$1.50 for 100 lbs cotton seed meal
$2.40 for 400 lbs cotton seed hulls
5$3.90 for 500 lbs very rich feed
.78 cents for 100 lbs mixed feed.

This is the right proportion for mixing. If you want to save money, compare this with prices you are paying for other feed and then try Cotton Seed Meal and Hulls. It is the best feed you can buy, and is cheaper than anything else.

Wm. R. Shields Dead.

Wm. R. Shields died in the vicinity of Mt. Hermon Church on Dec. 26th, 1907. His death was due to the infirmities of old age, he having a few months since passed his 83rd birthday.

Mr. Shields was a Kentuckian by birth and had been a citizen of this county for about 30th years. He was a confederate soldier and took part in several skirmishes being finally captured in a conflict in Mississippi and confined in an Illinois prison until the close of the war.

He was a law-abiding citizen and a devout member of the Christian Church.

His remains were interred in Popular Grove Cemetery.

An aged wife is left to mourn his loss.

Light on Troy Avenue.

Troy Avenue now has electric lights.

We are reliable informed that Mrs. D. B. Wilson and Mrs. R. T. Tyler deserve the credit for bringing about this needed improvement. Honestly, if it wasn't for the ladies, the men wouldn't be worth killing.

It will be remembered that Troy Avenue is not in the city limits, and this is why the city service has not been extended in that direction.

The lights will be maintained by the residents of this avenue. Why not bring Troy avenue into the city limits?

THE HONEYMOON.

Few will admit that they need any advice in the honeymoon; fewer still will take it. Most young people think, "Well, it is hard if we may not be left to ourselves at such a season!" And yet, perhaps, if we took the experience of the many on this subject, they would admit that the honeymoon has been the time of all others when they have been the least able to help themselves.

Is it too much to say that during those two months the happiness or the misery of two young lives is very nearly settled. Well, perhaps that is too much to say, for errors and misconception may be lived down, and habits may be formed or broken after the honeymoon, in the course of years. But still much is often decided, we will not say in the first few months, but even in the first few days. Little things are decided in little ways, and neither understand that "it is the little rift within the lover's lute" that has begun to show even on the first day.

Patience on both sides is needed—but especially on the man's side, for he is the stronger vessel, and knows life. At the bottom of her heart his young wife wants to please him; but she cannot bear him out of her sight—he must account for every moment. His ways are incomprehensible. Why does he want to go out for an hour after dinner for a stroll? Why does he prefer spending an hour or two down stairs with an old friend at night to going up into the drawing-room. Why does he want to see the papers at the club, instead of going out, after a hard day in the city, for a little shopping? Man is a mystery to many a young girl for a first few months after marriage. She has not learned that a man's interests are and must be various.

We hear a good deal about incompatibility of temper—we believe very little in it. The sexes are almost indefinitely plastic. People quarrel more from errors of judgment than from any other cause. You can live with anybody if you understand him, and you can manage anybody if you know him, providing you mean well, have a decent heart, and are willing to be patient and to make some sacrifices for love.

Newly-married women are, no doubt, very trying sometimes to their husbands; but it is the fault more of their social training and the want of education than anything else. Men should remember how much, a girl has to learn, and how much, alas, most men have to unlearn, when they first begin the married life. We venture to say that if all newly-married couples were to make a contract not to quarrel for six months they would seldom have any serious quarrels in after life.

You can get into the habit of living peacefully and happily, and that habit is quite as difficult to break as any habit we know of. Let there be no long pouting; let there be no long, careless, indifferent fits. If little storms arise—and they will arise—let them be brief. Don't let us sleep over it, and wake up the next morning and cudgel our brains to remember who nagged last. This kind of thing is mean, it is ungenerous and it is silly.

WHAT HAS HE MADE?

We note that the metropolitan papers report that one of our wealthy men so well managed his fortune of twenty million as to double it in three years. Suppose he has, what then? What has he made by thus increasing his wealth, except increased worry to keep the run of his increased wealth? With his increased wealth he eats no more quail and turkey than he did when worth ten millions. He dresses no better and has a thousand times less fun. We beat him on the sleep and have no law suits with tenants and trespassers. Robbers lay for him every time he goes out of doors after dark. They don't think of us. The man with sixty millions of troubles. To keep the run of his rents, bonds and real estates keeps him at hard work fourteen hours a day and yet he only gets three square meals a day, which is just what we obtain without any millions, any tenants and only have to work eight hours a day to credit up all who pay their subscription.

