THOUGHT SHE WAS A FOREIGN DIVER

But Submarine Off New London Harbor Turned Out to Be U. S. Vessel.

Newport, R. I., Jan. 25.—An unidentified submarine, heavily laden, is lying off shore between Point Judith and Beaver Tail, where she arrived at little after 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Captain Wales of the Beaver Tail coast guard station reported that the submarine submerged at 3 o'clock.

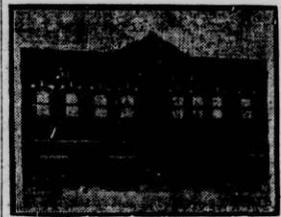

Coast guard station No. 54 subsequently reported that it believed it had made out the American flag, on the submarine and this influenced mariners to believe that the vessel was the new American submarine D-1, which was reported from New London, the submarine base, to be maneuvering in Narragansett Bay. The vessel, being of a new type, was strange to the observers.

The vessel was finally identified as the American submarine G-1.

SURE IT DO.

SHARP ADVANCE IN PRICE OF CABBAGE

Climbs Into Class of Luxuries. Bad Weather Interferes With the Crops.

Cabbages, among the greatest staple vegetables in the United States, have climbed into the class of luxuries, along with onions, matches, coffee, tea, pepper, sauerkraut, navy beans and canned goods. Rice, although higher is the only big staple which has not increased greatly in price this year, according to one of the big wholesale and retail grocers of Butte.

Bad weather interfered with the crops of cabbages, onions and beans, while the high water-freight rates, marine insurance and rates of exchange to foreign countries have been important factors in boosting the prices of tea, coffee, matches and pepper.

"Empty cans will cost from 20 to 25 cents more a dozen to the packer, including the cost of labeling. This will be one of the big factors in the increased price of canned goods and especially tomatoes for the 1917 pack, for which prices are being quoted already for delivery next fall," the dealer said.

"Water freight rates and marine insurance have brought the cost of coffee up from 50 to 75 cents a bag to $2 more, because of the higher cost of transportation alone. The freight rates from Singapore have boosted the price of pepper from 2 to 6 cents a pound.

The Tea Market.

The tea market has also shown a marked advance. The tea from China and the Orient is sold from countries with a silver standard, and with the higher price of silver the rates of exchange have made a big difference in the cost to the American buyer.

"Failure of experiments of American companies to make matches from potash manufactured in Utah and California has caused the manufacturers to resort to the German potash, which has increased to a cost of $3,000 a ton. It is smuggled out of Germany through Sweden to a large extent and is difficult to get. Matches have already advanced in the middle western states.

"Potatoes have advanced to $9 a ton in Washington and other Pacific coast markets. There are no cheap potatoes to be had. Onions are selling at the unheard of price of 45 a hundred pounds and cabbages are selling at the same price as potatoes, $60 a ton. Sauerkraut from Michigan, where it is produced in great quantities, has gone to $25 and $30 a barrel.

"Rains in California have cut short the green grocery market and an early freeze in Texas and California has hit the cabbage crop.

Beans From Orient.

"For the first time in years navy beans are imported from the Orient to meet the demand. Limited amounts of California navy beans are offered at $10.50, in 100-pound lots. In some instances they have gone to $11. The imported beans are selling around $9.50 and $9.75, 100 pounds f. o. b. California. Canned beans are sold only in small cans in order that the packers may keep their name before the public before their stock is gone and the new crop becomes available.

"Rice is the only cheap staple on the market. Although it has increased $1 a hundred pounds in a year the new crop is large and of fine quality."

Local dealers were notified this week by wholesalers of another slight advance in beef and of a contemplated bigger increase in pork and smoked meats. Pork loins will wholesale in Butte at 20 cents a pound in two weeks, according to news from wholesalers. They are selling around 18 1/2 and 19 cents a pound now. Mutton is also higher.
