TIED THE RECORD

Testimony in a Suit For Legal Separation

SUBMITTED IN ONE MINUTE

Judge Clancy Sets a Lot of Suits For Trial--New Actions Begun.

Judge Clancy granted Carrie Brown a decree of divorce from Charles Brown this morning and in so doing equalled the record from the standpoint of time, only one minute being required to consummate the entire deal. Deserter was the ground upon which the plaintiff based her right to a legal separation, she stating that a year or two ago Charles had ignored her existence. George Carpenter corroborated her statement. Roy S. Alley appeared for the plaintiff.

One of the important matters heard by the judge was the motion made by Phil J. Harrington for the return of his account books to him. Some time ago Harrington was closed out of the saloon business on an attachment brought by his brother on an alleged indebtedness and his books and accounts went with the balance of the things. In court this morning his attorney informed the judge that the party in whose interest the attachment was made was not making any effort to collect the outstanding accounts. On this allegation he asked that an order be made directing the return of the books to their owner.

There were two oppositions, one of which was made by Attorney Mattison, who stated that a judgment against Harrington had been secured in a justice court and if the present holder of the accounts could not collect the outstanding indebtedness the holder of the justice court judgment would assume the responsibility. The announcement was something of a surprise to the attorney for Harrington. He maintained that the justice court judgment had nothing to do with the matter at issue, but the court settled the controversy by overruling the motion. So the books and accounts will remain where they are.

The sale of the personal property belonging to the estate of the late N. B. Davidson was confirmed by Judge Smith today.

A writ of review, commonly called a writ of certiorari, has been issued by Judge Smith in the suit of A. Johnson against the Montana Liquor company. Johnson sued the company in Justice Kirkwood's court for judgment for $111. The defendant asked for a change of venue and followed it with a motion to dismiss the action for want of jurisdiction. The motion was overruled. In February the justice entered judgment by default, allowing Johnson the $111, an attorney's fee of $50 and costs of the suit.

The writ of review commands the justice to send to the district court on or before the 11th inst., a transcript of the record and proceedings in the case.

Mary A. Crangle has instituted suit against J. L. Leslie and George C. Crangle. In her complaint she alleges that on the 7th of October, 1898, the defendants executed a promissory note for $650 and turned it over to her; that in order to secure the note they also executed a mortgage on the Stella millsite; the Wando lode claim, a three-fourths interest in the Queen and 50 inches of the water in Leslie gulch; that the note has not been paid, although it has matured.

Plaintiff asks for judgment for $650, with interest at 1 per cent a month, and an attorney's fee of $100.

For a second cause of action the plaintiff alleges that in 1898 Joseph Broderick worked 168 days in the Leslie & Crangle mill at the rate of $2 per day, and has not been paid for it; that Broderick assigned the account to her. He held a lien on the property and she asks that it be foreclosed to satisfy the amount. Attorney's fee in this action, $75.

For a third cause of action she alleges that Edward J. Crangle worked 96 days for the defendants and they owe him $192; that he, also, secured a lien and assigned the account to her. She asks that it be foreclosed along with the others. Attorney's fee, $50, making a total fee of $225 for the attorneys.

In the suit of the Boston & Montana company against the Montana Ore Purchasing company, the Chile Gold Mining company and the Johnston company, Judge Smith has issued an order temporarily restraining the defendants from mining a portion of the Pennsylvania claim. He has also ordered the defendants to appear in court at 10 o'clock on the 15th and show cause why the temporary order should not be made permanent during the pendency of the suit.

In the suit of Burdett O'Connor against the Boston & Montana the defendant has filed an answer. In the document the company denies the cooperation or that 50 shares in his name at the time the suit was brought; denies that the New York company has control of the properties, but alleges that a reconveyance was made on the 13th of February. All the allegations of conspiracy made by O'Connor are denied.

The answer further says that the plaintiff should not be permitted to maintain his suit, for the reason that on June 4, 1898, John MacGinnis and James Forrester brought an action against the company with the same object in view and their suit was pending at the time the O'Connor suit was filed; that at the time Forrester and MacGinnis sued the company, Forrester had a certificate for 100 shares of stock in his name, but in order to harass and annoy the defendant with a multiplicity of suits and thus wantonly subject it to costs, he assigned 50 shares to O'Connor; that in no other way did O'Connor become a stockholder.

Judge Clancy called his calendar today and set cases for trial as follows:

March 6--E. Bowler vs. J. C. Moebus et al., H. J. Blume vs. W. E. McAllister; Patrick Sheehan vs. W. H. Nicholls.

March 8--E. S. Huston et al. vs. Ed. Lynch et al.; E. Y. Stanley vs. Geo. H. Savage; H. C. Todd et al. vs. Benjamin James et al.; Alice Roach, admix., vs. Samuel H. Treloar et al.

INVOLUNTARY BANKRUPTCY.

A petition was filed in the United States court this morning by the Butte general Electric Co., John Caplice Co., and Henry Muntzer asking the court to declare John Sexton and Terence Cassidy bankrupts. The latter conducts the Silver Lake hotel and last November filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy.

The petitioners claim that Sexton and Cassidy are indebted to them as follows:

Butte General Electric Co.$194.35
 Henry Muntzer 406.40
 John Caplice 11.75

It is alleged by the petitioners that on November 16, 1898, after having "committed" an act of bankruptcy, Sexton & Cassidy, knowing the co-partnership to be insolvent gave a chattel mortgage on all of the assets of co-partnership consisting of furniture, cooking utensils and property of the Silver Lake hotel, said mortgage being given for the purpose of preferring the mortgage.

