Its History.

The Emanuel Evangelical Lutheran church of Butte was organized on Jan. 26, 1916, at Carpenters' union hall on Granite street, by 27 persons, who thus became the charter members, many of whom are still active members of the church. The Rev. E. C. Frisk of Helena, Mont., presided at this meeting and Mr. N. P. Shullin was elected secretary. A constitution and by-laws were adopted and officers elected.

The church organization took the form of the so-called "church society," organized Feb. 1, 1896, by Rev. A. G. Anderson, and which under Rev. N. P. Shullin's care and leadership had grown and prospered and now could give birth to the above named church. A short time afterwards a lot located at Montana and Silver streets was purchased, on which a little frame building was erected.

Following the need of a more commodious and better equipped church building in progress in the work was made, the congregation met in October, 1915, and after a wholesome session of this matter unanimously decided to build a new and modern church, which would care for its growth for some years to come. A building committee was elected and authorized to take the work in hand. The Rev. E. C. Peterson, under the supervision of E. C. Peterson.

The new church was designed by the architect, Mr. John E. Seauquist, and is of the Gothic style throughout, with concrete and brick construction, with a practical basement, equipped with janitor rooms, kitchen, library, social and Sunday school room and a heating plant. The church covers the lot of 35 by 70 feet and has a seating capacity for the accommodation of about 300 people.

On Nov. 12, 1916, the corner-stone of the new church was laid by the Rev. L. A. Johnston, president of the Montana Synod of the Lutheran church in North America.

Since its organization the congregation has been served by the Rev. A. Gustafson from 1898 to 1900, by the Rev. J. E. Shipp from 1900 to 1902, by the Rev. J. W. Nyvall from 1902 to 1905, by the Rev. P. O. Anderson from 1905 to 1912, and the Rev. A. N. Anderson, the present pastor, assumed his duties as pastor of the church in November, 1915.

The congregation takes pleasure in welcoming all friends of the Lutheran faith to worship and will be glad to have them unite with the church.

OHIO LAWMAKER HAS SIMPLE PLAN

Introduces Resolution to Bring About Change in Method of Voting.

The Post's Washington Bureau. Washington, March 10.—Representative E. D. Ricketts of Logan, O., has introduced an interesting resolution to simplify the election of president and vice president by doing away with the electoral college and still retaining the electoral vote of the states. Mr. Ricketts has made an exhaustive study of this subject and his plan, while in some respects novel, is regarded by experts as one of the most workable yet devised for the election of president and vice president by the direct vote of the people.

Concerning his resolution, which provides for an amendment to the constitution of the United States, Representative Ricketts made the following statement: "An elector has, in reality, no function to perform. It is true that the electors of a state meet and cast their votes for president but, notwithstanding this fact, the voters who elected these electors had already, and prior thereto, expressed their choice for president in the election previously held. This action of the electors of the state is a mere formal matter, without any real significance except that the electors might betray the trust and confidence which were reposed in them and vote for another candidate, not the choice of their party. This action on their part never has occurred, so far as political history discloses, except once. In 1872 one liberal republican in Missouri voted for David Davis, an independent. Yet it is not impossible that such action might not again occur in close elections."

Washington, the father of our country, is also the father of the electoral college. He had hoped that political parties would never come into existence, but his wish has not been realized. "Many voters go to the polls with their eyes fixed upon the man who shall support for president and vice president, but when they secure a ballot and go into the secret booth they are confronted with a long list of names of electors and are immediately confused. This they do not appreciate and in many instances they go away from the polls somewhat in doubt as to whether or not they have expressed their choice for president and vice president."

"Besides, if this amendment should be adopted, as I sincerely believe it will, there would be no such thing in the election of president as a divided electoral vote from any state in the union. Four years ago the electoral vote of California was divided. This year the electoral vote of West Virginia was divided. Since 1872 the electoral vote of 11 states has been divided in presidential elections and any one knows that it was not the intent and purpose of the voters of these states to have a divided electoral vote."

