Her subject, "The United States should require two years of military training of all male citizens between the ages of 19 and 23," was well handled. She sketched the defenseless condition of the United States and argued that the adoption of the proposed policy offered an effective means of preparing the country for war.

FINNISH TRIO IN FIGHT TO FINISH

Lane is Free, Johnson Must Pay Costs and Kujala is Bound Over.

Three Finlanders found the tables reversed and the cards stacked against them when they appeared in Justice Buckley's court today. Oscar Lane, who was accused of striking Erik Johnson over the head with an axe, was dismissed, and the evidence showed that he was not guilty of an assault but instead was assaulted and stabbed by Frank Kujala, who was involved in a three-cornered fight Lane won the court decision, however, when Justice Buckley turned him loose and assessed the costs of the action against Erik Johnson.

Frank Kujala, who was a witness for Erik Johnson, was arraigned on a charge of assault in the second degree, committed upon Oscar Lane on Feb. 3. Lane showed that he was stabbed twice in the shoulder by Kujala.

As a result Lane was turned loose, the costs of that action will be paid by Johnson, and Kujala was held over to the district court to stand trial.

Kujala, Lane and Johnson became engaged in a fight in an East Park street saloon. As Lane was holding Kujala between himself and Johnson to ward off Johnson's attack, Kujala broke into the proceedings and they all went outside, rolling in a heap on the sidewalk. When they were pulled apart Lane discovered that he had been stabbed twice by Kujala.

MORAN IS GUILTY OF GRAND LARCENY

Jury Deliberates But 15 Minutes—Sentence Will Be Pronounced Friday.

Frank Moran was found guilty of charges of grand larceny by a jury in Judge J. V. Dwyer's court late this afternoon, after being out for 15 minutes. County Attorney Joseph R. Jackson and his deputies, Frank L. Riley and T. E. Downey, prosecuted the case. A. C. McDaniels represented the defendant. Moran was charged with stealing $53 from the person of Dennis Brennan in the Roma saloon on Jan. 9. He will appear for sentence at 10 o'clock Friday morning. The testimony in the case was concluded this morning.

Dennis Brennan, a prospector, said that he met Moran and the latter asked him to buy him a drink and he took him to the First and Last Chance Saloon, where he purchased a couple of drinks for the defendant. Brennan said that Moran next asked him to buy him a meal, which he did. Afterwards Moran wanted another drink and he took him to the Roma saloon, where he bought him a drink. After he had paid for the drink, Moran, the witness said, slipped his right hand into the hip pocket of witness and took his pocketbook containing $53.

Carl Lre said that he saw Moran put his hand in Brennan's pocket and take the pocketbook. He positively identified Moran.

Detective James Casey told of receiving a description of Moran and of arresting him about 7 o'clock in the evening on South Main street.

Moran when put on the witness stand in his own behalf declared that he was never in the Roma saloon and that he never saw Brennan until after he was arrested. He denied that he took the money from Brennan and said that at the time he was accused of taking the money he was in the John Theis saloon on Main street.

This concluded the case on both sides.

TROY MINING DISTRICT LOOKING UP THIS YEAR

Are Spending Money on Mining Equipment to Develop the Togo Properties.

Extensive development of the Euro-roka copper prospects near Troy are looked for during the coming year, according to mining men who arrived today from that section of the state. The Togo Mining company of Troy is already making extensive improvements to the property and will develop 500 horsepower by the installation of a flume at a cost of $11,000. The property has shown some excellent copper and galena ore and with its exclusive water right on Callahan creek has every prospect of making a big mine out of the property.

With the completion of the hydro-electric plant a 10-draft compressor will be put in operation and development work will be rushed.

At present the boys are taking lessons in knot tying and first aid work. They must be able to do the eight knots to qualify as scouts. George Taylor was named assistant scout master, Fred Allen, patrol leader; Matt Brown, Howard Bowden and Eddie Tippett, members of the troop committee.

J. Frosty of 355 West Pacific street is reported to be ill.

Dr. Husser of Hill county has returned to the office of state daily commissioner. It passed on third reading H. B. 328, to regulate artesian wells.

The following bills were favorably recommended by the house: H. B. 268, to provide for the licensing of peddlers; H. B. 285, permitting stockholders of cooperative associations to vote by mail; H. B. 359, to empower county commissioners to create special improvement districts, and H. B. 286, providing for the regulation and control of certain public utilities.

Motion is Lost.

Rising to a question of personal privilege, Dr. Husser of Hill county this afternoon in the house moved that the privileges of the floor be denied the Rev. Joseph D. Pope, head of the Antislavery league in Montana, upon the grounds that Mr. Pope's bulletin contained aspersions reflecting upon the integrity of the house. The motion was lost after a sharp debate.

Dr. Husser objected to statements appearing in the bulletin relating to the action of the house concerning certain prohibition bills. He branded the statements as uncalculated, unwarranted and reflecting upon the integrity, not of one member, but of the whole house.

Demel defended Mr. Pope, saying he did not care what he said, that he was perfectly willing to have his record on roll call go before the people. Dr. Husser replied he did not care either, that he sent out six copies of the daily house report, showing his vote on roll call, but that the attack was entirely unwarranted that the prohibitionist had made.

Finally, after more debate, the motion was voted down.

AMENDMENT PASSES.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 20.—The woman suffrage amendment bill was passed by the assembly today without debate by a vote of 124 to 10.

