposed to have been of incendiary origin. Gardner & Holman's drugstore was robbed last night by burglars and it is generally believed that the thieves set the meat shop on fire.

WANTS TO STAY.
Illinois Boy So Pleased With Paducah He Desires to Remain Here.

Ward W. Waters, of Champion, Ill., who ran away from school and has been seeing the country for the past year or two, would like to remain in Paducah after all, if he can get a position here, and does not want to go back home. Last night he received money by telegraph from his father and this morning a letter notifying him that the parent had sent a money order. Young Waters has written his father asking permission to remain here. He expects to get work and is a bright and energetic young man with a good education.

Most people move along the lines of least resistance. They rent the houses that are advertised for rent, they employ the people who advertise for employment; they find investments, purchase curios, buy lots that are advertised. It is "the way of the world."

NEWS OF THE RIVERS.

Observations taken at 7 a. m./River 10.2 on the gauge, a fall of 1.8 in the last 24 hours. Weather clear and cold. Temperature 28 with south winds. Indications for moderation. SAUNDERS A. FOWLER, Local Observer.

The ice is running just about as heavy as yesterday but if the moderation sets in will of course diminish perceptibly. The river men hope for an immediate moderation but do not think navigation in the Ohio will be possible for sometime to come.

The Hook went into Tennessee river this morning after ties.

The Wilford has floated out of Cumberland river with the ice with a tow of ties, he had been at Kuttawo waiting for the ice to thin out but it didn't thin.

The Harvester is still due from the Ohio with a tow of empties. The report that she had arrived is erroneous.

The Russell Lord arrived yesterday and went into Tennessee river again this morning after ties.

The Argon, of the Price showboat fleet, is on the ways repairing.

The Duffey will arrive from the Tennessee river today with ties.

The Pavonia is due from Cumberland river with ties and will float out with the ice.

The Margaret is in Tennessee river, due out about Saturday or Sunday.

The Fulton went up to Birdsville and rescued two of the I. N. Hook barges from the ice, bringing them in here last night.

The Wash Honshell left today for Tennessee river after ties.

The Kentucky is due from Tennessee river and returns Saturday evening.

The Cowling was partially pulled out on the docks this morning and her bow encased with sheet iron so that she may battle with the ice. She did not go out yesterday on account of the ice but will resume her trips tomorrow.

The Buttorf will probably not be able to get to the city from Cumberland river Sunday, unless the ice thins out. If she does not she will return from Smithland, as she has been doing for the past week.

Capt. Jack McCaffrey reports a stormy time with his boats, the Kit Carson, and the John Summers, in returning to Paducah from Joppa, where they had unloaded ties. The ice was so heavy and the wind so violent that the boats had to be lashed together with their tows of seven barges. They battled with wind, waves and ice for twelve hours, two hours being the time usually required, but finally reached the city without serious accident.

Bloody Massacres in World's History
The bloodiest massacre of modern times was that of St. Bartholomew, in France. Seventy thousand Huguenots were killed August 24, 1572.

Sixty-five thousand Croats were slain by the Turks in 1592.

At the taking of Ismail by the Russians in 1790, 30,000 men, women and children were killed.

Massacres of the last century follow:

Whites in Santo Domingo, March 29, 1804.

French in Madrid, May 2, 1809.

Massacre at Scio Greek archipelago, April 2, 1822.

Janisaries at Constantinople, June 14, 1826.

Christians at Aleppo, October 16, 1850.

Christians at Damascus, June 9-11, 1860.

French missionaries at Tien Tsin, June 21, 1870.

When Jerusalem was destroyed in the year 70, it is said that 1,100,000 Jews were slain.

In the City of Alexandria, in 215, thousands of citizens were massacred by order of the Emperor Caracalla because he had been insulted while on a visit there.

In Thessalonica, 7,000 persons were invited into the circus and put to the sword by the order of Theodosius in 390.

The rubber exported from the Amazon river in the season of 1903 and 1904 amounted to 67,314,116 pounds.

BATTLING PARSON.

He Is Well Able to Take Care of Himself and Refuses to Resign.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 27.—A little ripple was caused in religious circles here through an announcement made by Rev. Samuel P. Montgomery, pastor of the Gill Hall U. P. church, that he would not sever his connection with his charge, though advised so to do by a Presbyterian commission appointed to look into the trouble in his flock. Rev. Montgomery has opened an office in Pittsburg, where he acts as agent for a gold mine on week days, and says he will continue to preach on Sundays.

Montgomery is known as "The Fighting Parson." He came from Olean and Stronghurst, Ill., some years ago, and during the past year he has had much trouble in his congregation because of his insistence on selling stock in a gold mine to members of his flock. On Sunday, June 5, after service, Elder Edmond P. Heath of his flock went in front of the pulpit to expostulate with the minister and the lie was passed. A bitter rough and tumble fight between the minister and elder resulted, ending only when Elder Heath was knocked completely out by a swing on the jaw. Elder Heath did not come to for ten minutes.

Some days later Rev. Montgomery went up against Harry Snee, a 200-pound friend of Elder Heath, and gave battle on the country road. The minister got a beating, but has since said he did not have a fair show in that mill. The presbytery commission appointed to look into the case suggested that Mr. Montgomery sever his connection with that church, but he has now refused.