"This amendment will shorten the ballot and give the voter an opportunity to vote directly for president and vice president, and not only so, but will be a great saving to the states in the expense of holding elections. The printing bill will be less and the clerical and executive duties of clerks and judges, respectively, will be greatly lightened and the result of the election will be more promptly announced and absolute certainty as to the result of the election will be secured, for the reason that the election will be conducted by officials, under oath and bond, which makes up the election machinery, while under the present system of presidential electors no oath or bond is required of the electors but they are trusted upon their honor by the party which selected them."

"Under my proposed amendment the candidate for president and vice president receiving the highest number of votes in each state for each office shall be entitled to receive the electoral vote of such state for such office, which electoral vote shall be equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state is entitled in the congress of the United States. This system simplifies the whole process of presidential elections and insures to the voter the privilege of voting for the candidate of his choice in a direct manner."

"I have had in mind for some time to introduce this joint resolution and to that end have given this subject that degree of research and sincere consideration which such an important subject well deserves."

Worms Make Children Fretful.

SECRETARY HAS EYE TO FUTURE

Wants Resources of Country Conserved for Use in Case of War.

The Post's Washington Bureau. Washington, Mar. 10.—Senator Henry L. Myers of Montana, chairman of the senate committee on public lands, has just received from Secretary Franklin K. Lane a letter in which the secretary of the interior suggests an important measure of military preparedness, as follows: "My Dear Senator—In view of the general realization that it is now time to make plans for national defense, I take the liberty of suggesting that you consult with the chairmen of the committees on military and naval affairs to see if it is not practicable to have the lands which are at present locked up, containing oil, phosphate and potash, released under a leasing system. We have some 6,000,000 acres of possible oil lands so withdrawn that no wells can be bored upon them. Only the lands now held in private ownership are producing. We should be about the business of discovering what these withdrawn lands contain. Gasoline is invaluable to the army and navy, as well as to every automobile owner and to the owner of every other gasoline-driven engine in the country. The largest deposit of potash in the world, which is fundamental in the manufacture of explosives, is also out of use because withdrawn, and we have some 3,000,000 acres of phosphate deposits in the same situation. The development of these resources can be made effective by passing a leasing bill."

"As to the prospecting of more extensive oil reserves for the use of the navy, would it not be practicable to authorize this department, or some other, to drill for oil upon some of those great reserved tracts which have not already been proved? The expenditure of a comparatively small amount of money might in this way secure for the government an insured oil supply, as well as be an effective regulation against increasing prices."

IRISH REGIMENTS MANY OUTSIDE OF

John Redmond Quotes Statistics to Show Part Ireland Has in the War.

Dublin, March 10.—In a letter read at a luncheon to the officers of the Irish Canadian Rangers on their visit here, John Redmond quoted statistics to show the large number of Irishmen who had enlisted in the army outside of the Irish regiments. The Irish leader said: "From Ireland itself, according to the latest official figures, 173,772 Irishmen are serving in the navy and army, representing all classes and creeds among our people."

"From careful inquiries made through the churches in the north of Ireland and Scotland, from the casualty lists, and from other sources, the calculation has been made on high authority that at least 150,000 sons of the Irish race, most of them born in Ireland itself, have joined the colors."

"In Great Britain it is a pathetic circumstance that these men are almost forgotten except when their names appear in the casualty lists of non-Irish regiments. Some of the Irish papers have for a considerable time past been publishing a list of special casualty lists under the heading 'Irish Casualties in British Regiments.'"

Mr. Redmond was unable to personally greet the Rangers, being confined to his home partly through illness and partly through the shock of his daughter's death in New York.

That Thomas Hickey succumbed to valvular heart trouble and not strychnine poisoning was the conclusion of a jury summoned by Coroner Lane yesterday to inquire into the aged watchman's death. The man was in ill health for several months prior to his death and had not been able to leave the house for weeks. Doctors testified at the inquest that the body showed no evidence of strychnine poisoning.

They were working under timbers when a huge rock fell from the back through an aperture in the lagging and struck Byrne on the neck, inflicting a smash which almost decapitated him. Searles, who stood two feet away, escaped injury. Death was almost instantaneous.