HOUSE AND SENATE ON VERGE OF WAR

Diplomatic Relations All But Broken Off When Senate Takes a Recess.

rule, for the present. Whiteside, on the other hand, admitted that the situation demanded some action by the senate. He declared that it was no use to get into a schoolboy wrangle at this time, particularly as the rules authorized the appointment of such a committee as suggested by the house communication. Then a motion to adjourn until 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning was offered and it carried by almost a unanimous vote. That disposed of the issue temporarily with first blood scored by Senator Edwards.

What Might Happen.

That is the situation right now. These probably will be developments. The story is gaining ground that 28 senators have formed a coalition which has sworn not to change the rules in respect to the consideration of new house bills after the 50th day, except appropriation and revenue measures and bills in conference. Twenty-eight senators of one mind could do as they liked, and if they held to this plan, it would mean that the house could send to the upper body none of scores of bills pending in that body.

Already members of the house are talking about retaliating. This afternoon some of the representatives were inclined to kick back at the senate. They called attention to the fact that a large number of senate bills were still unacted upon in the house and that if the senate declined to consider any house bills that should now be sent to the upper body the house could refuse to act upon the senate bills still in the hands of house committees or on the house calendar.

Some went so far as to say that the house might decide not to even send the appropriation and revenue bills to the senate. This would mean an extra session, but that kind of talk isn't taken very seriously. The opinion prevails that a compromise will yet be reached.

Takes a Recess.

In the meantime the senate sets what is believed to be a precedent by taking a recess for half a day toward the latter part of the session. The house had an afternoon session, but somehow it fell up to form. The house held no night session last night, many of its members preferring to attend the Elks' charity ball. This morning it did not accomplish much and this afternoon it spent most of its time in committee of the whole.

In the senate this morning Edwards created a diversion by attacking the editor of the Montana Daily Record, Dr. O. M. Lanstrum, who was not mentioned by name. The opportunity for this attack came when Junod moved that S. B. 168 be printed. This bill restores to the state land board the power to appoint examiners and clerks, an authority removed by a bill previously passed. Edwards opposed the motion, saying that it had been suggested by a member who was merely the tool of the editor of the Montana Daily Record. Then Edwards paid his respects to the editor. It was plain that he didn't approve of the Helena newspaper or its management.

In the end the bill was ordered printed. It takes a one-third vote to print and the motion to refer to the printing committee carried by a vote of 12 for and 14 against.

His Job Saved.

In committee of the whole the house killed H. B. 203, abolishing the office of state daily commissioner. It passed on third reading H. B. 328, to regulate artesian wells.

The following bills were favorably recommended by the house: H. B. 268, to provide for the licensing of peddlers; H. B. 285, permitting stockholders of cooperative associations to vote by mail; H. B. 359, to empower county commissioners to create special improvement districts, and H. B. 286, providing for the regulation and control of certain public utilities.

Motion is Lost.

Rising to a question of personal privilege, Dr. Husser of Hill county this afternoon in the house moved that the privileges of the floor be denied the Rev. Joseph D. Pope, head of the Antislavery league in Montana, upon the grounds that Mr. Pope's bulletin contained aspersions reflecting upon the integrity of the house. The motion was lost after a sharp debate.

Dr. Husser replied he did not care either, that he sent out six copies of the daily house report, showing his vote on roll call, but that the attack was entirely unwarranted that the prohibitionist had made.

Finally, after more debate, the motion was voted down.

AMENDMENT PASSES.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 20.—The woman suffrage amendment bill was passed by the assembly today without debate by a vote of 124 to 10.

OUCH!

"That ouzel is certainly a conceited fellow," remarked Smith. "He is the biggest egotist I ever met."

"Well," replied Jones, "it is his business to be an I specialist, isn't it?"

PRESIDENT MAY GO TO THE LIMIT

The Grievances of This Country Against Germany Are Outlined.

The Post's Washington Bureau. Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—The United States now has four principal grievances against Germany and if it comes to the worst and hostilities are declared no one of these grievances singly but all of them collectively will be the cause of war.

If President Wilson goes back to congress for authority to use force in maintaining the rights of American citizens he will not base his request on any one phase of the present relationship between this government and the German empire. Whatever request he shall make will be based on all the grievances that have developed since the two nations severed diplomatic relations. These grievances as they exist today may be summarized as follows:

1. A continuance of the ruthless submarine warfare by Germany. 2. The treatment of United States Ambassador Gerard, after the ambassador had received orders to ask for his passports, and the obstacles that are yet being placed in the way of American getting out of Germany. 3. The creation of a situation due to Germany's attitude which has resulted in all ships flying the American flag being detained in port in contravention of the right of neutrals to free access to the high seas.

4. The uncalculated detention of American relief expeditions to Syria and Belgium. Immediately after diplomatic relations between the two governments were severed the thought of the authorities here undoubtedly was that the president would not go back to the congress seeking authority to use extraordinary means unless an overt act was committed by Germany. It was assumed that nothing short of the sinking of a vessel, which resulted in loss of American life, would constitute an overt act.

This view no longer obtains here. The authorities at the nation's capital unquestionably now are of the opinion that unless something shall take place shortly to ease off the present tension by eliminating the more important of the grievances that have developed, the president will be obliged to go to the legislative body and lay before it what may be called an accumulation of acts on the part of the German empire that are in contravention of the rights of the United States.
