MONTANA TROOPS HERE TOMORROW

All But 32 of the 90 Members of Troop A Enlist in the Regular Army.

Of the 90 Montanans who went to the Mexican border last August with Troop A, the cavalry company attached to the first Montana Infantry, but 32 enlisted men and four officers are returning to this state. All of the others have enlisted in the regular army since the order of withdrawal was issued a couple of weeks ago. The members of Troop A will probably pass through Butte tomorrow afternoon enroute to Fort William Henry Harrison, near Helena, where they will be mustered out of government service. The troop is commanded by Capt. Everett T. Birely of Billings, with Leighroy Miller as first lieutenant and William Thomson as second lieutenant. A regular army doctor is also attached to the troop. It left Douglas Sunday evening and is returning home by way of El Paso, Dalhart, Pueblo and Salt Lake, transferring to the Oregon Short Line at the latter city. It is possible that members of the troop will remain over night in Butte to make connections with the Great Northern here.

Arrangements have been completed in Helena for reception and mustering out of the men. They will be quartered in barracks at Fort Harrison until they are mustered out. Members of the troop will resume the status of members of the Montana national guard when they leave the government service. They are bringing only their personal equipment with them, the horses being left behind.

CITY SCALES BOUGHT SIX YEARS AGO NEVER OPENED

Equipment for Public Weighing, Shunted Around Corral for Four Years and Broken Up, is Finally Rescued by Street Commissioner.

Two sets of wagon scales, purchased by the city during the Nevin administration at a cost of approximately $1,000 with a view of establishing public scales and never taken from the original packing boxes, were shunted around the city corral on broken street for the two succeeding administrations until the boxes became so broken and the parts so scattered that it is doubtful if they can be repaired.

The question of establishment of public scales, which has been revived by the Trades and Labor council, will come before the city council tonight. It was considered in committee last night, but no action was taken.

A member of the committee appointed by the labor bodies declared today that a demand may be made upon the city council for some action.

The scales were purchased during the Nevin administration more than six years ago in response to a demand for public scales, which any citizen might have coal and similar supplies weighed before delivery to him. When they arrived they were taken in the original packing boxes to the city corral. The movement for installation of the scales, appointment of a weighmaster and the like was lost in the shuffle. When the socialists came into power six years ago the scales still reposed at the city corral. They were shunted about from place to place in the next four years. Wagons backed into them, breaking the boxes, and the parts became rusted and scattered. When the present administration was inaugurated, Street Commissioner M. D. Cahill began assembling parts of the scales from various corners of the corral and boxed them up as best he could. Today when inquiries were made as to the scales he pointed out to the boxes containing what is left of them, expressing a doubt as to whether they could be repaired.

NO SENSATIONS IN CONTEMPT CASE

Testimony Shows Merely Conversation Between Attorney and Juror.

Special to the Post.
Helena, Feb. 7.—Hearing of the charges of contempt preferred against Attorneys Dan Kelly and Albert G. Galen, who represented A. M. Alderson and W. C. Rae during trial of the Northwestern Trustee cases in the federal court here, was started this morning before Judge Bourquin, and up to the middle of this afternoon the United States district attorney's office had offered little beyond a showing that Mr. Kelly was seen in the Placer hotel bar with Juror Charles Brown of Jefferson county, who had known him since boyhood, one night during the progress of the trustee company trial. Questioning of Mr. Brown developed the fact that District Attorney E. K. Wheeler was in the bar at the same time and that the juror did not know just who in the crowd assembled there paid for the drink. Taking of testimony is continuing this afternoon.

KING GEORGE OPENS PARLIAMENT SESSION

house of lords was set apart for wounded soldiers. For the first time in the history of parliament the importance of the foreign press was recognized by the allotment of seats in the press gallery to correspondents from allied and neutral countries.

The weather was clear and crisp, and as the royal procession passed from Buckingham palace to the house of parliament dense crowds lined the streets.

The King's Speech.

King George's speech follows: "For the third time in succession I summon you to your deliberations in the midst of war. Certain overtures of which you are aware have been made by the enemy with a view to opening peace negotiations. Their tenor, however, indicated no possible basis of peace. My people throughout the empire and my faithful and heroic allies remain steadfastly and unanimously resolved for reparation and restitution in respect to the past and guarantees for the future which we regard as essential to the progress of civilization.

"In response to an invitation by the president of the United States of America, we have outlined, so far as can be done at present, the general objects necessarily implied by these aims. Threats of further outrages upon public law and the common rights of humanity will but serve to steel our determination more.

Army and Navy Ready.
"During the winter months my navy has maintained unchallenged its ceaseless watch on the seas and enforced with rigor the blockade of the enemy. My armies have conducted successful operations not only in Europe but in Egypt, Mesopotamia and East Africa. They are fully prepared to renew the great struggle in close and cordial cooperation with my allies on every field. I trust their united efforts will carry the successes already won to a victorious conclusion.

Relations in the Empire.
"I invited representatives of my dominions and my Indian empire, which have borne so glorious a share in the struggle, to confer with my ministers on important questions of common interest relating to the war. These steps so taken will, I trust, conduce to the establishment of closer relations between all parts of the empire.

"You will be asked to make necessary provision for effective prosecution of the war. Accomplishment of the task to which I have set my hand will entail unsparring demands on the energies and resources of my subjects. I am assured, however, that my people will respond to every call necessary for the success of our cause with the same indomitable ardor and devotion that have filled me with pride and gratitude since the war began. I therefore confidently commend to your patriotism the measures which will be laid before you and I pray that Almighty God may give His blessings to your counsels."

Military Aspect.
The scene within the house of lords as King George made his speech presented a striking military aspect in contrast to the usual civilian procedure. The king wore a uniform of an admiral of the fleet. The escort of his majesties was distinctly military or naval, with Admiral Jellicoe, first sea lord; Lieut. Gen. Sir William Robertson, chief of the imperial general staff, and Field Marshal Viscount French, commander-in-chief of the armies in the united kingdom, and others in full uniform, these high officers replacing the usual train of court functionaries.

Peers in Khaki.
Even the ranks of the peers took on a martial aspect, at least half of the members being younger peers from the front in khaki. Of 50 peers massed at the left of their majesties, 31 were in khaki.

Walter Hines Page, the American ambassador, occupied a front seat in the diplomatic box to the right of the throne.

COBBE-BESHTENT.
Ralph J. Cobbe and Miss Rosa Beshtent were married by Justice Buckley last evening at 720 South Dakota street. A large number of friends attended the ceremony.