NEWS OF THE RAILROADS

President Hill's Visit to Butte Postponed.

WAS EXPOSED TO SMALLPOX

Canadian Pacific Railway May Build Into Republic Country--Work on the Snake River.

President J. J. Hill's visit to Butte has been postponed a few days. While on the trip west the porter of his car became ill and at his own request was sent back to St. Paul. On arriving there it was found that the porter's ailment had developed into a case of small-pox. The intelligence was conveyed back to the railroad president, and he and his party lost no time in getting vaccinated, although they had been exposed to the disease before vaccination. This circumstance may delay Mr. Hill's trip to Butte.

A Greenwood, B. C., special to the Spokesman-Review says:

The Canadian Pacific Railway company has made arrangements with the Great Northern whereby the Canadian Pacific may build a branch line from Midway to Republic.

The Spokesman-Review publishes an interview with a prominent business man who says "There is evidence that the Great Northern and the Canadian Pacific people have come to a full understanding regarding the traffic of the Kootenay country. They are both in southern British Columbia, and it is quite in the range of possibility that Mr. Hill may have conceded the Republic traffic to the Canadian Pacific in return for concessions made to him by the Canadian Pacific. This is mere conjecture, but it will bear watching. It would be a bad thing for Spokane if that sort of a deal was entered into."

"I notice that D. C. Corbin is not much alarmed at the possibility of Spokane losing its trade in the northern country," said another business man. "He is putting his money into inside business property here, and is planning to erect a large business block. Mr. Corbin understands the northern situation better than it is understood by any other living man."

While in Seattle, President Hill was interviewed by the Post-Intelligencer, and disavowed any intention to build into Republic. He said:

"What is the use in our building there and putting our money into direct competition with the Dominion of Canada?" said Mr. Hill yesterday afternoon. "The Canadian Pacific has been extending in that mining country with government money for the last several months, and will itself lose nothing in case there is supporting revenue. The Great Northern is in a fine financial condition and paying good dividends, and it would not be wise to forego the profits for the sake of experiments that on the start are almost certain to be expensive."

E. Imhaus, a Baker City mining man, who recently visited Huntington, is quoted as follows by the Baker City Democrat:

"Messrs. Ormon & Cook, the widely known and experienced railway contractors of Pueblo, Colo., who have the contract for grading the 75 miles of the Snake river line, connecting the Seven Devils copper section with the Oregon Short Line, have just arrived at Huntington, and it is understood will at once set about securing 1,500 men, mostly from Oregon and Idaho, to push the contract as rapidly as is consistent with the construction of a first-class railroad."

The Colorado gentlemen, having already shipped from Denver the useful tools for grading, are daily expecting the arrival at Huntington of four carloads of grading outfit.

The grade begins at the new townsite of Nagle, on the Oregon Short Line, about two and a half miles from Huntington, and nearly 1,000 feet above the railway bridge spanning Snake river.

Over one mile of the grade Seven Devils is completed ready for the steel rails over which are to go the iron horse and his train of big wagons.

Chief Engineer Kennedy has spent the last two days in consultation with Engineer Bethel, who is now in charge of the engineering plans of the O. R. & N.'s line from Riparia to Lewiston, says the Lewiston Tribune. These consultations have been for the purpose of completing the final details of the construction which is now partially in progress. Mr. Kennedy is greatly overworked, as President Mohler is anxious to have the line to Lewiston completed, and to thereupon begin the Camas Prairie extension. It is a fact that the latter extension is to be made along the present surveys as soon as the intervening work is completed, and while the company will not be able to take out this year's crop, except such as steamboats can bring down the Clearwater to Lewiston, it definitely promises to handle next year's.

Six rock camps are working between Lewiston and Riparia. The Norma on Sunday unloaded a car of powder and tools along the river and also a car of lumber for blacksmith shops. As rapidly as possible the company is getting the rock work, of which there is a great deal, out of the way and accumulating supplies at convenient points, so that as soon as the weather seems to be settled the grading and track-laying can be pushed continuously.

The interstate commerce commission is about to inaugurate a policy with the roads of the United States more strict than it has heretofore applied. Some weeks ago the commission summoned the presidents of all eastern lines to a conference at Washington on the subject of rate tariffs. Since that time the roads of the middle west have also been warned against rate-cutting, and now the announcement is made that the president of each and every road in the United States is to be interviewed, and notified that the laws represented by the commission must be maintained and will be most rigidly enforced. The interstate commerce commission is doing all in its power toward a better maintenance of rates, and has thus far been very successful. Especially is this so for 1898. The eastern papers are loud in their praise of the good work, and comment favorably upon the rate situation. Under the new plan the commission will require all railroad companies to report any cases of rate-cutting that come under their notice, and the offending line is to be severely dealt with.

Col. D. C. Dodge, vice president and general manager of the Rio Grande Western, came in on a special train yesterday noon, says the Salt Lake Herald. This is the first official visit for two months and his stay will therefore extend over several days. There are many things of importance to arrange in addition to the regular inspection of shops, track and equipment. The general manager is here to give orders for the commencement of work on the Provo canyon line. Bids for the grading of the first section of the line were opened by Chief Engineer Yard yesterday and later he and the general manager went over the figures together. Who will receive the award for the work is not yet made public by the officials but the announcement may be made today.