If men's happiness increased with their money, everybody should be justified in worshipping the Golden Calf. The happiness increases with their earnings up to certain point—the point necessary to secure them the comforts of life, say $2,000 a year. All beyond this is superfluous. Being superfluous it is productive of no good whatever. The richer the man the greater is the probability that his sons will live on

A GOOD DAUGHTER.

There are other ministers of love more conspicuous than she, but none in which a gentler, lovelier spirit dwells, and none to which the heart's warm requitals more joyfully respond. She is the steady light of her father's house. Her ideal is indissolubly connected with that of his fireside. She is his morning sunlight and his evening star. The grace, vivacity and tenderness of her sex have their place in the mighty sway which she holds over his spirit. She is the pride and ornament of his hospitality, and the gentle nurse of his sickness. Fortunate is the home in which is a good daughter.

Rev. L. W. Swanner Dead.

Rev. L. W. Swanner, one of God's chosen ministers and a member of the Eastern Council of the Holiness Church of Christ, died at his home in Caruthersville, Mo., Sunday evening Jan. 5th, after an illness of only five days.

He was taken sick with a conjunctive chill New Year's Eve, while on his way to conduct a prayer service. After shaking for two hours brain fever set in, and for thirty-five hours before death was unconscious.

The deceased was a young man about thirty-two years of age. He was born and reared in Caruthersville, and for nine years was employed in the office of the Pemisot Press at that place.

For about sixteen months he was pastor of the Holiness Church at this place, and had been living in Caruthersville only two weeks before his death, having moved there from Hickman a week before Christmas.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Joseph N. Speakes, of Malden, Mo. and burial took place at Little Prairie Cemetery Jan. 6th.

A wife and three small children are left to mourn the loss of a husband and father.

Police Court Busy.

As a result of a raid made by Night Police Hammons, in East Hickman, Saturday night, business was good in Judge Roney's court Monday morning.

Nathan Clark and son, Luke, were fined $60 each for bootlegging. Both negroes are now in jail.

Ed Fowler and Mollie Criss, both negroes, were fined $5 and costs each for breach of peace and other charges. In default of payment, both are in jail.

Will Jordan, colored, was found guilty of bootlegging and fined $60 and costs. He is also in jail.

Leggate Sells Stable.

Price (J. P.) Leggate sold his livery stable last Friday to Steve Stahr, who will conduct the business at the old stand.

Mr. Leggate is one of the most popular livery men Hickman has ever had, and we regret to see him retire from the business.

Levi Johnson and family moved to Oakton, Ky., this week, where they will make their future home.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY

For Hickman is Now Assured.
$10,000 Allowed and Now
Subject to Our Order.

After two years of persistent work by Prof. B. F. Gabby, principal of Hickman College, and the co-operation of the members of our School Board, their efforts were amply rewarded, Friday, when they received positive and official notice that $10,000 had been donated to Hickman College by Andrew Carnegie with which to build a public library building. This amount has been set aside and is now subject to the order of the School Board.

Following is a copy of the letter received by Dr. Davidson, secretary of the School Board:

Hoboken, N. J., Jan. 8, 1908.
Dr. S. K. Davidson, Secy.,
Hickman, Ky.

Dear Sir:

Referring to the matter of Mr. Carnegie's grant of $10,000 for Library Building at Hickman:

The funds on this account are now available and will be ren-itted from this office in installments of $2000 or $3000 each, as needed from time to time during the construction of the building.

When funds are required, please notify me by letter, signed by the President and Secretary, or Treasurer, of Board of Education, and enclose architect's certificate showing the amount due for labor and material supplied on account of the building.

Yours very truly
R. A. FRANKS,
Pres. Home Trust Co.

It is rather unusual for a city the size of Hickman to procure a Carnegie Library—in fact, Hickman is the only town of its size in Western Kentucky or Tennessee that has been thus favored.

The knocker might say that "we have a white elephant on our hands. Such is not the case.

Now, the library has not, nor is it likely to cost us one cent. We have had to furnish a location. This the school already owned, and could not be put to a better purpose. The building will be erected on the lots just north of the college building—and a prettier site could not be found in the State.

Yes, we must furnish the books; and with the present library to serve as a nucleus and an annual donation from the proceeds of school entertainments, etc., this will add no extra cost, but will soon give us a splendid collection of literature.

Salaries for Librarian, janitor, etc., have been provided for in a manner which will not cost the taxpayer or library patron a cent.

It begins to look like a snap—and it is.

Every public spirited citizen of Hickman will hail this news with delight. We are indeed fortunate.

We cannot be too profuse in our thanks and congratulations to the
